Pa. Holstein breeders meet in Altoona

SWD Valiant ET tops sale at $130,000

Pen-Col Chairman Dede-ET was high selling female at the 1984 Pa. Holstein Convention Sale. She sold for $41,000 to the Dede Synicate.

BY LAURA ENGLAND

ALTOONA — A SWD Valiant sired embryo transfer (ET) calf sold for a whopping $130,000 to lead the 39 head of cattle sold at the 1984 Pa. Holstein Convention sale at the Altoona Sheraton Wednesday night

The first consignment on the sale block, bidding for the yet unborn calf began at $100,000 and quickly climbed to the $130,000 mark. The successful bidder of the ET was the Cordova Syndicate in care of Rappaport

Sired by Valiant, five ET calves are due in June and August, and the Cordova Syndicate will have its choice of the first male calf. The dam, Mowry-K Starlite Cordova-ET, is an excellent cow owned by Kenneth R Mowry of Roaring Spring. As a 4-year-old, Cordova produced 42,840 pounds of milk at a 4.0 butterfat test.

The high bidding on Cordova's Valiant ET male helped boost the sale total to $478,000 for an average of $12,276 per head.

The second high seller was a Cal-Clark Board Chairman ET daughter, Pen-Col Chairman Dede-ET. The 7-month old calf was consigned by Dennis Wolff, Millville, and sold for $41,000 to the Dede Syndicate in care of Lewis Berkley.

Dede's dam, Pen-Col Wayne Deena, scored very good at 88 points as a 5-year-old and carries a three year record of 32,226 pounds of milk at 4.1 percent butterfat. A maternal brother to Dede, Pen-Col Dazzler-ET, sold for $100,000 at the 1983 National Holstein Sale

Burket-Falls Maretta-Red-ET, consigned by Burket Falls Farm, East Freedom, was third high seller at $35,000. The 3-year-old Vincent View Molly Chief daughter was bought by Ronald A. Wasson, Pine Grove Mills.

Maretta scored good plus at 84 points and produced 15,792 pounds of milk with a 4 4 percent butterfat test as a 2-year-old Her dam, Burket-Falls Star Minerva, has consistently averaged over a 4.0 butterfat test for seven lactations.

Other top sellers were: Nixonacres Conductor Arlinda, consigned by Dale W. Hoover, Martinsburg, and bought by Howard Hammand, Corry, for $25,000; Dumbelle Conductor Sadie, consigned by Dumbelle Farms, Landisburg, and bought by Rebecca A. Reisinger, Elliotsburg, for $15,500; and Shelmar-Acres Nugget May, consigned by Shellenberger Bros., Mt. Joy, and bought by Paul J. Wangsness, representing Penn State's Department of Dairy and Animal Science, for $13,500.

Selections for the sale were made by James E. Howes, Warriors Mark, and Michael D Weimer, State College Auctioneers were R. Charles and Horace A Backus.

National nominee

Direct marketers gather in Lancaster

BY TRISH WILLIAMS

LANCASTER — Direct farm marketers from Pennsylvania, Maryland, New Jersey and Delaware convened this Tuesday through Thursday at the Host Farm Resort for an informative session on selling their produce directly to consumers.

The three day conference provided participants with a variety of educational sessions on merchandising, advertising, promotion and personnel management. But probably as much information was exchanged outside of the formal program, in informal conversation between growers

The Mid-Atlantic Direct Marketing Conference has come to be known among farm marketers as a forum for exchange of ideas. Many solutions to problems common to marketing were swapped by those in attendence.

Participation from Delaware growers was low this year because farmers were discouraged from attending by the Delaware Department of Agriculture due to the Avian Influenza plaquing Lancaster County.

Over 30 commercial exhibitors displayed their products and services in an accompanying trade show. Exhibitors included vendors of complementary food products, equipment dealers, and manufacturers of food packaging. Between formal sessions and during free time conference goers toured the display area to see the latest products in marketing and merchandising.

A tour of three direct farm markets located in Lancaster County was first on the conference's busy agenda. Included on the tour was Cherry Hill Orchards Outlet, Pine View Acres, and Lancaster Central Market.

Cherry Hill Orchards Outlet. located in New Danville, is owned and operated by Richard Haas. Haas is a veteran in the fruit and vegetable business. With more than 25 years of production experience he decided to open up his own retail store rather than selling his produce wholesale. He opened his new farm market in August 1982. He received financing for the attractive store from the Pa. Department of Agriculture's Farm Market Loan Program. This a low interest loan program started by the department to encourage farmers to market their own goods directly to consumers.

With more than 150 farm markets in the county, Haas thought it more distinctive to call his store an outlet than a farm market. He said, outlet better denotes what we are trying to do here, produce fruit and vegetables and provide them for sale at a better price to the customer.

Former dairyman, Ray Bratton selected as Cattleman of Year

BY LAURA ENGLAND

BOALSBURG — The 1984 Cattleman of the Year, selected by the Pa Cattlemen's Association, is a dairyman turned cattleman who bought his first herd of Charolais in 1964.

Ray Bratton, of McVeytown, said smiling that he was "tired of the seven day a week routine" but wanted to stay in farming. His choice was beef cattle.

Bratton and his wife Susan currently raise a 250-head herd of purebred Charolais cattle. The breed, Bratton said, is an efficient producer of red meat and is in good demand. These qualities prompted him to raise Charolais

Along with his switch from dairy to beef, Bratton joined cattle organizations and has been active in the industry. He is treasurer of the Pa. Cattlemen's Association and is a director of the Pa. Charolais Association. He is also a director of the Colonial Charolais Association and is its past president.

Bratton received his honor during the Pa. Cattlemen's Association banquet held at Boalsburg Feb. 17. A committee of cattlemen J. Paul Espy, Les Burdette, Ralph Dotterer and Rose Sceneider selected Bratton from among the state's beef producers

In other honors, 19-year-old Heather Schofield of Millerstown, Juniata County, was selected the 1984 Cattlemen's Queen. The daughter of Michael and Imogene Schofield, Heather grew up on a sheep farm but fell in love with beef cattle while in seventh grade.

A Penn State sophomore, Heather has shown cattle in 4-H and someday hopes to have a purebred Angus herd. This she plans to accomplish through her accounting degree which she is gearing towards work in agriculture.

"I want to get my CPA," she said, "and then work in the

Delmarva Poultry

Thursday, February 23

Report supplied by USDA

Market Comment: Movement on RTC whole birds ranges from fair to good and is generally sufficient to keep most plants in satisfactory balance. Breasts and cutlets are adequate overall, but an improved call was noted in some quarters. Other items in good balance and clearing fairly well.

Slaughter schedules are moderately heavy. Live supplies are light to mostly adequate. Weights remain irregular, but overall the weights have increased. Undertone steady.

Today's L.T.L. asking prices are unchanged on U.S. Grade A at 61-67 cents.

Estimated slaughter of broiler fryers in Delmarva (000).

Estimated 2/23 1,920; Actual 2/16 1,809; Actual 2/21 1,911; Average Weights 2/21 4.28; Average Weights 2/14 4.32.

Philadelphia Eggs

Thursday, February 23

Report supplied by USDA

MARKET COMMENT: Prices are unchanged to higher on mediums, unchanged on the balance. Cartoned egg movement is fair to good with the best demand centering on retail promotions. Large and heavier weight eggs are fully adequate to ample. Mediums are adequate at best. Undertone unsettled on large, steady on mediums.

Prices to retailers: sales to volume buyers, consumer grades white eggs in cartons delivered store door:

A Extra Large .99-1.03; A Large .98-1.02; A Medium .89-.93.

THE OLD FARMER'S ALMANAC

FEB. 27-MARCH 4, 1984

The door to March shows snow inside.

Women have the say this Leap Year Joe Louis retired March 3, 1949 New moon March 2 (Fri) Average length of days for the week, 11 hours, 14 minutes Lindbergh baby kidnapped March 2, 1932 First Victory Ship launched Feb 29, 1944 Revolutions are not made, they come

Ask the Old Farmer: Would you give the origin and significance of the placing of an "eagle" over the front door of a home? S R , Fort Wayne, Indiana

It is said that the Norsemen hung scalps of wolves, horns of animals, and other relics of the chase over their doorways a thousand years ago Our notion is that the eagle, of wood or metal is an adaptation of this ancient custom

Home Hints An old wire eggbeater makes a good paddle for stirring and mixing paint

OLD FARMER'S WEATHER FORECASTS

New England: Seasonable temperatures with snow in the north start the week, cold, then snow mid to end of week

Greater New York-New Jersey: Beginning of week brings cold temperatures with flurries, clear and cold midweek, snowstorm likely at end of week

AGRI-VIEW

BY DICK ANGLESTEIN

Next to the crowded, uncomfortable conditions in airplanes, the worst experiences in agricultural travels are found in rental cars. O J. Simpson and Arnold Palmer may always get the ideal vehicle, but I was never that lucky

Here are a few recollections concerning rental cars during ag ramblings

The first lesson I learned was to never pull a vehicle with a catalytic converter into a wheat field during harvest I did it in Kansas and started a little straw fire Now, a lot of big wheat farmers burn off their fields, but they like to wait until the harvest is over

If you ever read the fine print on the back of a car rental contract, it specifies that the vehicle is not to be operated off paved roads Well, it's pretty hard to film and photograph combines or other machinery at work from a paved highway

Once during a swing through the South I learned the true meaning of Mississippi mud Driving out a levee, I suddenly ran out of paved road and soon was mired in some thick gumbo -- not the eating kind It took a few hours to work the car back out and the first stop was a car wash where the vehicle was bathed inside and out

The car was strill a mess when it was turned in and that was the first time - but not the last -- I got docked extra by Hertz for operating off a paved road

And then there was the time in Illinois, or was it Indiana We were out filming combines in specialty crops One of the crops was popcorn being grown for that guy you see on TV -- Orville (funny last name)

Well someone in the camera crew got the bright idea to try and pop some of the corn by dropping kernels down the defroster vents and turning the heater on full blast

Needless to say, it didn't work But that was another time that Hertz didn't find much humor in our escapades and tacked an extra charge on the bill for removing the corn that clanked and bounced around every time someone turned on the heater

And what does this have to do with the 1985 Farm Bill Not much really, except providing a different way to introduce some comments about it

Preliminary talk about the bill has already begun in Washington and I hope that the heat of campaign rhetoric doesn't overshadow common sense and dumb mistakes aren't made like pulling a hot car into a field of straw

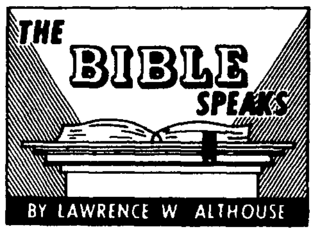
Also, as each faction of agriculture sumbits input, I hope that the whole process doesn't get bogged down in biased details and drafters of the bill lose sight of the general overall modernization that is needed in ag legislation

And, finally you gotta admit it's pretty dumb to try and make popcorn in a car heater All you get is a lot of noise and a bill to rectify the stupidity Also, it's been pretty dumb for the government to continue to try and solve the farm surplus problem with stop-gap temporary measures that have failed time and time again

SO LONG, TRISH

This is Trish Williams' final issue with Lancaster Farming She has moved on to the American Dairy Association in Towson, Md

If Trish brings the same enthusiasm and freshness to the job of promoting dairy products that she displayed here, perhaps some progress finally will be made at whittling away at those surpluses



THE SECRET OF PLEASING GOD

February 26, 1984

Background Scripture:
Isaiah 58 and 59.
Devotional Reading:
Isaiah 59:1-15.

If you handle this one carefully, you'll be okay.

After all, much of what the Prophet Isaiah is talking about in Isaiah 58 is the practice of fasting, something that is likely a "non-issue" for 99 and 44/100% of those who will read these words.

So, as long as Isaiah talks about something that's outside our religious experience, we're safe from guilt, aren't we?

SPARE NOT!

No, not really.

For fasting is not the issue in Isaiah 58. The issue is insincere worship and hypocritical religion. If you're a non-faster, you're not necessarily excluded, because anytime we practice hypocrisy, we stand under God's judgement.

But surely you can't mean that we might be hypocritical?

Why not? It is one of humanity's more prevalent spiritual sicknesses. In my own life, I've seen the symptoms far too often: saying one thing and living another. I've attempted to trade-off to God some respectable religious practices as substitutes for doing what God really wants from me.

Are you sure you've never experienced these same symptoms in your own life? If not, you must be a very singular person, because hypocrisy from time to time afflicts all of those who profess to serve the Lord. It is in our human nature to frequently talk a better game than we play.

Since [illegible] prevalent among us, the only thing to do is to be vigilant so that when it occurs in our lives, we may spot it and root it out before we lose our capacity to see it for what it is. And we frequently need help. As the Prophet says, "Cry aloud, spare not" (58:1).

THE FAST HE CHOOSES

It is important for us to realize that Isaiah was not condemning the practice of fasting. It is a valuable spiritual discipline. What he condemned was the practice of using it as a substitute for living in a manner that pleased God. So it is with lots of our practices today: regular church attendance, participation in church activities, bearing responsibilities in the congregation, making a pledge to the church, putting a sticker on your car's bumper.

There is nothing wrong with any of the above. All of them are valuable religious acts — so long as they are not substitutes for doing what really pleases God. And what is that?

...to loose the bonds of wickedness, to undo the thongs of the yoke, and to let the oppressed go free...Is it not to share your bread with the hungry, and bring the homeless poor into your house...? (58:6,7)

Actually, there's nothing very secret about pleasing God. It's a secret we all know. But there's a gap between knowing and doing.

To Use Quality Seed

Many people are making plans for the 1984 growing season. In these plans, we should be preparing to use the very best quality seeds possible. Leftover seeds may be satisfactory if properly stored. If they are certified or top quality seed to start with, it would be a good idea to run a germination test to be certain they will grow. This can be done with the old, but still effective, "Rag Doll" method (wrapping seeds in rolled-up moist rags or by placing seeds in a dish on wet paper towels, cover with plastic, and keep in a warm place for at least 10 days. If these seeds do not grow under either of these tests, don't rely on them for your crop.

Certified seed may cost a little more in the beginning, but usually is worth the difference.

To Consider Topdressing Wheat

At this time, we are not certain how our wheat crop will survive the winter elements because we still have March to contend with. And March, with its freezing and thawing conditions, is one of the hardest months on wheat.

In any event, topdressing wheat with nitrogen will generally result in an extra 10 to 12 bushels per acre. This can result in extra profit to the grower.

The ideal time to topdress wheat is just when it begins to "green-up" in the spring. This will generally occur in the middle to latter part of March. However, wheat can successfully be topdressed earlier in March when the ground is "honeycombed". Be cautious of highly fertile land that has received a lot of manure in the past. This kind of land does not need additional nitrogen.

Most wheat varieties can use between 40 and 50 pounds per acre of nitrogen. There are few activities around the farm that can return more profit, with less input, then topdressing wheat with nitrogen.

To Store Supplies Properly

Many farmers have purchased and accepted early delivery on seeds, fertilizers, and other supplies. It is very important that these supplies are stored properly. I have seen bags of fertilizer stored too close to a barn door or an open window where the rain and snow blow in; also seeds in similar conditions. Extra moisture on these materials, or under them on a damp floor, can seriously affect quality. It's also very important to keep seeds away from weed killer chemicals These herbicides may reduce or kill the germination of the seed Be sure to store all farm

Apple Market News

Tuesday, February 21
Report supplied by PDA

Because of your Apple Marketing Board's 12/3# Polybag promotion currently going on, demand for bagged apples is up this week. After a rather poor showing a week ago, traypack apples are showing a marked increase this week over last week. Prices remain stable. Apple sales for last week, from nine packer-shippers, shows movement of 22,930 cartons of bagged apples and 3,837 cartons of traypacked apples. Because of the National Peach Council Meetings now being held, some of the growers-shippers were not able to be contacted for a report and consequently, it is safe to assure that the figures for bagged apples is lower than it really is. Your Board feels, from the figures reported during the past two weeks, which was the order period for the promotion, that our goal of 100,000 cartons can be achieved. Thanks to all of you who have helped in this promotion.

UNIPEL® 13-34-10
fertilizer can get your corn crop off to a super start:

It has a high concentration of water-soluble Phosphorus that gets to young seedlings quickly Helps plants establish a good root system – the starting point for top yields. Its quick-acting and long-lasting Nitrogen team up to feed the young plants for full yield potential, continually from sprouting to harvest

This is the Starter Special that corn growers know from good experience It's highly effective as a banded starter. And it's SAFE . no chance of ammonia damage to tender, young seedlings when used as a "pop up" and applied directly with the seed at 50 lbs./acre

How can we fit UNIPEL 13-34-10 into your corn fertility program?

WORKER B'S.

Nothing works harder than our B-Series tractors. They range from 12 to 19 hp. So there's one for every job.

And with a hydraulic 3-point hitch, front and rear PTO, these tractors can handle a variety of implements.

Like every Kubota tractor, B models come with your choice of 2- or 4-wheel drive. Plus a sturdy, low-maintenance Kubota diesel engine.

There are special features you can choose from, too. Like hydrostatic transmission for the ease of no-shift one-pedal control.

So if you're looking for a hard worker, look no further than Kubota's worker B-Series tractors.

Twenty $1,000 scholarships offered

BY SALLY BAIR
Staff Correspondent

LANCASTER — The Farm and Home Foundation of Lancaster County has announced that it will offer 20 scholarships worth $1,000 each to qualified applicants in the fields of agriculture, home economics and nursing. The scholarships will be available to students enrolling as freshmen in any accredited college or nursing school.

The amount represents an increase of $250 over the amount offered over the last several years. The bulk of the scholarship funds come from the Elmer Esbenshade Trust fund and must be awarded to agriculture and home economics students. The Foundation supplements those funds to offer additional scholarships in nursing.

Students are selected on the basis of financial need, scholastic achievement and leadership abilities. They must reside in Lancaster County to be eligible. Specific information about the scholarships as well as applications can be obtained from any high school guidance counselor or from Jay Irwin at the Penn State Extension office. There will be a mid-April deadline for applications.

In its reorganization, the Board elected Evelyn Hess, 817 Waterfront Drive, Lancaster, president; Lawrence H. Skromme, 2150 Landis Valley Road, Lancaster, vice-president; Sally B. Bair, R 2, Columbia; secretary; and George Lewis, R 3, Mount Joy, treasurer All officers serve a one year term.

Too much fertilizer is message at Crops Day

BY DICK ANGLESTEIN

LANCASTER — Many farmers are using too much fertilizer, particularly in areas of high livestock concentrations like Lancaster County

This message came out loud and clear from Penn State Extension agronomists at the Lancaster County Crops and Soils Day program at the Farm and Home Center on Tuesday

Perhaps Joe McGahen, Extension agronomist who spoke on corn production, said it in its most simple and straight-forward terms.

More corn yields these days are being hurt by high fertility than low fertility," McGahen said

"Use soil tests and don't blindly follow the standard recommendations for certain desired yields

'Soil tests can just as well tell us when not to fertilize as when we should fertilize."

McGahen explained that farmers' number one challenge in the next five years will be to learn how to manage manure properly as a natural resource to grow crops

Pa. Alfalfa Growers Program participants from Lancaster County are Don Hershey, left, and Nelson Wenger, both of the Manheim area.

IUM FARM SEED

Five-Acre Corn Club participants in Lancaster County include, from the left, Harold L. Brubaker, Strasburg, Luke Brubaker, Mt. Joy; Karl M. Hess, R6 Lancaster; Dennis Eby, R1 Gap; and H. Grant Troop, R3 Quarryville.

We're going to have to learn how to keep this manure on the land and not having it flowing down some stream "

The proper management of manure and the addition of commercial fertilizer only when soil tests call for it was cited by McGahen as the chief way in which farmers can make their corn growing more efficient since fertilizer accounts for the biggest single input

Another area of high input is machinery The Pennsylvania Five-Acre Corn Club program has found that most participating farmers are over-invested in machinery

McGahen showed examples from farms where NPK values in the soils were already much higher than needed for maximum corn yields He cited one farm where a soil test showed 1150 lbs of phosphorus

Such high rates can tie up various micro-nutrients and work against achieving high yields, he explained.

McGahen also explained some visual means of checking corn to determine when it is at its peak of maturity for harvesting

He suggested following the milk line on the kernel -- the dividing line between the white and the yellow coloring The milk line starts in the dent stage and moves from the crown of the kernel to the tip When it reaches the tip, the white disappears completely and a black layer forms and it is the time of maximum yields

When the milk line is about at the halfway point on the kernel,the moisture is at about 40 percent and it will take about three more weeks to reach full maturity and about 25 percent moisture But at the half-milk-line stage, some 90 percent of dry matter weight is already in the grain

Elwood Hatley also covered proper fertilization rates in his discussion of small grains and ways to improve -particularly wheat and barley yields through better management

Studies with wheat in Lancaster County have shown that nitrogen fertilization rates are often too high On farms where chicken manure is used, it was found that no additional N is usually needed. Infrequent manuring might require about 30 pounds of N and no manure up to 90 lbs. N.

Barley requirements are even lower.

In various management practices to increase cereal grain yields patterned after European practices, the greatest single response has been found from planting in narrower rows of less than seven inches

Also, it has been found that Bayleton is only economical when top leaves show evidence of mildew during the middle stages of plant development

In a brief discussion of Federal Crop Insurance for 1984, it was pointed out that forage will be added as a new crop to be covered this year. Alfalfa and alfalfa-grass mixture will be covered and can be insured against all natural disasters, including being rained on while in the windrow.

Also, it is planned to begin to base coverage for crops on the individual yield history of a particular farm rather than on county yield averages.

John Yocum of the Southeast Research Farm at Landisville spoke on the perennial broadleaf weeds that are increasing on area farms.

Much of the problem is due to efforts to control them with herbicides in spring or early summer instead of at the bloom stage in the fall when they are most susceptible. And also, the rates of use of herbicides in the spring are not high enough to do the job because of the fear of killing crops.

"Spraying in the spring only kills the top of the weeds and suppresses them, but they soon build back up," Yocum explained.

He suggested controlling the weeds by planting small grains and then using the heavier rates of herbicides after the grain is off. Or controlling after cutting an early corn hybrid for silage.

But he suggested the best method is to spot spray as clumps of weeds show up and avoid the later higher cost of a full spraying program.

Awards were given to the Lancaster County participants in the Five-Acre Corn Club and Alfalfa Growers Program by County Agent Arnold Lueck

Corn growers:

Harold L Brubaker, Strasburg, 164 bushels with DeKalf-Pfizer XL71 He also received an award for a three-year average of 174 bushels.

Brubaker Brothers, Mount Joy, 144 bushels, with Pioneer 3184.

Karl M. Hess, New Danville, 129 bu. with DeKalb-Pfizer XL61.

Dennis Eby, R1 Gap, 120 bu. with Pioneer 3358.

R. Edwin Harnish, Nine Points, 117 bu. with Migro HP470.

H. Grant Troop, R3 Quarryville, 111 bu. with DeKalb-Pfizer XL71.

Alfalfa Growers:

Don Hershey, Manheim, 8.3 tons of hay equivalent with a Pioneer variety seeded no-till in soybean stubble in the spring of 1982.

Nelson Wenger, Manheim, had 7.9 tons per acre with a Hoffman variety that was seeded with conventional tillage in the spring of 1981.

Christian Smucker of Intercourse had 7.6 tons with a Conestoga variety.

Milk minimums suspended

In compliance with the Decision of the Commonwealth Court dated February 13, 1984, all minimum prices on two percent, one percent, other lowfat and all skim products, are suspended immediately, on sales within the marketing area defined as Area 1, both Zones.

All other provisions of the Milk Marketing Law and Regulations of the Board appended thereto, as well as the Milk Producers' Security Funds Act, shall remain in force.

The remaining provisions of Official General Orders A-821, A-829 and A-832, shall remain in effect for Area 1; all other General Orders of the Board for other areas of the state shall remain in effect unchanged.

York County Shives are totally into Angus

BY JOYCE BUPP
Staff Correspondent

SEVEN VALLEYS — Angus cows graze serenely across the hill behind the Gordon Shive family's rancher at Seven Valleys R1. Inside, dozens of bright ribbons - heavy on the shades of blue and purple line the walls of the dining room. And just down the road, at his parents' farmhouse, an attractive sign announces "Shives Angus Farm."

Gordon Shive, his wife Diane, and their three daughters, Chris, 17; Cathy, 12; and Robin, 10, are totally "into" Angus cattle. In fact, the activities of the Shives are so mingled with the purebred black beef that the state breed association named them the Angus family of the year, at the group's annual meeting during Farm Show week.

Shive grew up on the Dan Shive family's general farm, with its three milk cows, flock of chickens, steers and hogs. When he was 12 years old, Shive joined the 4-H program, raising steer and hog projects.

"Actually, I did better then showing Berkshire hogs," he remembers, adding that their daughters have done far better showing beef cattle than he did in his 4-H career.

He and Diane, daughter of a Hanover-area farm family, continued exhibiting hogs after the couple had married. Chris was just six weeks old when she traveled along for her first York Fair visit, while the Shives competed in the Berkshire show.

Gordon's father, Dan, found his interest in beef cattle growing; and he and his son many years ago together purchased a couple of purebred brood cows.

Dan Shive became a sort of "industry pioneer" back in 1964, when he was the first county beef producer to experiment with wintering his herd outside in the pastures, at the suggestion of the then-fledgling assistant extension agent Tony Dobrosky. The move initially earned Shive raised eyebrows from neighbors and headlines in farm publications.

Grandpa Shive took his little granddaughter, Chris, along to a 4-H beef meeting one night, stirring her interest to the point that, just as soon as she was old enough, the youngster signed up as a member.

That first steer might have discouraged a less determined rookie. He never tamed down, but remained so jittery and wild that Chris finally exhibited a heifer instead, winning two small ribbons.

"I wasn't discouraged," Chris says. "I didn't know any better."

Today, all three of the Shive children "know better," as their dozens of ribbons and rosettes, won each year attest.

The family was the county's first to exhibit at the national junior Angus show, beginning in Louisville in 1977. Since then, they've attended other national junior exhibits in Indianapolis, Nashville, and Georgia, where in 1980, Chris' spirited brood cow, "Killer," was chosen reserve champion bred and owned heifer.

This past year's junior successes put Cathy in the spotlight, with SAF Queen Dolly 42, a heifer from one of Dan Shive's cows. She topped all heifers for the championship at the state junior breeders show at Centre Hall, won both the junior and open class at the York Fair, and wrapped up the year by winning the junior show at the Keystone International. At the Farm Show, Cathy was again a winner with the mediumweight champion steer.

Robin was out "helping" with the beef cattle when she could barely toddle around, and is considered by the family as their true "animal lover." They vividly recall the scares she gave them by calmly standing under the older girls' steers and playing near the legs one particular animal known for her quick feet.

During her second year of 4-H, Robin showed her showring mettle by winning the champion middleweight honors at the annual Adams-York roundup this past November, while Chris copped the champion heavyweight and reserve grand ribbons the same day.

Now, the Shive family has added open class competition with the purchase of Clarimont Barbara 99C, an embryo-transplant heifer they call "E.T." Owned in partnership with Pleasant Valley Farms of Lebanon, Bill Holloway and Dr. Joe Calderzaao, the typey heifer is housed at the Shive's show beef barn, adjacent to their home on the farm.

Plans are to flush and transplant embryos from "E.T.," possibly breeding her with some of the top young sires that have been winning at the Louisville and Denver national shows.

Having started at the bottom of the Angus show competition, the Shives agree that competition within the breed is getting "tougher each year."

To keep up with the constantly improving breed, calves selected for show must have good size, but be structurally correct. Purchased animals are generally selected at 10 to 12 months of age, and many of the bought 4-H animals in recent years have come from Rally Farms in New York.

Shive insists on femininity in heifers, plus a long, clean neck and a good stride.

Success with homebreds begins the moment they hit the ground. Each calf is weighed and measured, with follow-up measurements taken each month and added to individual records. At the seven-month weaning period, a first selection of potential show calves is made.

Each calf is tied and fed individually, with feed weighed carefully so that records will reflect gain efficiencies. From the initial dozen or so calves selected as show candidates, about eight usually emerge for top consideration as show season nears.

While tied, calves are brushed and worked with regularly so that they become accustomed to being handled. Brushing daily goes a long way toward overall fitting of the animal, which the Shives feel plays a large role in showring success. Wetting down of the coat, as well as brushing, is added to the daily schedule over the summer.

Regular walking sessions teach halter obedience, plus muscle and condition show entries. A Shive daughter out walking her steer is a common sight in the rural neighborhood, especially just before major shows, then mile-long treks help polish steer finish.

While there are slower seasons between shows, beef breeding and exhibiting is definitely a year-round business.

"There's no real break any time," Chris admits. "We get new animals about October, while we're still working with the roundup and Farm Show entries. Then when those shows are over, it isn't very long until spring calving and preparation for the first shows!!

The Shives' herd presently includes 26 cows and calves, but spring calving will soon boost that total. Sires favored for use include "High Guy," the sire of the Denver show's champion bull and female, "Pine Drive Big Sky," and the popular "Ten," officially named "Rosebank Connection 69."

Peak of the breeding season falls in June, a month also busy with haying and hauling cattle to shows. Shive credits their high conception rates to his dad's spending "48 hours every day with the cattle," and the Atlantic technicians who handle all their AI work.

While the row of show banners, rosettes and ribbons has lengthed considerably over the past few years, this family's goal is to continue upgrading their herd.

"We still have some cows I'm not happy with," relates Shive. "We want the kind of cows that will throw calves with eye appeal, and that will both show and sell."

Individual cows are enrolled in the Angus Herd Improvement Registry (AHIR), an association program which computes information on genetic potentials of mothering ability, based on weight and feed gain data.

Merchandising includes consigning to the Pennsylvania Angus sale, scheduled this year for March 9 at the Farm Show building. Their entry in this year's lineup of 90 head is a May heifer bred to "Big Sky." She was the reserve champion at last year's Pennsylvania Junior invitational show.

"It's a quality sale with a good reputation," Shive says of the sale that pulls in buyers from many surrounding states. He credits Lancaster extension agent Chet Huges, formerly with the State Angus association, with helping establish the high-quality consignment auction.

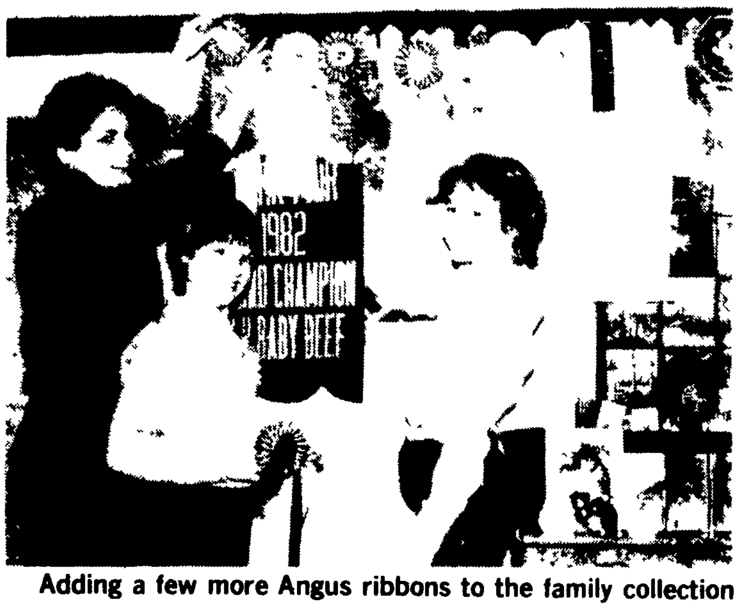
Junior members also use the sale as a fundraiser, auctioning off semen from some of the country's top bulls, donated by the sires' owners. Last year, the juniors earned $5,000 toward their activities, and they're now working to accumulate a fund for hosting the Eastern Regional Junior show in 1985.

During 1983 Farm Show activities, Chris was named the state's Angus queen, spending many hours of the ensuing year promoting beef, speaking to various events and handing out ribbons. She was one of the key figures in working with the promotional events surround "J.D.," the record-setting York County Farm Show steer champion purchased by Art Glatfelter and then donated back to the county's youth.

A noted 4-H public speaker, Chris has won state honors for her speeches many of them focusing on beef or beef products, and on promotion. Cathy, too, is polishing her public speaking skills and won a blue ribbon at regional 4-H competition on her beef tattooing demonstration. Animal lover Robin exhibited her project independence by skipping public speaking and concentrating instead on hatching out baby chicks.

Angus-related activities fill a large part of the Shive's family time. Diane is treasurer of the state association, and Gordon serves as a director and advisor for the junior group.

And, while ribbons, rosettes and banners are fun to collect, what the Shive's value far more are the friends they have learned to know and fellowship they have shared through the Pennsylvania Angus Association.



Adding a few more Angus ribbons to the family collection are, from the left, Chris, Robin and Cathy Shive.

Both Gordon and Diane Shive are active in the Pa. Angus Association — he as a director and she as treasurer.

The Systems Approach of Hershey Equipment lets you put it all together

Todays profit minded poultry, swine, and grain producers must think in terms of an automatic system.

"System thinking" can help you plan away problems before you begin, or it can help you automate away problems you now have.

Hershey Equipment Co. is geared to provide all components of the system including equipment, plumbing, electrical and building. This will assure that the pieces will fit together to form a profitable system.

Land contractors hold session

ELVERSON — Contractors from Montgomery, Lancaster and Chester Counties met recently in Elverson to swap experiences, hear plans for contractor certification, and to visit with exhibitors of related conservation materials. The pilot program, sponsored by the Land Improvement Contractors Association (L.I.C.A.), attracted more than 60 participants.

Willis Stauffer, Denver, former President of Penna. L.I.C.A. and a Director of the National L.I.C.A. was a prime planner of this first program. Stauffer anticipates that other L.I.C.A. chapters will use this workshop as a model.

Bernie Morrissey, Ephrata, L.I.C.A. Insurance representative, was moderator for the day's events. He also arranged many of the details of the program. Lunch was furnished by State Equipment, Lancaster, Giles and Ransome, Philadelphia, Cleveland Brothers, Harrisburg and Case Equipment, Mechanicsburg.

Chuck Storm of AT&T and Charles Fabo, Division Engineer with Texas Eastern Pipe Line, credited contractors with good safety records because of their use of the "One Call Service". This is a service for any contractor who plans an earth moving job. The "One Call" by the contractor will alert utilities to digging activities that would damage service. If a pipe line or a telephone line is near the digging area, a representative will be sent to stake out the line.

Storm indicated that a break in the main AT&T cross-country cable would represent lost revenues of more than $10,000 per minute. Repair costs would add to the total bill. Charles Fabo told the group that a break in the Big Inch or Little Inch Line would mean destruction and instant death to anyone within 300 feet of the break.

Other exhibitors included Dormac Co., York, geotextile fabrics and Certain-Teed Company with plastic drainage tubing.

"Contractors would save time and thereby lower costs to their customers by becoming "certified", explained Elbert Wells, District Conservationist, Chester County SCS. Those contractors willing to meet the standards and specifications established by the Soil Conservation Service, U.S.D.A., would be permitted to check out their completed work. The contractor's work would be spot-checked by SCS technicians to insure that high standards were continually carried out. "This would permit the SCS technicians to work with more District Cooperators in a given period of time", Wells explained. Tim Smail, Soil Conservationist, SCS, West Chester, did an evaluation form to provide guidance for SCS cooperation with the contractors.

Horse meeting on Thursday

FLEMINGTON, N.J. — "Business Management for Horse Farms" will be the topic of the Cooperative Extension meeting scheduled for Thursday at 8 p.m. at Hunterdon's Extension Center. This is the sixth and final meeting in Extension's winter series.

Speakers will be Robert Latimer, Rutgers' Farm Management Specialist, and H.N. Repair, Somerset County Agricultural Agent. They will be reporting on a research study conducted by the Agricultural Economics Department at Cook College.

Funk honored in Denver

DENVER, COLO. — Lancaster County's most avid agricultural conservationist, Amos Funk, was recently honored by the National Association of Conservation District for his outstanding contributions to the NACD and its objectives.

Funk was presented with NACD's Special Service Award at the association's 38th Annual Awards Program held Feb. 8 at the Denver Hilton.

Milton E. Mekelburg, NACD president, presents Amos Funk and his wife, Esta, with the Special Service Award at the NACD national convention in Denver.

He has given a lifetime of service to the conservation movement on the local, state and national level. His farm in southern Lancaster is a model for conservation, with terraces, waterways and conservation tillage methods protecting the soils.

As a member of the Pennsylvania State Conservation Commission from 1963 to 1974, and 1980 to the present, Funk was instrumental in expanding state assistance to conservation districts for the purpose of hiring professional staff to assist the volunteer district directors. As chairman of his conservation district, Funk led a conservation effort which resulted in 70 percent of the landowners in his community becoming conservation cooperators. He has served actively as a member of the NACD Research Committee, Chairman of the Northeast NACD Research Committee, and Pennsylvania's representative on the NACD Council. He also served on the National SCS Research Committee.

In 1969, as a member of Governor Shafer's committee on agricultural preservation, Funk analyzed the special needs of Pennsylvania farms and supported the idea of a deed restriction which would restrict prime agricultural land use to agricultural purposes. Since 1979, Funk has served as Chairman of the Agricultural Preservation Board of Lancaster County. As a result of his efforts, four Lancaster County townships are now forming an 11,000-acre Agricultural Preservation Area.

Distinguished junior members named during Holstein Convention

BY JOYCE BUPP
Staff Correspondent

ALTOONA — Sandra Houser, Spring Mills, and John Burket, East Freedom, were named senior division distinguished junior member winners during Thursday's awards presentation at the Pennsylvania Holstein Convention in Altoona.

The pair will represent Pennsylvania in the national distinguished junior member contest, with winners to be announced at the annual convention in St. Louis in June.

Other finalists in the senior division were: Barbara Green, Warriors Mark; June Bechtel, Curryville; Constance Ohlinger, Mohrsville; Bradley Ludwick, Sugar Grove; William Lesher, Bernville; and Scott Troutman, Myerstown.

Sandra Houser, age 20, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jay Houser, Centre County. A junior at Lock Haven University, Sandra is majoring in secondary English education and is a member of the Dean's List.

In addition to her college activities, Sandra is a vital part of her parents' Penn-Dell operation. She is an active part of the Centre County Dairy Princess Committee and currently owns 15 registered Holsteins. Sandra has been involved in the Junior All-Pennsylvania Contest, and the PJHA Production Contest.

The other senior winner was John Burket, the 1983-84 president of the Pennsylvania Junior Holstein Association. He is an active member of the family at Burket-Falls Farm, East Freedom, Blair County.

More Holstein Convention news on A38.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. David Burket, this 19-year-old owns 20 registered Holsteins, 18 of which are homebred. He has sold or leased nine bulls into AI service in the United States or Canada.

This was not the first honor won by Burket. He is probably the only person to have the grand champion Holstein for 4-H for three years in a row at the State Junior Dairy Show. He has had many Junior All-Pennsylvania and All-Pennsylvania recognitions and All-American nominations.

John is currently a sophomore at Penn State.

Junior division winners were Jennifer Weimer, New Oxford, and Fred Hoch, Shippensburg. Other junior division finalists were Beverly Myers, Chambersburg; Patricia Bupp, Seven Valleys; and Thomas Eckstine, Mercersburg.

Jennifer Weimer is the 15-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Weimer, New Oxford, Adams County. Jennifer presently owns nine Holsteins and is an important part of the Weim-Sharr Holstein Operation.

Jennifer is a sophomore at New Oxford Senior High School where she is enrolled in vocational agriculture. Winning comes naturally to Jennifer who took grand champion honors in both 4-H and FFA divisions at the State Junior Dairy Show.

Also winning in the junior division was Fred Hoch, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul E. Hoch, Shippensburg, Cumberland County. This 15-year-old is a sophomore at Shippensburg Area Senior High School. He is a member of the Shippensburg FFA Chapter where he was awarded the Star Greenhand Award in 1983.

He is the historian of his chapter and is on the judging team. Fred is also a member of the Blue Mountian 4-H Club and currently owns nine registered Holsteins.

Like the other winners, Fred has done well with his animals. This year he took the reserve junior champion at the South Central District FFA Show. He went on to place fourth with the same junior yearling at the State Junior Dairy Show.

Other winners in the junior division were the Bedford County team that won the Holstein dairy quiz bowl. They are: James Over, Angelique McDonald, Robert Mowry, captain, and Becky Mohre.

The Perry County Senior Dairy Bowl team won state competition and will represent the Pennsylvania Holsteion Association at the national contest in St. Louis in June. They are: Joe Albright, Kim Kriebel, captain; Daniel Albright, Irene Benner.

Holstein junior milk and fat production awards went to Irene Benner, Sandra Houser and Sandy Shuman, Connie Ohlinger, Jim Houser, Matt Castrogiovani and Bill Davis.

Minor, Baxter & Merwarth elected officers of PHA

BY TRISH WILLIAMS

ALTOONA — The slate of newly elected officers to serve the PHA with two-year terms was announced Thursday at the PHA annual meeting by Marion Alsdorf, retiring president. Elected to serve as president of the Pa. Holstein Association was Sam Minor of Washington County. Arthur Baxter, Mercer County was elected to the position of vice president. Timothy Merwarth was re-elected as treasurer.

In his parting remarks Alsdorf thanked the membership for the honor and privilege of serving as their president for the past two years. He said that he was turning the organization over to Minor in good financial condition. Although PHA operated in debt in 1983, Alsdorf said that increased export sales in the last quarter of '83 has put the organization back in better balance.

Speaking on the present status of the dairy industry, Alsdorf referred to the Dairy Opportunity program as the "Disaster Order" and said he saw no permanent value in it.

"We have been our own worst enemies by not learning to sell more," he said.

Alsdorf said he would rather see a base-quota system put in place similar to Canada's.

Newly elected president Sam Minor by contrast has contracted to reduce his production through the new dairy program.

Executive Secretary William C. Nichol, reported that milk promotion will receive major emphasis in 1984. PHA will support the concept of a Pennsylvania milk promotion program.

Nichol said the year ahead looks extremely promising for export sale of catte. Shipments are already being planned. Nichol stressed that a strong junior program was essential for the long range success of PHA.

John Cope was nominated in a caucus as Pennsylvania's nominee for national director. Don Seipt is retiring after eight years in the post. Cope was given the official vote of confidence as Pa.'s 100 percent supported nomination.

Deputy Secretary of Agriculture, Chester Heim, in an address to the group, assured them that marketing Pa. products was the number one priority of the present administration. He also reported that the Pa. Department of Agriculture is working vigorously to design a Pa. milk promotion program that would allow dairymen who are not presently in a promotion program a means to contribute. He gave no time table for the new program.

Steve Wilson, of Sire Power, was introduced as the new director of sales. He will be filling the position vacated by Mike Weimer. Wilson grew up on a registered Holstein farm in Iowa and is a graduate of Iowa State University.

Members voted to accept a resolution to support a voluntary milk promotion program in Pennsylvania to be administered by a board of dairy farmers representative of those contributing to it

I'm a DEKALB-PFIZER dealer and a dairyman. Economics plays a big part in my operation. That's why choosing the right alfalfa is such a big decision.

My alfalfa is DEKALB Brand 120. DEKALB-PFIZER said it was a top performer and they're right. It gives my cows a fine stemmed, leafy hay and more tons per acre.

You can count on 120 for winter hardiness—even after a season of tough weather. This seeding will last me for a few more years.

120 is topping state yield trials all across the country. With that kind of record, and my own experience, I'm proud to recommend it to my customers. Sure, I put more money into 120, but I get it back, cutting after cutting So will you

Georgia offers $1,000 Avian flu reward

GAINESVILLE, Ga. — Georgia Poultry Federation is offering a $1,000 reward to any person who reports information regarding the illegal movement of live poultry or birds into Georgia from the avian influenza quarantine areas in Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Maryland and Virginia.

Both federal and state Departments of Agriculture regulations prohibit the movement of any live birds into Georgia from the quarantine areas, and the reward is being offered as an incentive to those who may have knowledge of possible violations.

"We are very concerned about the risk of introducing the avian influenza disease into Georgia, and we hope this reward will encourage those with information about the movement of birds from the quarantine area into our state to come forward," said Abit Massey. Executive Director of Georgia Poultry Federation.

The reward would be paid after Georgia Department of Agriculture and federal officials — acting on information provided by the informant — locate birds and determine that there has been a violation. Officials or employees with responsibilities in the area of poultry regulation would not be eligible to receive a reward. If more than one person furnishes information which would entitle them to receive the reward, it will be paid to the first person providing information.

Commission of Agriculture Tommy Irvin said he supported the reward offering and again emphasized his commitment and that of his Department to continue to do everything possible to ensure that the disease is not introduced in Georgia.

Persons with information may contact the Georgia Poultry Federation in Gainesville. 404/532-0473; the Georgia Department of Agriculture in Atlanta, 404/656-3671; or the U.S. Department of Agriculture in Conyers, 404/922-7860.

Quarantine area expanded

HARRISBURG — The Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture has expanded the area under state quarantine for avian influenza to include all of Lebanon County and an additional portion of Berks County north of Interstate Route 78 east to Route 61.

Deputy State Agriculturre Secretary J. Luther Snyder said the expansion would "provide a buffer zone with natural barriers around all known flocks infected with lethal avian influenza." The quarantine expansion had been considered after one flock was found in Lebanon County outside the area previously regulated by the state.

"The geography of these counties helped dictate the expansion," Snyder explained. "We want to insure that a buffer zone is in place around infected flocks, but at the same time, we do not plan to take actions which would unnecessarily restrict movement of poultry and birds in areas not now affected by the virus.

"The northern boundaries of Lebanon and Berks Counties follow mountain ridges, which form a natural barrier to spread of the disease," Snyder. said. "The terrain of the area is such that any further expansion of the state quarantine to regulate intrastate movement of birds could not be justified."

AVIAN INFLUENZA QUARANTINE RESTRICTIONS

Pursuant to the authority granted to the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture by the Act of 1929 April 17 P L 533, the Act of 1913, July 22 P L 928, the Act of 1929, March 28 P L 110 and appropriate amendments to said Acts and the Administrative Code of 1929 April 9 P L 177 No 175 Section XVII and in conjunction with the determination by the United States Department of Agriculture that an emergency situation exists (9CFR Part 81) The Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture imposes the following quarantine and rules and regulations to help prevent the further spread of Avian Influenza and imposes a general quarantine upon that portion of Pennsylvania beginning at the intersection of Interstate Highway 81 with the Pennsylvania-Maryland State Line then northeasterly along Interstate Highway 81 to its intersection with the Lebanon County Line then North and East along the Lebanon County Line to its intersection with the Berks County Line then East along the Berks County Line to its intersection with Rt 61, then South along Rt 61 to its intersection with U S 78 then northeasterly along Interstate Highway 78 to its intersection with the Berks Lehigh County Line, then southeasterly along the Berks Lehigh County Line to its intersection with the Berks Montgomery County Line then southwesterly along the Berks Montgomery County Line to its intersection with U S Highway 422, then southeasterly along U S Highway 422 to its intersection with PA Highway 100 then southerly along PA Highway 100 to its intersection with PA Highway 100 then southerly along PA Highway 100 to its intersection with the Pennsylvania Delaware State Line then southwesterly along the Pennsylvania Delaware State Line to its intersection with the Pennsylvania Maryland State Line, then westerly along the Pennsylvania Maryland State Line to its intersection with Interstate Highway 81

In addition to conditions imposed by the general quarantine all flocks and premises located within the Commonwealth known to be infected with Avian Influenza shall be placed under special quarantine After a special quarantine is established, it shall be unlawful for any owner or person without a special permit in writing from an officer or agent of the Department of Agriculture to sell exchange lease lend give away allow to stay remove or allow to be removed any animal or animals or any products goods materials containers vehicles cars conveyances or other articles on property named or described in an order of special quarantine (1929 April 17 P L 533 5)

Cumberland County Holstein Club presents awards

BY BETH HEMMINGER
Staff Correspondent

HUNTSDALE — The Cumberland County Holstein Club held its annual luncheon banquet and meeting last Saturday at the Penn Township Fire Hall.

The meeting was highlighted by the presentation of awards to the members and junior members of the club.

Receiving the first awards were the top-place winners at the South Central Holstein Show held annually at the Shippensburg Fair Grounds. Each of the award winners received a lamp with an engraved plaque on the base of the lamp.

Receiving the award for the first place owner-bred junior calf was Lori Davidson; intermediate heifer award went to Jennifer Reasner; senior calf, Mark Naugle.

Corlan Farms of Mechanicsburg claimed two top placings with their junior yearling and aged dry cow. Justa Beauty Holsteins captured their share of top winners with the first place senior yearling heifer, 4 year old cow and the 1000 pound class. The first place junior two year old was claimed by Manor Grove Farms. Winning the senior 2-year-old class and age cow class was Smithdale Farms. Le-Ida Farms won the 3-year-old and 5-year-old award, while Rebecca Dyarman captured the dry 3 and 4-year-old cow class.

The Club presented several outstanding junior members with awards for accomplishments in the club and dairy industry. Winning the Junior Distinguished Girl award was Michele Cornman and winning the Junior Distinguished Boy award was Brad Hock. Lori Davidson and John Stamy IV were selected as the Senior Distinguished Girl and Boy in the junior member competition.

Jeff Reasner, President of the Cumberland County Club announced that next year there will be an added contest for the junior members, the milk and fat contest.

Carolyn Myers, Cumberland County Dairy Princess, told the dairymen about the various functions she has participated in throughout the year. She stated that she has spoken to over 1,000 students in the County with the school promotion and encouraged all the members of the club to take part in the promotion program. Carolyn also noted that she has attended numerous store promotions, handing out dairy products and answering many questions about the dairy industry.

She noted that, "this is a great way to let the public know more about our product." Then, Carolyn encouraged each and everyone of the dairymen and their families to really get involved in these programs and thanked them for their total support during the past year.

Before the luncheon the club members were entertained by the gospel trio, "Love and Kindness" and after the meal and several committee reports, the audience enjoyed the delightful show of Rick Smiley and Company, a magic show.

The meeting was concluded with the announcement of the newly elected directors. The new directors are John Stamy, III, Mark Naugle and Steve Nealey. These new directors will be serving a three-year term.

Diversion names available

LANCASTER — Names of participants in the Milk Diversion Program are being made available to the public by county offices of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service on a county basis.

Only the names of participants will be released, no addresses will be made available. By releasing only the names ASCS is fulfilling its responsibility to the public's right to know, while protecting the privacy of the program participants.

Program participants are restricted to selling cattle for dairy purposes only to other Milk Diversion Program participants. Making the names available to the public will allow dairymen to find out to whom they may sell cattle.

Some of the county ASCS offices will charge a small fee for the list of names. Others will provide them free of charge.

NIR hay testing eyed

UNIVERSITY PARK — Adoption of national standards for uniform testing of alfalfa hay, using a procedure known as Near Infrared Reflectance, will be the focus of attention during the National Alfalfa Hay Quality Testing Workshop to be held March 22 and 23 in Chicago, Ill.

The Near Infrared Reflectance technique was developed at Penn State by John S. Shenk and associates, in cooperation with personnel of the Regional Pasture Research Laboratory, U.S. Department of Agriculture.

The National Alfalfa Hay Quality Committee has already adopted the Near Infrared Reflectance procedure for uniform testing of alfalfa quality. The committee is sponsoring the workshop to inform the public and all interested parties of the group's recommendations for uniform hay testing. Another key objective is a initiate trials of the procedure on a national basis.

Using a computer, the infrared scanner predicts within minutes the dry matter, protein, fiber, and total digestible nutrients of hay, grass silage, corn silage, cereal grains, and soybeans.

The March 22-23 workshop will be held at the O'Hare/Kennedy Holiday Inn.

Included on the workshop committee from the College of Agriculture at Penn State are Stephen M. Abrams, John E. Baylor, John S. Shenk, and William C. Templeton, Jr., Abrams and Templeton are among the workshop speakers.

Fruit growers to meet

PITMAN — The Schuylkill County fruit growers meeting will be held on Wednesday, March 14, from 9:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Mahantongo Fire Hall, Pitman.

Speakers for the meeting will be Robert Tetrault, Penn State Extension Entomologist; Robert Crassweller, Extension Pomologist; James Travis, Extension Pathologist; Kay Swartz, Pennsylvania Apple Marketing Board and Phil Gallo, Shemin Nurseries.

All fruit growers are invited to attend this meeting sponsored by the Schuylkill County Cooperative Extension Service. For additional information contact George P. Perry, Jr., County Agent - Horticulture, Schuylkill County Extension Service, P.O. Box 250, Schuylkill Haven, PA 17972

Australian dairying is entirely grass to milk

BY ROBIN PHILLIPS
Staff Correspondent

STATE COLLEGE — Following an afternoon of management lectures by Penn State personnel at the Dairy Herd Management Conference last week, dairymen were entertained Thursday evening by guest speaker, Dr. Graeme Mein, world renowned research scientist from Australia.

Dr. Mein has traveled throughout the world researching the milking machine and mastitis. Scheduled to lecture on his findings the next morning, Mein enlightened the audience with the differences between dairying in Australia and the United States.

Australia consists of 10 to 15 coastal cities separated by millions of miles of arid country. The population density is about four people per square mile. There are approximately 20,000 dairy farmers concentrated in the two major dairy states of Victoria and Tasmania. Average herd size is 100 cows owned and managed by one family.

"It's very much a family operation," Mein stated about Australia's farms.

"Australia can produce milk products more cheaply than anyone else in the world, with maybe one exception." "We can do this by turning pastures into milk."

In Australia very little concentrated grain is fed. Herds average 6,600 pounds of milk and 300 pounds of butterfat yearly. The basic price for manufactured milk is $5.40 per hundredweight. Prices ranging from $8.00 to $10.00 per hundredweight are received if the dairy is supplying major cities and prime areas, but $5.40 is the average price most dairymen receive.

Surplus pastures are harvested for silage and stored on open piles with cows feeding directly from the piles in fall and winter.

Mein also told farmers that there is less equipment used in their parlors and everything is kept as simple as possible. No weigh jars are used and the washing systems in the parlors use reverse flow cleaning. Over half the herds are milked in "walk thru dairies" and 80% of the new milking sheds being constructed are "eight to a side" herringbone setups. One man can milk 60 to 70 cows per hour.

The bigger dairies use a rotary system with two men milking 40 cows at a time. "It's an amazingly successful way to milk cows," Mein related. He also explained that the basic philosophy in Australia is, "for better or worse, you should be able to get done milking in an hour and a half."

Australians get no government subsidies. Subsidies were phased out several years ago, Mein said. "It's only what they can get out of the market."

All cows calve in August and September and all go dry at the same time too. Calf raising is left to the wives and only five to ten percent of the dairy farmers need to employ outside labor.

"One of the worst features of living in Australia," Mein went on to say, "are flys." "It's one of our worst problems by far." Big fans are used in ceilings to move air and flys. Sprinklers are also utilized on roofs to cool the roof and milkers and reduce flys.

Although Mein stated that there was a four-year drought that broke last spring, mud is still a big problem during the rains. Rainfall averages 20 inches a year with a 44-inch evaporation rate. "It's a very hot, dry climate," Mein stated about the fall weather.

During this time, bush fires destroy farms and cows.

"Southeastern Australia is the most bush fire explosive area on earth," Mein stated. The "super dry air" causes fires to erupt anywhere. Hard to control, they often wipe out entire herds and dairies before they are controlled.

To the attending dairymen, Mein posed this question, "if we fed the way you do, would our cows produce like you're used to?"

He answered yes to this question and also stated that New Zealand bulls come out very close to ours in production capabilities.

"Both have the genetic capability for higher yields," Mein stated.

"You probably grow your young stock out better than we do," Mein conceded. In Australia when young stock is weaned, they are put out to pasture and virtually forgotten, he related.

Having a history of predominantly Jersey cows, Mein also related that the breeds are changing the last several years. There is currently 65% Fresians with the rest being Jerseys or Jersey crosses.

Mein held everybody's attention throughout the evening with his light discourse and slide presentation. "That's when you realize how many varieties of English there are," he said when he started talking."

Traveling since February 7 on this trip, Mein spent time at the California dairies and also attended the National Mastitis Council meetings in Kansas. Plans are to continue to Canada, Paris, and Frankfort, before returning to his country.

Corn clinic scheduled

DUNMORE — The Northeastern Pennsylvania Regional Corn Clinic will be held Monday, March 5 from 10 a.m. - 3:15 p.m. at the Penn State Worthington Scranton Campus, Dunmore.

Speakers will include Joseph McGahen, Douglas Beegle, Richard Adams, and Tom Lanini, all Extension specialists from Penn State. Topics scheduled include weed control in corn, efficient use of lime and fertilizer, economics of grain feeding, corn vs. alfalfa for 1984, and lessons from the 1983 Penn State corn variety test plots.

All farmers who grow corn are invited to attend and lunch tickets can be secured from Extension Office in Lackawanna, Luzerne, Susquehanna, Wyoming and Wayne Counties. Participants are requested to make reservations by purchasing lunch tickets prior to March 1.

The clinic will also qualify as a training session for private pesticide re-certification.

agriculture field, possibly in ag taxation."

At Penn State, Heather is secretary of the Block and Bridle club and is a member of the Accounting Club and Beta Alpha Psi, the honorary accounting fraternity.

Her goals as the 1984 Cattlemen's Queen are to attend as many events as possible and inform consumers about beef products. She believes consumers have "too many misconceptions" about beef and need to be more aware of its economical benefits.

Heather was selected by judges Eugene Barefoot, Anchor Labs; Mary Wilson, chairman of the 1984 Beef Cook-off contest and Ann Coleman, a member of the Cattlemen's Association. Participating in the crowning ceremonies was the 1983 Queen Sheila Fairbairn, of West Chester.

Other contestants were: Melanie Hemminger, Somerset; Margie Hughes, Portage; Mary Parrish, Elizabethtown; Angela Pipher, Somerville, N.J.; Lisa Shaffer, Somerset; and Terry Simcheck, Cambridge Springs.

J. Paul Espy, Beef Council president, reported on the state's beef check-off program and said more beef producers need to get involved. "We have to get more money to get the job (promotion) done right" he said. "We could have $200,000 or more if everyone in the state participated in the check-off program."

Thirty-five states have check-off programs in which 25 cents to $1 is deducted per head from the market price. This money is used for beef promotion programs. Twelve of these states, including Pennsylvania, have voluntary check-off programs.

Espy said that restaurants are looking for western produced beef and "we have to counter this trend." Pennsylvania cattlemen, he said, can produce the beef needed for the state's restaurants and markets.

The Pa. Cattlemen's banquet was held in conjunction with the Penn State Beef Cattle Conference, Feb. 17 and 18. A two-day event, the conference featured topics ranging from the use of performance records to carcass evaluation. Speakers included Penn State professors and researchers Les Burdette, Erskine Cash, Thomas Drake, Clair Engle, Harold Harpster, William Henning, H. Louis Moore, Paul Wangsness, and Lowell Wilson.

Cattlemen also participated in the biennial conference in panel discussions. The first panel, which included Ray Bratton, James Cairns of Ligonier, Red Angus breeder; Erskine Cash of Centre Hall, purebred cattle producer; Conrad Grove of Downington, Angus breeder; and Roy Wallace of Plain City, Ohio, discussed their use of performance for herd improvement and merchandizing.

The second panel discussed procurement and merchandizing of beef. Louis M. Calvin of West Salem, Ohio, described the Angus Certified Beef Program, while Robert Summy of MOPAC, Souderton, described its large meat packing firm. Norman Painter of Elkland described his country slaughter house which specializes in freezer beef.

The topic "Our Cattle Programs" - Methods, Problems and Changes" was discussed by a panel including Ralph Dotterer of Mill Hall, a cattle feeder; J. Paul Espy of Tyrone, a cattle feeder; Paul Heffner of Gettysburg, commercial breeder and feeder; and Ray Bratton and James Cairns.

As National FFA Week Closes

Meet Pennsylvania's top two 'Stars'

Holding her 1984 FFA Star Agribusinessman Award, 17-year-old Jamie Frey, of R2 Quarryville, displays the other "star" awards which lead to her state title.

Jamie Frey - Keystone Star Agribusiness

BY LAURA ENGLAND

QUARRYVILLE — Seventeen-year-old Jamie Frey is a star.

No, she hasn't left her serene country home in Quarryville for the bright lights of Hollywood, but nonetheless the high school senior is a star.

Jamie, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Frey, R2 Quarryville, utilized her four years in the Solanco Future Farmers of America Chapter and her talents in the greenhouse business to win stardom - she is the 1984 state FFA Star Agribusinessman.

The only girl in her vocational agriculture class, Jamie said the school's FFA advisors had to talk her mother into letting her join the organization. It was a decision that the Freys can now be proud of.

It was through Jamie's greenhouse operation, which has received the support of her family for the past four years, that she qualified for the state agribusiness award. In fact, her father suggested the idea of a greenhouse operation while Jamie was a freshmen and looking for her first FFA project.

Jamie began her greenhouse venture with plans to specialize in ground cover crops. The idea sprang from a conversation her dad had with Rick Rineer, owner of Black Rock Nursery in Quarryville. Rineer suggested ground cover plants which are fairly easy to grow and are in demand market-wise.

Jamie got underway with her business after she and her father built the first greenhouse - a 100 by 35 foot structure. After that, it was time for planting, and Jamie chose to grow pachysandra, which is used in shady places receiving little light.

To get her first crop established, Jamie went to neighbors and friends and got cuttings from their pachysandra plants. The cuttings were planted in flats during the summer and were marketed the following spring. The first crop was a success as she sold all her plants.

When making plans for her second crop, Jamie took the suggestions of her customers to heart. "People asked for myrtle and ivy in addition to the pachysandra," she said, "and I decided to add those my second year."

A second greenhouse was added that year in addition to another business proposition. Jamie's younger brothers, Eric, now 14,

John Hauck - Keystone Star Farmer

BY LAURA ENGLAND

NEW BERLIN — John Hauck, a Future Farmers of America member at Mifflinburg High School in Union County, remembers his first speaking contest well.

He was a freshman competing in an area FFA contest and was addressing the topic of applying new techniques to a large farm. He was nervous and stage fright took control. "I couldn't express myself as well," he recalled, "and I placed last."

For John, the last placing did more good than harm. "It really got me going," he said, "and it broke the ice for other FFA activities."

The 17-year-old son of Phyllis Hauck and the late John Hauck Sr. of New Berlin, John has come a long way since that first speaking contest. He is president of his local chapter and the SUN (Snyder, Union and Northumberland counties) Area Chapter and most recently was selected the 1984 state FFA Star Farmer.

Receiving the Star Farmer award was something John thought he'd never get. "I was really surprised and nervous and didn't know what to think," John said of the day he received his award.

But looking at John's past and present FFA record gives one little to wonder about his qualifications for this state award.

John decided to enroll in the vocational agriculture program because he wanted to learn more about mechanics and apply these skills to his dairy farm background. His first projects included four Holstein heifers and a garden of sweet corn.

Not to be tied down to his projects, John also competed in tractor driving, dairy judging and public speaking contests. He was elected to serve as his chapter's assistant treasurer for the following year and was awarded the Star Greenhand award.

With his first year of FFA under his belt, John was ready for his second He maintained his four heifers, two of which were fresh and had had heifer calves themselves. He continued his home garden as well and added five acres of corn.

John was still just as eager to enter FFA contests and participated in ag mechanics, dairy judging, parliamentary procedures and land judging. It was in this contest that John received his last individual red ribbon; everything after that was blue.

For his accomplishments, John received the Star Chapter Farmer award and was elected chapter treasurer. He was nominated to the school's Honor Society and was looking forward to a good junior year.

However, some changes took place over the summer and John had to reevaluate his FFA program.

John's father, a used farm machinery dealer, died that summer and John had to take a new look at his farming situation. "The summer my father died changed a lot of things," he said. "I had to look at the farm and see what the whole operation involved "

Now looking at the farm in an overall view, John decided to keep a Pa. Farm Account Book on the family farm as his FFA project. This was done with the help of his uncle George, who was farming in partnership with his father.

John's farming program now included the whole operation - 200 acres of crop land and 40 cows.

In addition to his busy farm schedule, John continued to compete in area FFA contests and develop his leadership skills. He was named Union County Star Farmer.

As a senior, John continues to keep farm records and is looking forward to this spring's FFA contests. He is also looking into Penn State's two-year agribusiness program and says he would like to "hang onto the farm or get a job in agribusiness."

Although his speaking contest days are over, John is sold on parliamentary procedures and has high hopes for this year's state contest. The team placed fifth last year and wants to better its record

With John's leadership skills leading the way, that goal may be possible

Seventeen-year-old John Hauck checks one of the milking units used to milk the 40 cow Holstein herd.

With the aid of a computer used at Mifflinburg High School, 1984 FFA Star Farmer John Hauck can keep abreast of his farm records.

Dairy bowl teams compete at awards breakfast

BY TRISH WILLIAMS

ALTOONA — Pennsylvania Holstein Association's retiring President, Marion Alsdorf was presented with a symbolic key to the city of Altoona, a railroad spike, by Mayor David L. Jannetta, Thursday morning at the awards banquet.

Janetta told Alsdorf and attending Holstein breeders that he felt fortunate that PHA had selected Altoona as this year's convention city, and welcomed the convention to return in 1989 to the city.

Highlighting the awards banquet was the exciting final round of the dairy bowl senior division. In competition the day earlier two teams emerged from a field of 10 as the top contenders. The two teams who proved themselves most knowledgable were from York and Perry County. York team members were Leslie King, Patricia Bupp, Peggy Klinedinst and David Krone. Perry County team members were Joe and Daniel Albright, Irene Benner and Kim Kriebel.

Before a large audience the team members competed in two phases of competition. The first phase required each team member to answer three questions. In the second phase, questions were tossed out for the first person to ring a buzzer to answer. That takes quick thinking and a cool head.

The Perry County team took a slight lead in phase one of the competition, providing the correct answer to a question that stumped many of the people in the audience. But in phase two repeated rapid responses by Kim Kriebel took the Perry County team on to an overwelming victory. The Perry County team will go on to national competition in Louisville, Ky.

Chris Gitt, 1982 Distinquished Junior Member, introduced this year's finalist for the title of DJM. In the junior division they were, Patricia Bupp, Seven Valleys; Thomas Eckstine, Mercersburg; Fred Hoch, Shippensburg; Beverly Meyers, Chambersburg; and Jennifer Weimer, New Oxford.

DJM finalists in the senior division were, June Bechtel, Curryville; John Burket, East Freedom; Barbara Green, Warriors Mark; Sandra Houser, Spring Mills; Willian Lesher, Bernville; Bradley Ludwick, Warren Co.; Constance Ohlinger, Mohrsville; and Scott Troutman, Meyerstown.

Douglas Hershey, director of membership services presented the 1984 Membership Awards to individuals who solicited more than five new members in the last year. Recipients were, Norman Sollenbeger, Roy M. Cordell, Robert G. Flickinger, Wendell J. Smith, William Marteeny, Donald Ackerman, Roger Latuch and Dividend Holsteins.

The prestigious and much sought after Progressive Breeder Registry Awards were presented by Clarence Stauffer and Tom Dum, HFA consultants to the follow breeders, Keystone Farm, Easton; Richard H. and Marilyn B. Packard, Troy; Jefferson D. Yoder, Elverson; Marcove Farm, Martinsburg; John M. Umble and Sons, Atglen; Jay H. and Mary Houser, Spring Mills; Delaware Valley College, Doylestown; E. Wayne and Jed Beshore, New Cumberland; Robert S. Junge, New Tripoli; J. Ivan Smoker and Sons, Geneseè; Robert H. Kauffman, Elizabethtown; Keith E. Decker, Knox; Thomas Dum, Jr. and Thomas Dum, III, Landisburg; Joseph Hartle, Jr., Bellefonte; Wayne LaMont, Troy; and Willowland, Atglen.

Women's program provides educational theme

BY LAURA ENGLAND

ALTOONA — Dealing with social problems of growing old and learning to administer first aid to unexpected farm accident victims highlighted the Ladies Day Program of the Pa. Holstein Convention.

Planned with an educational theme, the program was held at the Eldolyn Terrace in Altoona, where the women were greeted with an array of handmade crafts items for sale. After having a chance to talk to the craftsmen and learn their skills, the women sat down to a lunch of dairy dishes and an afternoon of learning about aging and farm accidents.

First on the agenda was Dan Lago of the Penn State Gerentology Center who addressed the topic of "Social Relationships with Aging." These social relationships are important, Lago said, and a greater risk of illness or death exists if a person has a poor friendship or social network.

Lago said the highest risk group of women are those divorced or widowed. This group is a higher risk, he said, because they are under stress and are faced with coping with their problems. People in this group also die at much higher rates than other women of their age groups

"The loss of an intimate relationship makes widowship difficult," he said "If the person is missing a network of friends or intimate relatives, they are likely to have more problems."

Lago said some people, in general, are voluntary social isolates who are "plain old not seeing people." Again, this group faces a higher risk and are often dissatisfied with personal contacts and are lonely. He added, though, that people can feel lonely even while part of a crowd.

Social relationships are moving up in the list of concerns of the aging, Lago said. Most American families, he said, are doing a good job of taking care of older relatives but run into problems when trying to provide 24-hour constant companionship. Lago stressed that families don't need to do everything and suggested that older relatives volunteer time in organizations and other pastimes.

Providing training on first aid treatment for farm accident victims was Dr. Thomas Bem, emergency physician of Centre Community Hospital in State College. Dr. Bem said that farming is the number one high risk occupation in the United States and needs special attention to farm-related accidents.

Farming is a high risk, he said, because farmers work alone and for long hours where fatigue can set in. Farmers are also less apt to wear safety gear, he added

Dr. Bem provided information on the ABC's of any injury and explained how to treat accident victims The ABC's are to make sure the airway is cleared, that breathing is possible and that circulation is in order

The special feature of the women's program was a fashion show sponsored by the Blair County Historical Society. Titled "Bosom Buddies to Bustle" the show featured fashions up to the 1890's The fashions were recreations of original sytles worn during that time and Karl, 12, joined as partners to help with the planting and harvesting chores.

Today, Jamie's greenhouse operation consists of four greenhouses. Crops grown are pachysandra, myrtle, ivy and winter creeper. She sells her crops by flats at a wholesale price of $6.50 a flat and a retail price of $8.50 a flat.

Jamie currently has about 100 customers including landscapers and individual buyers. Last year she grossed $13,000 in sales.

Although her greenhouse business has been the driving force behind her FFA involvement, Jamie has participaed in area contests, has had leadership responsibilities and has recevied several awards.

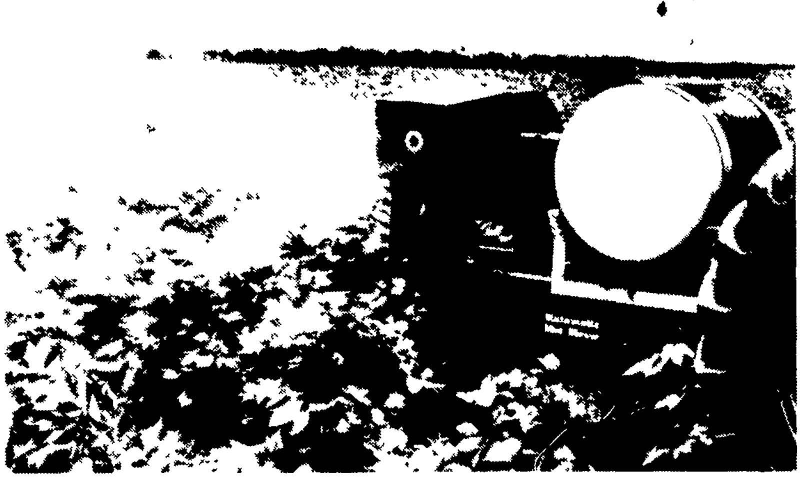
Jamie has received the Star Greenhand Award, the Star Chapter Farmer Award and the Lancaster County Star Farmer Award - all which she said lead to her Star Agribusiness Award. She has served as chapter sentinel, secretary and president and county secretary.

In addition to these, Jamie has participated in parliamentary procedures and public speaking contests and has won awards for her project book records.

Jamie plans to continue her greenhouse business after graduation this spring. After a year, she may attend college to major in horticulture or business.

But whatever she decides to do, Jamie said she has learned much from her greenhouse business and has learned skills she can apply in other areas. The profits come in handy, too, and Jamie will carry fond memories of a trip to Europe that she financed through her greenhouse sales

Automatic Micro-Mist Sprayer Controls Droplet Size



The Automatic Micro-Mist Concentrate Sprayer can be powered by the tractor pto for use on rowcrops, vegetables and orchards.

The Automatic Micro-Mist Concentrate Sprayer is a faster, more efficient, economical alternative to conventional boom and aerial spraying of rowcrops, vegetables and orchards.

It takes mist blowing techniques a step further by giving the operator the ability to control the diameter of the spray droplets and choose the diameter best for each particular spraying application.

Controlling droplet diameter results in increased effectiveness and reduced materials cost.

The smaller droplets of the Micro-Mister coat all sides of the target evenly, due to the powerful turbulence produced by the unit. The Micro-Mister effectively coats the undersides of leaves, reaches inside trees, even coats the back sides of fruit.

The compact size and the utilization of chemical concentrates by the Micro-Mister offers many advantages. The unit comes in models that can be powered by PTO on small tractors, or a gasoline powered skid unit that slides into the bed of any pickup. Because the Micro-Mister eliminates the need for cumbersome water hauling equipment that requires additional manpower and time-consuming stops for refilling, the Automatic Micro-Mister saves both time and money.

The Automatic Micro-Mister can offer effective coverage up to 250 feet, depending on application, and can operate at speeds up to 12 m.p.h., with no dangerous overspray or drift.

Brucellosis progress reported

WASHINGTON, D.C. — U.S. Department of Agriculture animal health officials are encouraged by developments in the nationwide program to control and wipe out cattle brucellosis.

The current total of 6,434 quarantined herds, reported at the end of December, is the lowest ever recorded, and down by more than 800 from a year earlier. Last year's 0.37 percent infection rate in market cattle tested was down from 0.41 percent in 1982.

The market cattle infection rate for the three-month period ending Jan. 1 was 0.28 percent, although usually a period of low incidence, down by a full tenth of one percent from the same period a year earlier.

"Hard work is beginning to pay off," said Bert Hawkins, administrator of USDA's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service. "But I urge state-federal animal health officials and their livestock industry cooperators not to relax.

"Brucellosis is an insidious disease. It has taken us 10 to 12 years to recover from a resurgence of infection that occurred in the early 1970's. We don't want to be in that position again," Hawkins said.

Fifteen states and the U.S. Virgin Islands are classified brucellosis free, meaning no known infected herds for a year or longer. Five states have been added since a new, tougher rating system began in May 1982.

The free states are: Alaska, Connecticut, Delaware, Hawaii, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, New Hampshire, New York, North Dakota, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Utah and Vermont.

what hogs entering are infected or exposed to the pseudorabies virus. So many of our trucks go right back to the farm within the same day and transport another group of hogs without cleaning or disinfecting.

We, as the industry of this Commonwealth, need to look at this situation. Policies might need to be formulated for all custom haulers to clean and disinfect between shipments of animals to the market place. This would stop that possible transmission of pseudorabies.

Third, we, as the industry of this Commonwealth, need to know more about Pseudorabies and the present pilot program as instituted in Pennsylvania. The pamphlet, referred to earlier from the Livestock Conservation Institute, is an excellent source of material that could be distributed in our market receipts from our auction markets and slaughtering houses or from our extension offices and Pork Council mailings. With that could be the current pilot program of eradication in Pennsylvania. When an eradication program is in effect, the industry needs to know about it and in a simple and direct form. Sending it in market receipts is one of the most direct forms.

Fourth, we come to the most difficult area in our present eradication program - no indemnity for depopulation, This I feel is unfair especially in farrow-to-finish operations and breeder-producing operations. I said this last July when this policy went into effect, but just as the rest of the industry, I did nothing about it to express my views to our lawmakers. I apologize for abandoning the few farms that were forced to depopulate at their own expense within the eight months as required in the eradication program. In checking with bankers about farrow-to-finish operations that have depopulated previously, costs have run from $500 to $1000 a sow unit. Also, I think this is the only state in the United States that currently has this policy.

The reason presently expressed in the current policy, depopulation without indemnity forced on quarantined farmers within 8 months, is so that the neighboring farmer will not also suffer the same serious economic losses that could come from the quarantined herd. That to me is putting the cart before the horse, or more importantly pseudorabies before people. I recently read about a retired agricultural journalist and what he considered the most important policy he used writing articles: of all the things found on the farm, the most important are the people. Is not the farmer having pseudorabies as important as the neighboring farmer who does not? Let's keep the horse pulling the cart.

In retrospect, avian influenza has gone this direction and hog cholera has in the past. At the recent Keystone Pork Congress, an extension agent made this comment, "Considering the size and density of our animal agriculture during the last decade on our farms and the disease problems that it has created, governmental policies for eradication and depopulation might have to be redefined and follow a more consistent policy." That is all I am suggesting in this policy of eradication by depopulation, some consistency in policy.

I have suggested to our legislatures during the past few weeks a possible idea to provide indemnity for farrowing operations so that farmers depopulating would receive breeding value of sows and boars instead of salvage value as received at the market. In most cases this probably would be over one quarter of the losses received in the down-time of the depopulation program. This could be a start on the plan. I was encouraged when I heard a local legislator is considering a funding program in support of indemnity.

In the above thoughts, I have tried to analyze this program of pseudorabies eradication in Pennsylvania, explain its weeknesses and suggest some changes and additions. From the stand-point of being a victim of its path, I am speaking out. Those of you who are reading this letter, from politicians to producers to consumers, I am challenging you to study the present policies, consider my suggestions as food for though and create some changes in the pseudorabies eradication program.

I would like to see pseudorabies eradicated, but we need the tools to do it effectively without ruining producers in the process.

Thank you for considering my thoughts.

All for the Love of Cows

BY ROBIN PHILLIPS
Staff Correspondent

Her life revolves around cows. She loves them. In fact, when it became time to look for a job after high school for this young lady, there was one criteria that had to be met. "I wanted it to be with cows," states Patricia Jenkins, Polo Road, Toughkenamon.

Meet 22-year-old Patty Jenkins, the daughter of Bill and Janet Jenkins of Clearview Farm in southeastern Pennsylvania, whose wish came true. Not only is Patty a veteran showman of her own prize winning Jerseys, but she's also the very capable herdsperson of a research herd at the New Bolton Center of the University of Pennsylvania. Patty cares for the isolated negative herd in the Bovine Leukemia virus research program. Patty says she has learned a lot from her job and can apply it at home. But, according to her supervisor, Mark Hodgson, the research center can take advantage of Patty's "cow sense."

"Patty knows when an animal looks sick," Hodgson states. Admitting that most of the animal care at the center is done by women, Hodgson says that Patty's past 4-H experiences and that with her own animals was really appreciated in her job. Patty's daily duties include taking care of calves, feeding older stock, bloodtesting each individual, and some lab work.

The leukemia research program consists of two herds at the center. The positive herd consists of Jersey cows and the negative herd is made up of Guernsey steers, and Jersey heifers and bulls who have tested negative for the virus. When a calf is born in the positive herd, it is Patty's job to remove it immediately, care for it, and start the bloodtesting procedures to determine its leukemia status. Bloodtesting is done every three weeks in Patty's negative herd to monitor the leukemia status. If a positive animal would show up, it is also Patty's job to clean and disinfect everything and return the herd back to it's negative status.

Although there is no cure or vaccine developed to control the virus yet, Patty tells us that some conclusions have been discovered in this research.

1. Calves should be removed from their dams immediately after birth.

2. Colostrum from a negative cow should be fed to the calf. Although the virus can be passed through the colostrum, it was also discovered that not all calves that get positive colostrum will get the virus.

3. Flies should be controlled. When a positive animal is found in the negative herd, (about one a year) it is attributed to flies or mosquitoes.

4. Do not use the same syringe and needle for another cow.

5. There is no evidence that the virus is transferred with embryos.

6. There is no loss of production or fertility.

"I think the farmers should be educated about it," states Patty. She says that she does not like the disregarding attitude of most dairymen to the disease. The known effects of the leukemia virus on cows is a gradual wasting away with much loss of flesh. Advanced cases develop tumors and swollen lymph nodes. It isn't until there is evidence of this lymphosarcoma that many dairymen realize that the disease is in their herd.

Although there are export restrictions on a leukemia positive animal, unless a dairy is directly affected, there is no incentive to try to eradicate the disease, Patty tells us. "Unless they find human health complications or direct loss, there is not going to be much interest," her supervisor says.

When she is not caring for the research animals, Patty is at home caring for her own. During her nine years in 4-H and her years in the showring since then, Patty has become well known throughout the state for her refined Jerseys and her professional showmanship. Her career peaked this January as she won the Premier Breeder award at the Pennsylvania Farm Show.

"We don't have 100 to pick from," Patty says of her victory. "We were happy to do as well as we did with what we had."

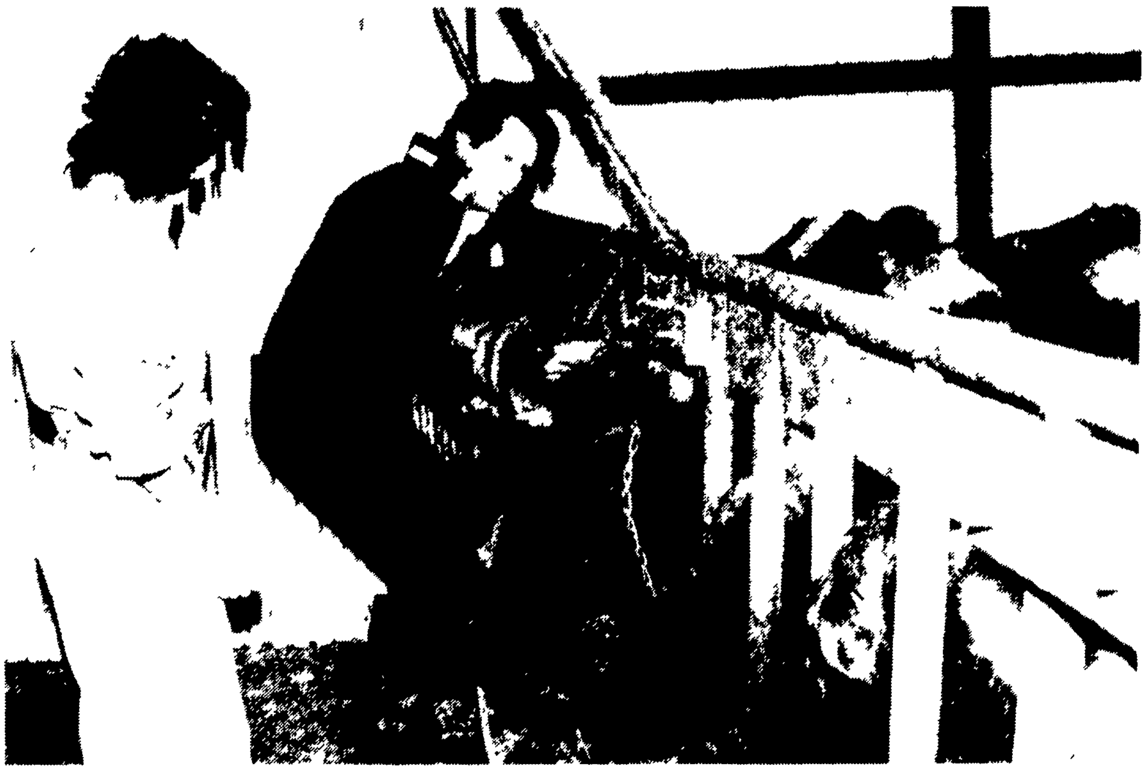
Homestead Notes

The two sisters stand with one of their calves and their pet goat. "My goat keeps the cows company," Patty says.

Patty and Beth Jenkins stand by their trophy case. They are very proud when they can win with animals that they have bred.



Patty and her supervisor team up almost daily to take blood samples of each animal. Samples are taken on a three-week rotation for each animal to determine its leukemia status.

Love of Cows

dairy setup, only heifers and dry cows are housed there. Milking animals are farmed out to neighboring dairies.

Patty remembers watching her older brother show cows when her father had a Holstein dairy. Because of the size of the Holsteins, her father told her, "I'll get you a nice little Jersey." Since then, Jerseys became common at Clearview Farm. Although Beth started her 4-H career with Guernseys to keep from competing with her sister, she also switched to Jerseys after Patty was out of 4-H. "I just liked the Jerseys a little better," she states.

Patty is particularly proud of her typey homebred animals. "I like to see a Jersey that looks like a Jersey," she says. Because her interests are to extensively show her animals, Patty breeds mainly for type. "It doesn't pay me to breed for production," Patty states. "It wouldn't help me at the shows, which is what I like to do." Animals are bred for refinement, a dished face and a long neck. She wants them to be clean boned and dairy looking. The sires Patty is currently using on her winners include: Advancer Sleeping Milestone, Golden Faithful, Golden Master, and Milestone Babes Master.

"We like a sharper looking cow," Beth says. These two sisters know what they are talking about. Although this was the first year for the premier breeder honors, they have been in the top three at the Farm Show for the past several years. In 1981 a Clearview cow took the Reserve Grand Championship at the Farm Show, and this past year saw several Clearview grand champions at the local fairs. The Farm Show remains as one of the Jenkins' favorite shows because of the competition.

"I'd rather be fifth in 10, then first out of two," Patty says with a smile.

One of Beth's animals was also shown at the national show in Kentucky this past year. The girls are proud of the fact that she stood in the top half of the large classes.

Patty's favorite animal is her nine-year-old cow, Clearview Criterion Holly. Recently raised to a "very-good" - 87, on her 1984 appraisal, Holly is the foundation for five of the animals in the Jenkins string.

"I like what I'm getting," Patty says of her breeding philosophy. "Buyers are pleased. "I want to keep breeding my own, it's more rewarding that way."

Patty plans to build up her herd and one day go into dairying and showing on her own. She credits her parents for all their support and help. "If it wasn't for them, we couldn't do it," she says of her and her sister's efforts.

From experience Patty has developed several practices that have helped her. Calves are fed milk for three months. "You get a stronger animal," she states. At two weeks of age, calves are also fed grain and a high quality alfalfa. Before shows, Patty feeds calf manna to her animals. "It tends to help their overall appearance," she continues. Animals should be on the thin side to show better, but Patty says that she is often too good to them and her animals are often too heavy. Patty is also an avid observer of the winning animals at all the fairs and shows that she attends.

This lady's life is cows, cows, cows, and she has spread her interest familywide. With her family's backing and her sister following in her footsteps, Patty's breeding philosophy will continue to make it's mark in exhibitions. Although just a small part, her dedication to research will also show itself in years to come. When you meet Patty Jenkins, you will probably see cows. It's her life.

Four nosy Jerseys wonder what all of the fuss is about.

Consider Special Clothing Needs

NEWARK, Del. — Like everyone else, the elderly and handicapped feel their best when they're well dressed. But for them, clothing needs to be more than attractive. It should also be comfortable, easy to put on and take off, and practical to care for, says University of Delaware Extension Home Economist Roxane Whittaker.

People whose movements are restricted need clothing with generous openings, and easy-to-use fasteners. Front fasteners are easier to reach. Where dexterity is a problem, a large, decorative loop can be attached to a zipper pull. Or, large, flat buttons can be sewn with a thread shank so they stand away from the fabric. Woven nylon strips that adhere when pressed together are also useful.

Comfort features to look for include semi-fitted waistlines or gently elasticized waists. Avoid high, close-fitting necklines and tight sleeves. If a person uses crutches, choose sleeves that are cut high in the underarm.

For women, wrap-around slips and skirts provide extra comfort and convenience. Pockets are handy for carrying tissues, coins, and other necessities.

Skirts should be full but not drag on the floor while a person is seated or using crutches. A convenient feature in women's pants is a side zipper that opens all the way down the leg.

Lined pants prevent wear if braces are used. Shorter trouser lengths will not catch under crutches.

Rough textures and heavy fabrics are often annoying to older people and can irritate dry skin. Choose soft, non-irritating and non-binding fabrics.

Look for adequate seam allowances and small, even stitches. Consider reinforcing areas of strain.

For washable garments, check for easy-care characteristics. Look for wrinkle-resistance and no-iron features.

It's sometimes difficult to find the styles, sizes, and convenience features the elderly and handicapped need. If the right clothing isn't available in ready-to-wear, perhaps a home sewer can adjust a garment's features to suit an individual's needs.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

During my cruise of the Caribbean, we visited five different islands. At night we traveled and it was just like sleeping on a water bed, as we gently swayed from side to side. We docked at Barbados on Monday. The cards that I sent had to bear the stamps of that particular place — sometimes French, sometimes Dutch and sometimes British.

I went on a six-hour tour of the island. We usually had an open-sided van that held 10 to 20 people. The first stop was at the former summer home of Anthony Eden; a stone mansion built in 1834. Here, we were shown many unusual shrubs and flowers including wild orchards growing on the trunks of trees. We strolled around the grounds in sunny 80-degree weather.

Our next stop was St. John's church that was rebuilt in 1886 after two previous ones were destroyed by fire and hurricane. The cemetery here had large tombs dating back to 1678. A large field of sugar cane was nearby and I had my first taste of the raw sweet cane — too sweet really.

Our last stop was Sam Lord's castle which was built near the ocean. The water was the bluest that I've ever seen. We swam in it and watched natives opening shells on the beach. A buffet lunch here cost $25, but their money is double our money. Therefore, the five dollars per gallon that they pay for gasoline would only be two dollars and fifty cents in U.S. dollars.

We drove on the left side of the road and passed many poor looking homes. There were fields of carrots, onions and cabbage. They have chameleons, wild monkeys and we even saw a mongoose. Goats roam freely and donkey carry loads for their masters. As they get 80 inches of rain all the flowers were enormous. Poinsettias and impatiens grow wild and some are five feet tall.

I bought a dress and a blouse with very bright colors and I wore them on the cruise. Some evening meals required formal dress and the parade of evening gowns was something to behold. As we sat on the deck at night and watched the twinkling lights ashore, a soft breeze blew our hair. The evenings ended with a show in the Starlight Lounge or the larger International Lounge.

Boots and Saddles 4-H Club

The Boots and Saddles 4-H Club met Feb. 10 at the Farm and Home Center and elected officers. They are: Valerie High, president; Jessica Watts, vice president; Janet Wheat, secretary; Tammy Long, treasurer; Heather and Todd Wardell and Tina Redcay, newsreporters; Scott and Shawn Seibert, Jennifer Eckel, Melody Shenk and Krista Knox, scrapbook reporters.

A film on horsemanship by the American Quarter Horse Association was shown.

The next meeting will be March 9 at the Farm and Home Center at 7:30 p.m. The club will travel to the New Bolton Horse Center on April 14.

Add Variety with Vegetables

It's that time of year again when people are suffering from the February blahs. Winter has lost its charm and spring is not quite here. Even meals can become dull this time of year.

Add some variety and color to your meals by serving vegetables that can be made in endless ways. Even better, vegetables bring promises of spring gardening and summer.

GLAZED CARROTS

1 bunch carrots, scraped and boiled until tender
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 tabelspoon boiling water
1/4 cup molasses
1 tablespoon butter

Drain carrots and place in a greased shallow casserole dish. Sprinkle with salt. Drizzle the molasses and boiling water combined over the carrots. Dot with butter. Slip under broiler until glazed and brown. Turning if necessary.

Betty Biehl
Mertztown

ALMOND GREEN BEANS

2 packages (9 oz. each) frozen cut green beans
6 tablespoons butter
1/4 cup slivered almonds
1 tablespoon lemon juice

Cook beans according to package directions; drain. In a 1-quart saucepan melt butter; add almonds and saute until lightly brown. Add lemon juice Pour over beans

EASY CAULIFLOWER AND TOMATO CHEESE CASSEROLE

2 large head cauliflower
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
dash pepper
2 cups (8 oz.) shredded cheddar cheese
1/4 cup (1/2 stick) butter, melted
4 tomatoes, cut in wedges
1 cup (4 oz.) shredded cheddar cheese
2 tablespoons chopped parsley

Rinse cauliflower and separate into flowerets. Cook in a 4-quart covered Dutch oven, in 1-inch boiling salted water, for 8 to 15 minutes or until just tender; drain. Preheat oven to 400 degrees. Place in buttered three-quart casserole. Sprinkle with salt, nutmeg and pepper. Cover with two cups cheddar cheese. Drizzle butter over all. Tuck in tomato wedges, sprinkle over an additional one cup cheese and bake five minutes or until cheese is slightly melted. Serve garnished with parsley.

If cooked cauliflower has cooled before assembling casserole, heat in oven five minutes with two cups cheese and butter before tucking in tomato wedges and sprinkling with one cup cheese

ASPARAGUS SUPREME

4 cups fresh asparagus, cut up or 2 (8 oz) packages frozen cut asparagus
1 10 3/4-ounce can condensed cream of shrimp soup
1/2 cup dairy sour cream
2 tablespoons coarsely shredded carrot
1 teaspoon grated onion
1/8 teaspoon pepper
1/2 cup herb-seasoned stuffing mix
1 tablespoon melted butter

Cook fresh asparagus in boiling water five to six minutes or until crisp-tender. Or cook frozen asparagus according to package directions. Drain well. Combine soup, sour cream, carrot, onion and pepper; fold in asparagus. Turn into an ungreased one-quart baking dish. Combine stuffing mix and melted butter; sprinkle around edge of asparagus mixture. Bake, uncovered in 350-degree oven for 30 to 35 minutes.

GLAZED VEGETABLES

2 cups carrot strips
2 cups celery crescents
3/4 cup sliced onion
2 cups cherry tomatoes
1 package frozen French style green beans
2 tablespoons sugar
1 teaspoon salt
3 tablespoons minute tapioca
1/4 cup butter

Boil the carrots and celery until crispy tender Place all vegetables in a 9X13-inch baking dish which has been buttered Combine the sugar, salt and tapioca and sprinkle over the vegetables Dot with butter. Cover baking dish with foil and bake in 325-degree oven for 45 minutes. Stir very gently once or twice during baking time so that the glaze is evenly distributed.

ASPARAGUS APPETIZERS

Steam asparagus until slightly tender. If you have 10 spears of asparagus, take 10 pieces of bread with trimmed crusts and roll around the spears. (Can secure with toothpicks.) Brush with melted butter and place on greased pan. Bake in 350-degree oven until browned. Can make cream of mushroom soup into a gravy and serve over these buttery delights. They can also be cut into 1-inch pieces and served as appetizers.

Featured Recipe

This week's featured recipe, in honor of the Keystone Pork Congress held last Thursday, is a dish using ground pork. Additional recipes featuring ground pork can be found on the page that features the Pa. Porkettes in this section.

Vegi-Stuffed Pork Loaf

2 pounds ground pork
1/4 cup chopped onion
1/4 cup chopped green pepper
1/4 cup chopped red pepper
1 tablespoon oil
2 tablespoons snipped parsley
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
1 teaspoon basil leaves
1/2 teaspoon oregano leaves
1 egg, beaten
1/2 cup coarsely crushed corn flakes
1/4 teaspoon sale

Cook onion, green pepper and red pepper in oil in frying pan for three minutes or until tender crisp. Cool. Sprinkle parsley, basil, 1 1/2 teaspoons salt and oregano over ground pork. Add egg and cornflakes, mixing lightly but thoroughly. Divide pork mixture in half; pat out 1/2 mixture on waxed paper into 5x8x1 1/2-inch rectangle. Place vegetables lengthwise in 2-inch strip down center of meat; sprinkle with 1/4 teaspoon salt. Pat remaining meat mixture on waxed paper into 5x8x1 1/2-inch rectangle. Place on top of first layer. Remove waxed paper. Seal edges and shape into a loaf. Invert loaf onto rack in open roasting pan; remove waxed paper. Bake in moderate oven (350) for 1 1/2 hours to well done.

Add Variety

DEVILED BRUSSEL SPROUTS

Cook one package frozen sprouts as label directs. Meanwhile, melt three tablespoons butter or margarine; add 3/4 teaspoon prepared mustard, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 1/2 teaspoon Worcestershire, and dash of cayenne. Pour over drained sprouts.

CORN FRITTERS

1 cup enriched flour
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon baking powder
2 eggs
1/4 cup milk
1 tablespoon melted shortening
1 1/2 cups cooked whole kernel corn fat for deep frying

Sift flour, salt, and baking powder into bowl. Beat eggs with milk; add melted fat and whole kernel corn and combine two mixtures lightly. Drop from teaspoon into deep fat heated to 365 degrees, or when an inch cube of bread browns in 60 seconds. Fry until brown and cooked in center, about four to five minutes. Drain on absorbent paper.

DEVILED BEETS

Heat three tablespoons butter or margarine, two tablespoons vinegar, 1/3 teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon each paprika and dry mustard, one tablespoon sugar and one teaspoon Worcestershire sauce. Pour over three cups cooked, diced beets, heat and serve.

MINTED PEAS

Add sprigs of mint to boiling water with peas. When cooked, remove mint. Drain and season with salt and butter.

SCALLOPED ONIONS

Put two cups cooked onions (quartered) in buttered baking dish. Cover with one cup medium white sauce. Sprinkle with buttered cracker crumbs. Bake in 400-degree oven until crumbs are brown. If desired, sprinkle with grated cheese before adding white sauce.

SWEET AND SOUR GREEN BEANS

1 No. 2 (2 1/2 cups) green beans
3 slices bacon, diced
3 tablespoons sweet pickle juice

Drain beans; cook bean liquid until 1/3 cup remains. Fry bacon until crisp. Add beans, bacon and pickle juice to hot liquid. Simmer to blend flavors, about 15 minutes.

Cook's Question Corner

ANSWER - Last week, we ran two recipes for Long Johns. This week, Emma Fisher, Paradise R1, sent us a recipe for filled Long Johns. Enjoy!

Long Johns

2 packages yeast	1 cup sugar
2 cups lukewarm water	1 cup shortening
2 cups mashed potatoes	5 eggs, beaten
1 teaspoon salt	10 cups flour
1 teaspoon vanilla

Mix above ingredients and let the dough rise until it is about double in size. Roll it out and cut it in strips and let rise again. Bake until light brown. Cool and then cut them in half lengthwise. Spread filling over bottom half and cover with top half.

Filling

2 tablespoons milk	1½ cups vegetable shortening
3 egg whites
3 teaspoons vanilla	3 cups powdered sugar

Beat egg whites until stiff. Mix milk, powdered sugar and vanilla and add to egg whites.

ANSWER - Donna Lencoski, Latrobe, wrote to ask us about gooseberry recipes. Here are two I found in the file from Eva Sauthard, Glen Rock.

Fresh Gooseberry Pie

3 cups fresh gooseberries
1½ cups sugar
3 tablespoons quick cooking tapioca
¼ teaspoon salt
pastry for 9-inch 2 crust pie
2 tablespoons butter or margarine

Stem, wash and drain gooseberries. Crush ½ cup of the berries and combine with sugar, tapioca and salt Add the whole berries. Cook and stir until the mixture thickens. Line pie plate with pastry and fill with gooseberry mixture. Dot with butter. Adjust top crust. Bake in 450-degree oven for 10 minutes, reduce temperature to 350 degrees and bake for 30 minutes longer or until crust is done. Serve slightly warm.

Granberry or Gooseberry Sauce

1 pound gooseberries or cranberries
1½ cups sugar
1¾ cups water

Wash and pick over the berries, discarding any soft ones. Place the berries, sugar and water in a two-quart saucepan. Cook and stir until the liquid boils. Cover the pan and simmer 8 to 10 minutes. Skim and let chill in the pan in which the sauce was cooked.

QUESTION - Donna Lencoski also requested some asparagus recipes.

QUESTION - I would like a recipe for cream of broccoli cheese soup like they serve in restaurants.

On being a farm wife - And other hazards

Joyce Bupp

A magical round wand lies at my fingertips, waiting to transport my thoughts and dreams, at a moment's notice, to distant points around the globe.

Or just to summon the farmer in from the barn office for supper.

This phone is such a common place part of our lives that we take its magical technology for granted. Pick it up, dial and talk with just about anyone.

Still, this telephone and I, we have our moments of clash.

For months now, there has been a knot in my long-distance trunk and not one of a half-dozen courteous trouble-shooter repairmen has been able to get to the roots of it.

During every long distance call I place from the house, a brief disconnection of a second or two occurs, interrupting the conversation momentarily.

Repairmen have come and gone, one even patiently listening in on an extension to observe the temporary disconnection phenomena, which amazingly, did perform as usual. Still, the elusive problem continues, buried beneath some maze of technological switching matter.

A similar gremlin wreaked long-distance havoc recently on another call in which I was a startled participant.

Moments after I placed a call to a distant farm in the county and made connections with the beef breeder who was the object of the call, we suddenly found our conversation crossed with the parties on either end of a directory assistance call.

Ever tried conducting a four-way, completely-unrelated dual conversation?

After a futile attempt to continue our ag-related discussion through this other pair of speakers, in my most polite phone voice, I mentioned to the operator dispensing a number to her caller that I was trying to speak with a party on a long-distance call.

Her answer dropped my mouth open and sent blood rushing to my ears and as I received a rude, snapping reply that I had cut into HER line.

Out the window went all those admonitions about turning the other cheek, speaking softly to turn away anger, etc.

"No operator, you cut into MY line," I growled back. As I sat there, receiver in hand, fuming, she continued her curt instructions to the fourth party on how to reach a particular number.

After many seconds, the tangled maze disconnected as we were unplugged from our crossed wires and once again I was alone on a line with a farmer on the other end laughing so hard he could hardly speak.

A repairman spent that Saturday afternoon working on the lines outside the house and barn.

We are still getting long-distance brief interruptions on every call.

But I haven't argued with an operator lately.

Expensive Silk Begins with a Caterpillar

WASHINGTON — In China, newly hatched silkworms are tickled with feathers to prod development. A dog's bark, a cock's crow, or a foul smell, the Chinese believe, can upset the freshly hatched worms.

In India, members of the Munda tribe stalk through the forest with slingshots ready to fell predator birds that pick silkworms off trees. During this time tribesman do not shave or cut their hair, and they eat only vegetables. Their wives may bring them dinner but are not allowed to spend the night.

In Japan, some silkworms spend their short lives in special germ-free environments, often nourished by a scientifically formulated mixture of mulberry leaves, soybeans, and cornstarch.

110 Cocoons Per Necktie

Such reverence for silkworms is ancient, and so is the process that creates some of today's most cherished garments. Special conditions and 110 cocoons are needed for a silk tie, 630 for a blouse.

Silk's secret was first unraveled in 2640 B.C., according to legend, when Chinese Empress Xi Ling Shi dropped a cocoon into hot water and discovered that she could unwind a glistening thread from the softened mass. But silk — the cloth of emperors — remained China's secret for more than 2,000 years. Imperial law decreed death by torture to anyone who disclosed the silkworm's magic.

Silkworms may have reached Japan in A.D. 300. In the sixth century, legend says, Roman Emperor Justinian sent two monks to China to obtain a supply of worms. Silk began to spread throughout the world. China still produces more than half of the world's silk. More than 10 million Chinese farmers raise silkworms.

As it has for centuries, silk enriches tradition and ritual. By custom, an Indian woman is married in a silk sari. The corpse of a venerable Hindu may be covered with silk as a sign of respect. A silk quilt is the measure of a Chinese woman's dowry.

Sometimes known as the queen of textiles, silk looks beautiful because its triangular fibers reflect like prisms. Layers of protein build up to a pearly sheen.

Sutures and Tennis Rackets

But silk can do more than look pretty. Surgeons use its easily knotted strands in sutures, and Chinese doctors have replaced sections of diseased arteries with it. Silk is part of some tennis-racket strings, fly-fishing lines, and parachutes. French bicycle racers use silk tires for smoother rides and better traction. Skiers like silk next to their skin because it is warm and draws moisture away from the body.

All of this from a worm that really isn't. It's a caterpillar, a member of the order Lepidoptera, which includes butterflies and moths. The most common source of silk is the domestic Bombyx mori, but there are more than 500 species of wild silkworms. One of them, found mostly in China, produces an off-white silk known as tussah. A shimmering gold silk comes from the muga caterpillar of India's Assam Valley.

With extraordinary eating capacity, cultivated silkworms feast only on mulberry leaves, increasing their body weight 10,000 times in their 25- to 28-day lives.

They don't even have to stop eating to get air; They breathe through nine holes in each side. Periodically they do stop to sleep for about a day. When they wake up, they wriggle out of their too-tight skin and start eating again.

After a final molting, they secure a place for a cocoon. First they throw out a light web to anchor themselves. Then they toss their heads to extrude a protein mixture

Treats for You to Bake

How many of you come home from school with your tummies growling? And what tastes better then a big glass of ice cold milk and one of Mom's homemade cookies or a piece of homemade cake? These next two recipes are designed especially for you to make. Ask Mom to help and make yourself some after-school treats.

NUTTY CHOCOLATE SQUARES

1 package Betty Crocker Snackin' Cake chocolate almond, chocolate fudge chip, German chocolate coconut pecan or golden chocolate chip
1 cup milk
1 package (4 1/8 oz.) chocolate instant pudding and pie filling
1/2 cup chopped nuts
1/2 cup semisweet chocolate chips

Heat oven to 350 degrees. Grease bottom only of rectangular pan, 13x9x2 inches. Prepare cake mix as directed on package except mix in bowl and substitute milk for the water. Stir in pudding and pie filling (dry) with milk. (Batter will be thick.) Spread in pan. Sprinkle with nuts. Bake 15 minutes; sprinkle chocolate chips over top. Bake until wooden pick inserted in center comes clean, about 10 minutes longer. Cool completely. Cut into about 1 1/2-inch squares.

CHOCOLATE FUDGE SUNDAE CAKE

Prepare 1 package Betty Crocker Stir 'n Frost devils food cake mix as directed except decrease water to 1/2 cup; add 1/4 cup mashed ripe banana. Serve with chocolate-cherry whipped topping.

CHOCOLATE CHERRY WHIPPED TOPPING

Squeeze frosting (it comes with the cake) into small bowl; add 2/3 cup whipping cream. Refrigerate until chilled. Beat until stiff. Fold in 1/4 cup well-drained maraschino cherries, cut into fourths, add 1/4 cup toasted almonds, coarsely chopped.

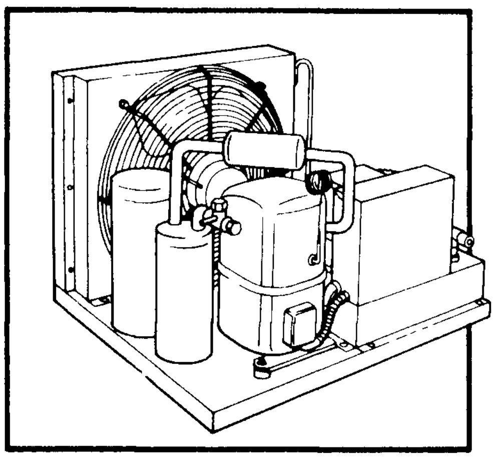
A hot and cold idea from Surge that can cut your milk room energy costs.

The new Surge W/A Condenser uses an exclusive combination of water and air cooling to save energy without wasting valuable hot water.



The Hot Idea.

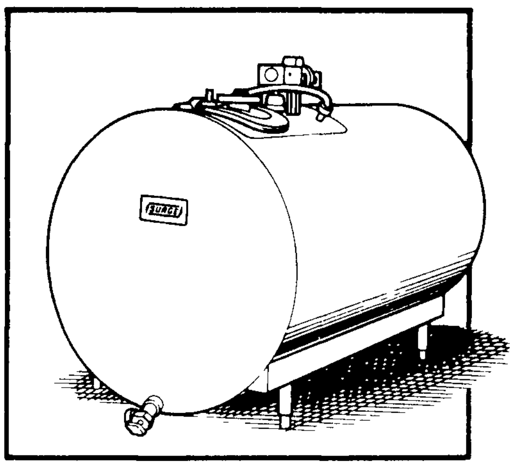
A milk cooling system generates a lot of heat This is a usable form of energy Unfortunately, most air-cooled condensers waste it

The Cold Idea.

Cold well water is much better than air for cooling a condenser However, water cooled condensers often waste valuable hot water

Water and air can reduce the cost of cooling your milk by as much as 20% And the free hot water produced can cut your water heating bill by up to 80% When you have enough hot water, air cooling takes over so you won't waste any

Only Surge offers you this efficient no waste condenser



The ARC* (Automatic Response Cooling) Tank saves you even more energy by activating your compressor only when you need it ARC saves you as much as 20% in cooling costs over earlier models Available in 500 to 3,000 gal sizes

We can make your cows worth more.

Western Citrus In Plentiful Supply

Look west 'for big, beautiful navels, [illegible] eating-out-of-hand, virtually seedless oranges. They are in peak supply now and will be during the weeks ahead.

Western navels are of superb quality and refreshing flavor, with individual oranges running larger in size than normal, with good juice content. When you buy these heavy, large-sized fruit you will be getting a good buy for your money.

Big navels add a plus to menus anytime of the day. Serve them on the "half shell" for breakfasts or snacks, like you would a grapefruit half, or tuck a few wedges in a lunch box. Wrap and refrigerate remaining wedges for a great ready to eat after-school or TV snack.

Another plus now and during the months ahead will be a good supply of fresh western-grown grapefruit, available in a good range of sizes. Sun-ripened grapefruit is sure to be among the best buys in the produce section of your favorite markets, ready to add stimulating flavor and golden beauty to your menus. Not only a friend to slim gourmets, grapefruit is perfectly suited for any of today's healthier lifestyles.

Bright yellow, juicy lemons will also be in plentiful supply during the weeks ahead. Though usually though of during the summer months, fresh lemons should be a welcome addition to winter and spring, adding a refreshing "light" low calorie, low sodium seasoning to poultry, salads, fish and vegetables.

Also available now and through March are naturally sweet and aromatic tangerines, in slightly larger sizes than normal. These easy-to-peel and fun to eat orange nuggets are know for their bite-size convenience. Stock up on them, to add extra color and flavor to your winter and spring snacks.

Trends Among American Women

American women are having fewer children and more of them head households and work outside the home than in 1950, according to a profile issued by the Commerce Department's Census Bureau.

Although these trends have been reported previously, this analysis incorporates them in a single publication for the first time in several years.

Here are some facts from the profile:

About one-half of adult women worked outside the home in 1980 compared with one-third in 1950.

Fertility has decreased sharply. Women averaged two children in 1980 compared with about three in 1950.

Women have been marrying later and divorcing more often. The proportion of adult divorced women has almost tripled, from 2.4 percent in 1950 to nearly 7 percent in 1980.

Just over one-quarter of adult women now head a household, up 15 percent from 1950. These households account for an increasing proportion of those in poverty. College enrollemnt is now about the same for both sexes. Although the proportion of female college graduates more than doubled in the 30 years, women earn fewer professionsl degrees than men.

Women still earn only about two-thirds as much as men, and they remain concentrated in traditionally female jobs such as nursing, teaching, retail sales, and in secretarial and clerical jobs.

Copies of the report, American Women: Three Decades of Change, CDS 80-8 are available for $3.50 each prepaid from the Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402.

N.J. observes FFA Week

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J. — New Jersey FFA members joined FFA members nation-wide in celebration of National Future Farmers of America Week during the past week.

Activities in New Jersey included a Chapter Presidents' Tour of Trenton, where FFA presidents and their advisors from each FFA chapter in the state visited the New Jersey Department of Agriculture and the State House to attend a session of the General Assembly.

FFA chapters across the state also held events locally to celebrate the week. Some of these events included open house of the vocational agriculture departments, banquets, special dinners and breakfasts to thank supporters of the FFA along with visits to radio stations.

New Jersey Network Television joined the celebration of FFA Week by airing public service announcements featuring Eddie Albert.

UHT Milk is Great for Emergencies, Packed Lunches

NEWARK, Del. — The next time you're down to the last two drops in the milk carton, you may wish you had stocked your cupboard with the new UHT (ultra high temperature) milk. It is fresh, fluid, Grade A milk that is specially processed and packaged so that it doesn't need refrigeration.

A foil-lined, paperboard carton of UHT milk can sit on the shelf for up to three months, or until it is opened, says University of Delaware Extension Home Economist Sally Foulke. Once the carton is opened, any leftover milk must be refrigerated, she says. But it will stay fresh in the refrigerator longer than regular milk.

The process that makes this possible is a very quick heat treatment. Milk is heated to about 280 degrees F for a few seconds, then quickly cooled to 70 degrees F and immediately packaged in sterile containers. This high-heat pasteurization does not affect the safetv or nutritive value of the milk, Foulke says. However, it does affect taste and appearance slightly. UHT milk tastes richer and appears whiter than ordinary milk. It can be used exactly as you would use regular milk, either as a beverage or in cooking and baking.

Although UHT milk has been available in Europe for 15 years, the packaging wasn't approved for use in this country until 1981. Only within the last year have food stores in the U.S. begun to carry the product. It is available in quarts and half-pints in a variety of flavors. It is available in quarts and half-pints in a variety of flavors. The options include whole or low-fat white milk, plus lowfat milk in banana, chocolate, strawberry, vanilla, and fruit punch flavors.

Foulke says UHT milk is handy to keep on the shelf for occasions when you have run out of ordinary milk, or when refrigeration is not available. The half-pint containers, which come complete with a straw, are convenient for school lunches, camping, backpacking, traveling or boating.

Clever Clovers

Pauline Kuusela, a Finish Exchange student, gave a presentation on Finland at the Clever Clovers February meeting. Christine Blackwell discussed computer learning aids with the group. They are preparing their presentations for the County Contest on March 16. Arts & Crafts members will take part in a tin-piercing workshop Feb. 28 at the Joseph home in Sergeantsville. Their next business meeting will be held at Delaware Township School on March 12.

Clover Fun Gang

Members of the Clover Fun Gang discussed plans for a trip to the Weller Institute at their February meeting. The group made model Hot Air Balloons which will be placed in their club's Window Display. Heart cookies and juice were served following the meeting. The club visited the Weller Institute on Feb. 20. The next meeting will be held on March 6.

Farm Women Societies

Lancaster Society 2

Lancaster Society 2 met recently at the home of Elizabeth Shenk, Manheim R4, and heard Dick McMillen speak on the Water Street Rescue Mission.

The Society will prepare a meal in Lancaster for the scouts.

The next meeting will honor the 65th anniversary of Society 2 at a banquet on March 10.

Lancaster Society 7

Lancaster Society 7 held their February meeting at the home of Florence Miller, Gap.

The Society will be entertained at the Farm and Home Center on March 17 at 1 p.m. by Society 13.

The speaker at the February meeting was Irene Stauffer, who is retired from the mission field. She spoke on "Sowing the Seed."

Lancaster Society 21

Lancaster Society 21 met at the home of Alice Ressel for a program featuring handwork done by the members.

Roll call was answered by something the women played with as a child.

The next meeting will be at Jerry Arrowsmith's home.

Lebanon Society 5

Lebanon Society 5 met in the Mt. Zion Road Church of the Brethren and voted to give a donation to the Cedar Haven Bed Pad Project.

They also gave a donation toward the Farm Women Spring Rally at the Hershey Convention Center. They also decided to give a year's membership at the Y.M.C.A. to a needy teenager.

The Society plans to participate at the Spring Bazaar April 6 and 7 at the Lebanon Plaza Mall.

John W. Heisey in his Barns, Barns, Barns presentation to the Strasburg Heritage Society talked of how barns blend into the landscape, leading an artistic beauty to the area. This Lancaster County barn proves what Heisey was describing, as it seems to have been built to blend in with its surroundings.

Do You Appreciate Your Barn?

BY KIMBERLY HERR

STRASBURG — A man's house is his castle, according to the old adage, but ask John W. Heisey and he may say that a man's (or woman's) barn is his castle.

"A man's barn in the early days was really his castle because this is where all of his money was tied up," said Heisey, who explained that in early days the barns were often built before the home and they were sometimes more luxurious than the farmer's home. Heisey presented his Barns, Barns, Barns presentation to the Strasburg Heritage Society Monday night at the First Presbyterian Church of Strasburg.

Heisey holds a master's degress in American Studies from Penn State and has worked as director of research and library for the Historical Society of York County, York.

He told his audience that in 1934, he and his family moved to a large farm in Adams County.

"That was my first introduction to big barns," Heisey said.

Then, not long after that, he watched as another large barn in that area burned as a result of internal combustion caused by hay.

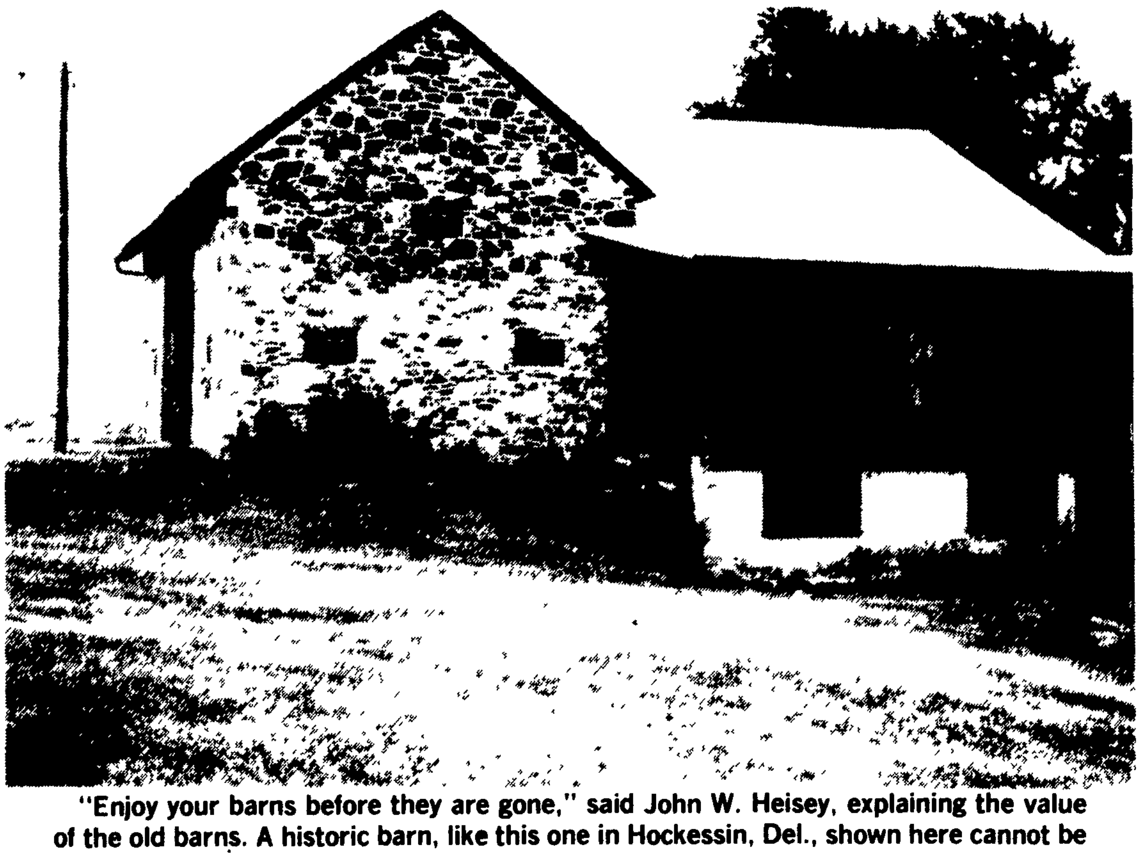
"That was my first introduction to the death of barns," he said.

And between the birth and the death of barns is a lifetime of history that Heisey is anxious to preserve.

"There aren't that many people who know how to build barns anymore," he said. "You can't possibly replace it (an old barn) with one just as good.

(Turn to Page B18)

John W. Heisey, lecturer and author, presented his Barns, Barns, Barns presentation to the Strasburg Heritage Society Monday night.



"Enjoy your barns before they are gone," said John W. Heisey, explaining the value of the old barns. A historic barn, like this one in Hockessin, Del., shown here cannot be replaced, according to Heisey.

Your Barn

"Barns are special, unique things," Heisey explained. "Every barn you see will be a little different than any other barn. Each one is an individual."

While many barn owners may not think of that building that houses their livestock as a thing of beauty, Heisey showed slides which illustrated the intricate design and workmanship that is seen on many barns.

For instance, the vents, which allow light and air to get into the barns, are sometimes found in the shape of a wine glass, prayer books, four-leaf clovers, tulips, pine trees and diamond designs. One of the slides featured a Lancaster County barn with vents done in the design of sheaves of wheat.

In addition to the ventilators, many barns, especially those made by the Germans, had decorative date stones, which were sometimes coordinated with the design of the ventilators.

Even the structure of a barn can be decorative, juding from Heisey's slides, which featured barns that looked like churches and boasted Victorian charm.

Heisey also touched on silos and weathervanes, both of which add to the interest of any certain barn.

"Silos are a modern addition," Heisey said, and showed a slide where one silo was turned into a playhouse for the children that lived on the farm.

Some barns, according to Heisey, have also changed from their original purpose as people are now using them for restaurants, homes and antique and craft shops.

"As long as you keep a good roof on a barn, it will last and last and last," Heisey said.

But, once a barn is forgotten, its age begins to show.

"You can watch a barn die very slowly, year by year," Heisey said.

One of the main causes of death to barns is fire, and, according to Heisey, "Arson problems with barns hit in a line and travel through counties."

And since the old barns are tough to replace, according to Heisey, he closed his presentation with this advice: "Enjoy your barns before they are gone."

HAVING SOIL PROBLEMS?
Here's A Timely Tip...

Apply lime on frozen ground

Lime can be applied almost anytime however winter months are ideal because the ground is firm and the freezing and thawing action helps to disseminate the lime in the soil coated with a gummy substance. This liquid silk becomes the fiber for the worm's own shroud.

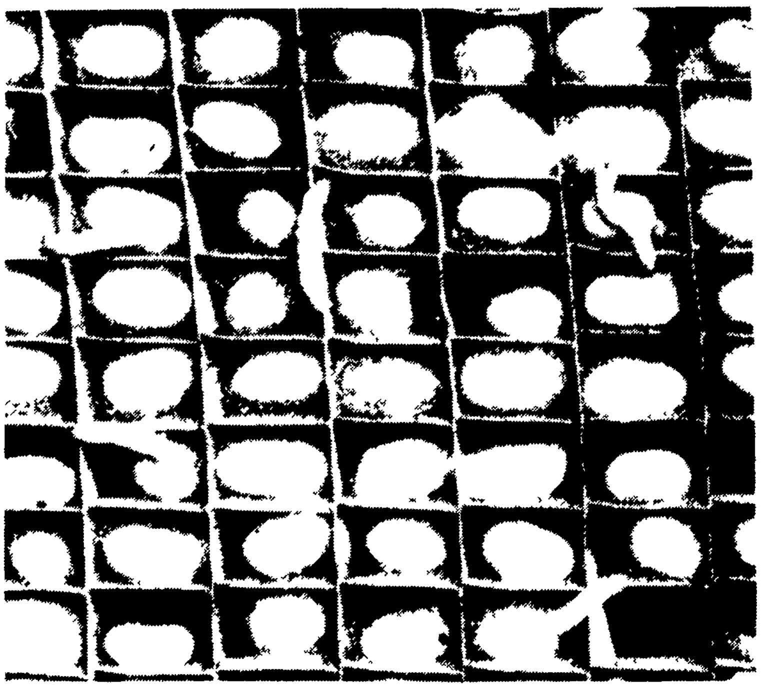
Inside the waterproof cocoon, the silkworm pupates and in two weeks turns into a moth. The moth emerges and mates for several hours. The female lays 300 to 500 eggs. In two or three days she dies, and the eggs hatch from six weeks to 12 months later.



Silkworms and their valuable creations - cocoons made of a mixture of protein coated with sericin, a gummy substance - fill a frame at China's main agricultural research center in Jiangsu Province. Native home of the mulberry silkworm, China has nearly 300 varieties and supplies more than half of the world's constant demand for silk.

Cocoons Hand-washed

But this is only the beginning of this labor-intensive industry. To soften the gummy coating on the silk fiber, women in China soak the cocoons in hot water. Then they can unravel the threads. Young girls in India spin silk by drawing fibers from pierced cocoons and twisting the strands across their legs.

Thirty-five countries produce silk, but their combined production adds up to only 0.2 percent of the world's total production of textile fibers. China, India, the Soviet Union, and South Korea are the leaders.

Silk initially spread from China to Rome by way of the Silk Road. By the 13th century Italy had become the silk center of the West. Muslims carried silk across North Africa to the Iberian Peninsula.

The United States began manufacturing silk products in the early 1800s and by 1915 was the biggest importer of silk, mostly for stockings. But World War II, which diverted silk for military uses, helped turn silk stockings into luxury items.

It's time for frost-crack seeding

FLEMINGTON, N.J. — "Frost-crack" seeding could just be the answer to improving a thin pasture stand or hay crop. This method of seeding, timely in the last two weeks of February and up to about March 15, can be successful for some kinds of plants, namely clovers and many of the grasses.

Forage stands, especially pastures, can thin out, often caused by grazing patterns and animal traffic.

"Frost-crack" seeding is nature's way of re-seeding. Seed is applied before ground thaws. The early spring freezing and thawing results in cracks and crevices in the soil surface, admitting the seed. Germination then occurs early in the season. Seedlings can be established before hot weather arrives.

Not all forage species can survive the low temperatures which may occur. Frost seeding alfalfa is not as successful as for clovers and most of our grasses.

Traditionally, farmers in this area have used frost-crack seeding in establishing red clover in winter wheat. Wheat is planted in fall, usually last week in September and into October. The crop develops good growth in late fall. Clover seed is broadcast in late February, early March. It falls on bare soil between the seven-inch rows and wheat.

Years back a farmer used a wheel-barrow seeder for this operation. Ever see one? It's a one-wheel device with handles like a wheel-barrow. A long seed box, perhaps 12 or 15 feet in length, was attached to the handles, over the wheel.

Simple construction, and it worked.

Porkettes Say 'No' To Name Change

BY KIMBERLY HERR

CAMP HILL — While the name Porkettes often brings a chuckle to those who are not familiar with it, the Pa. Porkettes voted against changing it.

It is that unusual name, some members said, that aids them in their promotion of pork. People laugh at the name, but they always ask for an explanation. And then, any Porkette worthy of the name can advertise for Pennsylvania pork.

The Porkettes, largely composed of the wives of Pa.'s pork producers, are a support and advertising group. They made the decision to keep their name during the sixth annual Keystone Pork Congress held last Thursday at the Penn Harris Motor Inn, Camp Hill.

In addition to the name change, the women also discussed hosting the National Pork Congress in Pennsylvania. The members were asked to indicate their interest in helping on a sign-up sheet.

The women also heard from Joan Liesau of the Pa. Livestock and Livestock Products Marketing Program who explained the educational and promotional events which had taken place during the previous year and what was expected in the year to come.

Concluding the business meeting was a report by Vice President Mollie Geise, Northumberland County, on the 4-H swine projects and what could be done to improve them. She also spoke on getting more pork recipes into the 4-H cooking projects.

After the business part of the program was completed, the Porkettes moved on to more tasty items, namely a cooking with pork demonstration by Frances Horst.

Members of the Pa. Porkettes await their chance to taste the ground pork dishes prepared by Frances Horst, a free lance home economist.

Frances Horst, a free lance home economist, prepared three pork recipes for the Pa. Porkettes.

Pork Apple Bites were a hit during the Porkettes meeting at the Keystone Pork Congress last Thursday. Above, two members taste the recipe that features ground pork.

Mrs. Horst is a freelance home economist from Palmyra, Lebanon County. She graduated from Mansfield State College and worked for 15 years as a home economics teacher.

Mrs. Horst, who demonstrated wok cooking at last year's Porkette meeting, featured recipes with ground pork this year.

She told her audience, made up of more than 40 Porkettes, that pork could be ground in a food processor, however, it is necessary to use loin meats. In addition to demonstrating how easy it was to ground pork, Mrs. Horst made three ground pork recipes, Barbecue Pork Heroes, Pork Apple Bites and Tasty Taco Salad. At the conclusion of her demonstration the women who had smelled the mouthwatering aromas during the presentation were eager to sample Mrs. Horst's recipes.

In the afternoon the women saw slides of the pork promotion which took place this summer in Lancaster. Each woman also did a candlewicking project in the afternoon, which featured a pig in a keystone.

There was no lard recipe contest sponsored this year.

BARBECUE PORK HEROES

1 1/2 pounds ground pork
1 loaf (1 pound) Vienna bread
1 small onion, chopped
1 rib celery, chopped
1 clove garlic, minced
1/2 cup barbecue sauce
1 1/2 teaspoons chili powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 cup shredded cheddar cheese

Cut a shallow slice, 2 1/3 inches wide, from top of loaf of bread. Remove bread to hollow inside of loaf until sides are 1/2 inch thick Brown ground pork, onion, celery and garlic in large frying pan Pour off drippings Add barbecue sauce, chili powder and salt, stirring to combine. Line bottom of inside of loaf with 1/2 cup shredded cheese Add meat mixture; sprinkle remaining cheese on meat Place top on loaf and wrap in foil, sealing top and ends. Place on jelly roll pan and bake in 450-degree oven for 20 minutes. Let stand for 10 minutes before slicing

PORK APPLE BITES

1 pound ground pork
1 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon cinnamon
1/8 teaspoon pepper
1/2 cup shredded pared apple
1/4 cup soft rye bread crumbs
1/4 cup chopped walnuts
2 tablespoons water
1/2 cup apple jelly

Sprinkle salt, cinnamon and pepper over pork; add apple, bread crumbs and walnuts. Mix lightly but thoroughly. Shape mixture into 40 balls (1 scant tablespoon each) Brown balls in large frying pan. Pour off drippings Add water, cover tightly and cook slowly 15 minutes. Remove balls to warm chafing dish Stir 1/2 cup apple jelly into cooking liquid and cook until melted Pour sauce over meatballs. Serve hot.

A member of the Pa. Porkettes samples some of the taco salad which features ground pork during the Keystone Pork Congress held last Thursday.

TASTY TACO SALAD

1 pound lean ground pork
1 8-ounce can tomatoes, cut up
1/4 cup chopped onion
2 to 3 teaspoons chili powder
1/4 teaspoon garlic powder salt and pepper
1 head iceberg lettuce
2 tomatoes cut in wedges
1/4 cup shredded cheddar cheese

In 9-inch skillet, brown ground pork over moderate heat. Drain Stir in undrained canned tomatoes, onion, chili powder and garlic powder Bring to boiling; reduce heat and simmer, uncovered, until most liquid evaporates, about 15 minutes, stirring occasionally Season to taste with salt and pepper. Meanwhile, line four individual salad bowls with large lettuce leaves; tear remaining lettuce into bite-size pieces. Divide among four salad bowls. Spoon about 1/2 cup pork mixture onto lettuce bed in each salad bowl. Arrange tomato wedges atop salad; sprinkle with cheese and crushed corn chips, if desired.

CRAFT
CORNER

Colorful candlewicking

When our Colonial ancestors first invented candlewicking, they used leftover candlewicks and old flour sacks

Because their supplies were practical, nondecorative and colorless, the resulting embroidery, although delicate and beautiful, remained as colorless as the original supplies

Nowadays, however, with colorful supplies readily available, it's fun to vary the craft with color You can stitch colored knots on white muslin, or as a more interesting alternative, stitch white knots on a contrasting background

The Bluebirds' pillow, for example, features white embroidery thread on baby-blue cloth White lace brings out the beauty of the bluebirds and a variety of simple candlewicking stitches enhance the design

The pillow is available as a complete kit with needle, thread, lace, instructions, and pre-printed blue fabric for pillow front plus enough for ruffle and backing To order kit C-2883, send $13 including postage and handling (California residents, please add 6½ percent sales tax) to Ellen Appel Crafts, your newspaper's name, Box 1144, Laguna Beach, CA 92652

If you wish to try a colorful technique right now, an idea for adding color follows The technique uses household dyes, the result, candlewicking with a shadow effect Here are directions

MATERIALS: White cotton muslin, white cotton candlewicking thread, household dye from the supermarket, large tin for dyeing, paper, black marking pen; water-soluble pen, stitching supplies (Note Materials are necessary for the dye technique only They're not needed for kit projects)

PLANNING THE DESIGN: 1 Draw a simple design on paper Darken lines with black marking pen 1 Lay muslin cloth over the paper 3 Using a water-soluble pen, trace design onto the cloth Draw dots, about five to the inch, wherever you plan to stitch french or colonial dots Draw solid lines wherever you plan to use outline, stem or satin stitches

STITCHING: 1 Stitch one french or colonial knot for each dot in your design 2 Stitch outline, stem or satin stitches over solid lines

DYEING: 1 Wash stitched cloth in very hot water 2 Following directions on the dye package, dye the stitched cloth 3 Roll fabric in terrycloth to remove excess moisture. 4 Press lightly, stitched side down, over several layers of terrycloth

SHADOW STITCHING: 1 Stitch white knots beside the dyed knots 2 Stitch white lines beside the dyed lines Your result will be double lines of knots and stitches, making the dyed knots appear to shadow the white knots

FINISHING: Turn finished stitchwork into a wall hanging, pillow or anything else you choose

Tips for Good Gardening

With so many reasons to garden, from brightening the home landscape with flowers to providing your family with fresh food, there's no reason to feel anything less than confident about your anticipated success. However, you will need to do a few things the right way at the right time if you want to boast of your accomplishments. The following step-by-step guide will provide you with the basics necessary whether you're a first-time gardener or a veteran who could uses a "refresher".

SUN - Choose plants to fit your conditions. Most vegetables need full sun for six hours per day, although leafy vegetables, like lettuce, require a little less. Most annuals also prefer full sun, although some, like impatiens and begonias, are happy in a shaded spot.

SOIL - Good drainage is a most important aspect of the soil; for best growth of flowers or vegetables, the soil should also be enriched with organic matter and of the right pH (6.0-7.0 in most cases). Have a soil test to be sure. If tree and shrub roots compete with the garden or the site is otherwises a problem, consider gardening in raised beds.

SOIL PREPARATION - Before doing any planting in spring, check for soil moisture. With freshly dug soil, make a ball in your fist. If it sticks together, it's too soon to work the soil; wait until a tight ball of soil crumbles easily. Dry, hard soil should be watered thoroughly and allowed to dry to a point where it passes the crumble test.

With a pitchfork or spade, dig down 6- to 8 inches into the soil, lifting and turning it and breaking up clumps. Remove any debris such as rocks, stones or twigs at this time also. Most soils benefit from the addition of organic matter such as sphagnum peat moss, compost or decomposed manure, spread 2- to 4 inches over the soil and blended in thoroughly An all-purpose fertilizer such as 5-10-5 should be incorporated at the same time, applied at a rate of 2- to 3 pounds per 100 square feet.

PLANTING - The garden is now ready to receive flower and vegetable transplants. These bedding plants make gardening easy, giving you a headstart on the season and allowing you to plant exactly what you want where you want it. "Tender" types of flowers and vegetables such as marigolds, petunias, tomatoes and eggplant should not be planted until after all danger of frost has past and the ground is warm. Remember when buying annuals that they should not necessarily be in bloom; in fact, some grow better if planted when all green.

Bedding plants from a greenhouse need to be "hardened off", or toughened up before they are planted. Set them outside in a warm, protected area for about a week and bring them back indoors at night if frost or chilly air is expected.

Before planting, water both the ground and the bedding plants. Dig a planting hole deeper and wider than the root ball and, after carefully removing the plant from the pack, fill in around the roots with soil while holding the plant at the same depth it had grown before (tomatoes and cabbage crops should be planted deeper). If roots are tight at the bottom, gently loosen them with your fingers. Firm the soil and water thoroughly. It's best to plant late in the afternoon or on a cloudy day to prevent transplanting shock and to shade the new plants from sun and wind for a few days after planting.

WATER - Water deeply so the soil is moist about three inches deep, about once a week if it doesn't rain. Frequent, light waterings encourage shallow roots and poor growth.

Md. offers seed directory

ANNAPOLIS, MD. — "If ever there was a year for farmers to worry over seed quality, this is it!" That's the uniform opinion of seed and agronomy experts when it comes to the 1984 planting season in Maryland.

The same drought and rough growing conditions that plagued farmers in Maryland and across the country were also tough on production of the seed supplies which are now coming to market for the 1984 planting season.

Production of seed supplies was down last year and demand this year is up. These two factors are combining, as any farmer knows, to jack up seed prices.

Therefore, according to the Maryland Department of Agriculture's Turf and Seed Section, this is the year for farmers to consider the advantages of using certified seed.

Certified seed is produced under high standards throughout its cycle. These standards assure farmers that they won't be buying weed seeds, that the seed is of known and proven genetic stock and that high germination standards have been met.

To help area farmers secure supplies of locally produced certified seed, the Maryland Department of Agriculture's Turf and Seed Section has just published a Spring 1984 "Maryland Certified Seed Directory" listing growers with soybean, hybrid corn and spring oat seed supplies.

Those wishing to obtain a copy of the Spring 1984 Certified Seed Directory may do so by contacting Dale Morris of the Maryland Department of Agriculture, 50 Harry S. Truman Parkway, Annapolis, MD 21401. His telephone number is (301) 841-5960.

Drug residue workshop set

LANCASTER — An important workshop will be held March 9 at the Lancaster Farm & Home Center's to update ag business people on the legal, economic and public health concerns or drug residues in meat, milk and eggs

The session is open to feed company personnel, animal health product distributors, Ag business professionals, any point-of-sale person who is handling animal health products, medicated feeds or farm chemicals

Introducing
BROOT

The rootworm insecticide built tough enough to last all season long.

Now there's BROOT™ from Union Carbide. It's the corn soil insecticide specially formulated to deliver the full-season rootworm control you need for higher corn yields.

Down deep, no other rootworm insecticide looks like BROOT™...

Unlike conventional soil insecticides, new BROOT is formulated into unique roll-compacted granules. Together with finely-ground gypsum, the active ingredient in BROOT, trimethacarb, is blended evenly throughout each and every granule.

Or works like BROOT™...

Because of this unique formulation, each granule of BROOT gradually releases its active ingredient throughout the rootworm season.

So your corn roots stand a better chance of developing normally

Or handles like BROOT™...

This advanced formulation also makes BROOT soil insecticide easier to handle. It flows smoothly and evenly out of the hopper box. And BROOT is not abrasive to your application.

Here's proof.

Results from performance trials throughout the Corn Belt prove that BROOT soil insecticide provides the kind of protection you need for top corn yields.

In testing to date, BROOT has been a consistent performer in terms of root ratings and yield response. That's why BROOT is included in university recommendations for effective rootworm control

So ask your dealer about new BROOT 15GX. He knows that it's more than just another rootworm insecticide. And once you try BROOT, you'll know it too

Counties Salute Outstanding 4-H Leaders

Lydia Phalen (bending) and members of her Newark area 4-H club, The Fantastics, spread cheer in a local nursing home.

NEWARK, Del. — Three outstanding Delaware 4-H leaders have been selected to represent their counties in the national 4-H leader recognition program, "A Salute To Excellence." They are: Jay Hukill, Sussex County; Delores Ann Smoot, Kent County; and Lydia Phalen, New Castle County.

Hukill, of Harbeson, is the leader of the Hollymount 4-H Club. An 11-year 4-H volunteer, she is president of the Sussex County Leaders' Association and a member of the county and state 4-H advisory committees. A strong supporter of the 4-H livestock program, each year she coordinates the Sussex-Lewes Horse Show and, with her husband John, helps run the sheep department at the Delaware State Fair.

Smoot, of Dover, a key leader in 4-H demonstrations, teaches public speaking skills to 4-H'ers in her county. With her encouragement, twice the usual number of young people participated in the county 4-H demonstration contest last year. Smoot also helped the county winners sharpen their presentations for the state contest.

The entire Smoot family is active in 4-H. Fourteen-year-old Kirsten made arrangements for her fellow members to present demonstrations at a local department store during 4-H Week. Glenn Smoot, manager of recreation for the State of Delaware, joined his wife at the Northeast Regional 4-H Leaders' Forum in Fish and Wildlife. Since their return, they've organized fishing tournaments, a county conservation fun day, conservation assemblies at state 4-H camp, and a conservation training program for other 4-H leaders around the state.

Phalen, of Newark, is the leader of the Fantastics 4-H Club. Her strongest emphasis is in the area of community service. Phalen and the Fantastics helped organize and continue to support the 4-H club for handicappled individuals at the Mary Campbell Center. They frequently visit nursing homes, hospitals, day-care centers and rehabilitation facilities. Several members of the club, including Phalen's own daughter Ann, have gone on to careers in the medical and helping professions as a result of their 4-H experiences.

Hukill, Smoot, and Phalen are among the 4-H leaders from all 50 states, the District of Columbia, and Puerto Rico who were honored for their outstanding service to the nation's largest out-of-school youth organization. From among the county winners, one winner will be selected from each state to attend a national Salute To Excellence Leader Forum in Washington, D.C., from March 19 to 24. The forum will feature an intensive program of interpersonal and communication skills. Each leader who participates will be eligible for a $1000 incentive grant, donated by R.J. Reynolds Industries, Inc. to be used to expand the role of volunteers in the state 4-H program.

What's the Best Growing Medium for Plants?

MEDIA — What's the best growing medium for starting garden plants? That question is frequently asked by home gardeners. And there are several good suggestions C.R Bryan, Jr Delaware County Extension service director, points out that the media you use for starting plants may range from a completely artificial material, such as vermiculite of perlite, to a field or garden soil. In most instances, ordinary topsoil from the field or garden is NOT suitable for starting plants. Such a soil often becomes hard, dries out rapidly, lacks good physical condition and may be either too rich, or not fertile enough.

A mixture of equal parts of soil, sand and peat or shredded manure is excellent for growing plants. Another good medium is a mixture of soil, peat and horticultural grade perlite

Large-seeded vegetables such as tomatoes, peppers and cabbage can be grown to transplanting size in vermiculite alone. One word of caution in using this material, however - applications of liquid fertilizer are required A soluble fertilizer such as 15-15-15 at the rate of one teaspoon full per gallon of water may be used to water the plants once every 10 days.

Start tomatoes and peppers 6 to 8 weeks before they can be set in the garden Cabbage is started 4 to 6 weeks prior to planting.

Before starting your plants, if you have some doubts regarding the best medium, contact your Extension Service.

Rabbit producers sought

ANNAPOLIS, MD — The search is on to find more meat-type rabbits to supply two Maryland-based processors who say they have such a demand now for their product that normal supply channels have been exhausted.

Supermarkets in the East are now carrying fresh rabbit on a regular basis and customers are clamoring for the product," says Jack Frey, Marketing Specialist with the Maryland Department of Agriculture

Our processors have asked us to help in any way possible to secure additional producers and rabbits In some cases, rabbits have been brought into Maryland from as far away as Arkansas to meet the ever increasing demand," Frey said

Anyone with rabbits to sell certainly has a market now in Maryland," he added

So urgent is the demand now that processors are eager to talk to anyone with rabbits no matter how few, or as many rabbits they might have

If you are interested in selling rabbits, or going into the rabbit raising business, you should contact Frey at the Maryland Department of Agriculture in Annapolis His telephone number is (301) 841-5770

Penn State ag college history being written

UNIVERSITY PARK — Since Penn State's earliest days as The Farmers High School, a cornerstone of the insitution has been agricultural research and teaching.

"Historically, in what is now the College of Agriculture, I see a commitment and loyalty to the school as key elements in just where agriculture fits into the total program of Penn State. There seems to be a pattern of dedication, longevity and a core staff that worked in harmony, despite many external pressures," said Michael Bezilla, a Penn State historian, currently writing the history of the college of agriculture.

Bezilla has been working on the history of the College for several months and has completed drafts of two chapters. As an example of the commitment and at times philosophical conflict, he said that when George Atherton was president in the 1880's, he wanted the College to be at the "beck and call of farmers." Henry Armsby, who was head of the Agricultural Experiment Station, wanted to emphasize fundamental research.

Armsby and a team of dedicated scientists remained on the faculty at Penn State, despite more lucrative offers. "He was so well known that he could have gone to many other institutions and been a pure research scientist, yet he and others stayed," said Bezilla. Today, these pioneer agricultural researchers are known to most by the buildings or landmarks bearing their names: Armsby, Frear, Butz, and Buckhout.

Bezilla is the author of the official history of the College of Engineering and is currently finishing writing the first official history of Penn State since the 1940's. "It is the responsibility of each generation to interpret history," said Bezilla. "Since Wayland Dunaway wrote the last official history of Penn State over 40 years ago a lot more information has become available." This book is expected to go to press later this year.

Bezilla said that the early history of Penn State and the College of Agriculture are one and the same, however, the early chapters of the College history will emphasize commitment to "scientific agriculture."

Bezilla noted that Evan Pugh, the first president of Penn State, wrote "the education of the agriculturalist is almost entirely neglected." One of the main goals of land grant education is the adoption of scientific knowledge in making agriculture more efficient. Bezilla said that this was many decades in coming.

Bezilla earned his Ph.D. from Penn State in 1978 majoring in the history of technology. His thesis was, "The Development of Traction on the Pennsylvania Railroad, 1895-1968." He has a master's in American history from Penn State and a bachelor's in social science from Indiana University of Pennsylvania.

He has also served as a teaching assistant in the Department of History. He was a graduate fellow of the Pennsylvania Transportation Institute; the recipient of an Association of American Railroads Electrification grant.

He is a member of the editoral board of Pennsylvania History, the quarterly journal of the Pennsylvania Historical Association. He is also a member of the Organization of American Historians, the Society for the History of Technology, the Pennsylvania Historical Association, and the Railroad and Locomotive Historical Society.

He expects the history of the College of Agriuclture to be published in 1986. His future plans include more writing and possibly some lecturing on agricultural history.

WOULD YOU LIKE 300 BUSHEL CORN PER ACRE?

A Juniata County farmer had it in 1982 using Flora-Life, a mineral and bacteria product which we now sell. It was a 9 acre field average of 300 bu. crib moisture.

To get top yields you must obviously supply what is missing — the elements that other programs destroy. Our Creator didn't make a mistake. And if it is missing in the soil, it is also missing in the feed. Hence our livestock diseases, troubles, and problems. Our customers fare considerably better in the barn and in the fields. Larger crops than their neighbors - healthier and spray free.

Our N.EM.A. GRANULATED VITAMIN C is a big boost to livestock and poutlry because in mill feed C looses its value from oxidation. Ours has excellent proofs on layers — amny flocks. Big hog raisers are starting. It is becoming a good seller. We are looking for dealers. It is good money because it will get popular, and you get your own at wholesale - a very reasonable price because of volume production.

HAVE NITRATE PROBLEM?

Our Vitamin C is the answer. It destroys or neutralizes the nitrates. What a good discovery! It is double purpose. At same time it supplies the rich nutrition mentioned above. Excellent for livestock problems especially breathing problems.

Ask for eye opening literature

ROCK PHOSPHATE

Balances manure and lasts long for a very reasonable price. Bulk spread or bags.

A Natural Mastitis Treatment That Works

It is rich nutrition in the feed. Costs only about $2 75 per day, 2 feedings usually knocks it out except in old prolonged cases. Even those sometimes when drugs have failed. It is Spirulina' , an algae that grows on water. Extremely rich in vitamins, minerals, trace elements, amino acids, chlorophyll and enzymes. It supplies the missing elements. Makes cows resistant. It is double purpose - nourishing the cow and treating the cause, not just the udder or symptom. Farmers say helps improve sick cows in a few hours.

200 Tablets... $18.95 Postpaid

Good repeat orders prove that this mastitis treatment works. We also have another excellent natural product to use in combination for very stubborn cases and sick cows· Free literature. Dealerships available for both these becoming popular products

Seminar on meetings slated

DOVER, Del. — Building and maintaining effective organizations is not easy. It's a never-ending job. The recognition is growing that many Delaware farm, homemaker, 4-H, community and other groups would welcome some training in organizational and leadership development.

To help meet this need, the Delaware Cooperative Extension Service will conduct a workshop, "Managing Better Meetings," on Tuesday, March 20, from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. in the auditorium, Business Administration Building, Delaware State College in Dover.

Daryl Heasley, well-known specialist in leadership and community organization from Penn State, will conduct this training session. Each participant will receive a packet of helpful materials, and certificates will be awarded those who attend.

The $10 registration fee will cover lunch and other costs. To register, send name, address, phone number, and check payable to University of Delaware to: Dr, R.E. Fowler, Cooperative Extension Service, Townsend Hall, University of Delaware, Newark, DE 19717-1303.

Reserve status reported

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Corn may not be removed without penalty from the farmer-owned grain reserve while oats will remain in release status through February, according to a USDA official.

Everett Rank, administrator of USDA's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, said the decision on the reserve commodities was made following a review by USDA's Commodity Credit Corporation of its average market prices Feb. 1, as reported by USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service, adjusted to reflect the market price received by farmers.

The national average adjusted price of $3.12 per bushel for corn on Feb 1 was 3 cents below its reserve IV release level and 13 cents under the release level for reserve V. Rank said storage payments for corn will be earned in all states beginning Feb 1 For corn which has been in the reserve at least one year interest accrual will stop, he said

On Feb. 1, the national average adjusted price for oats was $1.74 per bushel, 9 cents above the commodity's reserve release level. Storage payments for oats stopped on that date.

There are approximately 428 million bushels of corn in reserve IV, about 779 million bushels of corn in reserve V and an estimated 4.7 million bushels of oats in the reserve.

Daily markets reviewed by CCC for corn are Kansas City, Minneapolis, Omaha and St. Louis The daily market reviewed by CCC for oats is Minneapolis.

Why February?

BY KIMBERLY HERR

Now that the last Saturday in February has finally arrived - not a minute too soon in my opinion - I have but one question. Why, why, why do they add an extra day to February?

An additional day would be lovely in May, September or December, maybe even January, but why February, that scrawny little month, the runt of the year?

Now, before you think I'm being unduly harsh, let's reflect back on what this month had to offer.

It got off to a dismal start when that nasty little groundhog predicted we would have six more weeks of winter. Hearing his wintry forecast on the way to work that morning I wondered if it was possible for home editors to hibernate for six weeks without being missed. I decided it was not.

Soon after recovering from the groundhog's announcement, I was overcome with Valentine's Day blues.

I received two lovely boxes of candy the week before Valentine's Day from my parents and a friend's parents, which was wonderful, but my waistline cried out for mercy and I found the fashions in shops for full figures were looking more and more like something I should buy for spring.

My co-workers, usually so easy to work with, seemed to delight in ribbing me about the fact that no flowers arrived for me on that special day. Our editor did surprise us with gift-wrapped business cards, but they were not chocolate and I was disappointed.

And on the flip side of receiving is giving, which seemed to overwhelm me this year as I had Christmas all over again. Family and friends loved this generous side of me, but my checkbook will never be the same.

My father sports a brand new tie tack, my mother's ears are adorned with gold earrings, my brother - a poor college student - has a few extra dollars in his pocket and a friend has cologne that smells so wonderful that he can only wear it when he's with me. But the pleasure of giving was only a brief, bright spot.

Believe or not, the month got worse.

Two days after Valentine's Day as I was driving home from work I was attacked by an unusual tired feeling.

Spending the weekend sipping ginger ale and eating chicken broth was just about what I expected for this dark, little month that seemed to go on and on.

Then just when I was feeling better, my father broke the news that he and millions of other people across the country had off on Monday for President's Day.

But, did I? Of course not, because any journalist worth her typewriter knows that vacation or not, people still want their paper So, for the Lancaster Farming staff and probably for many of you, Monday was just another day.

A call from my father Monday reminding me that he was having a lovely vacation day, did not make the beginning of my week any brighter.

But, at the risk of sounding like a chronic complainer, there is more.

Yesterday, the Lancaster Farming staff said goodbye to Trish Williams, our staff reporter, covering many of the dairy events during the past year. We'll all miss her dairy expertise and I'll miss her friendship in the office.

After today, there will be four more days left of this short month that seems so long. You will not hear another complaint from me about February as I plan to think happy thoughts and count the hours, minutes, seconds until the first day of March.

Attributing my achiness to not getting enough sleep, I made two delicious venison fillets for dinner and went to bed. The deer that I ate that night had been killed by a friend - I was innocent and had nothing to do with its death - but, somehow that deer must have gotten confused and decided to take its revenge out on me.

My achiness apparently had nothing to do with being tired and everything to do with the flu. And so the venison spent the night raging in my stomach, making me promise never to hunt or even write a column about hunting again

4-H Clubs Launch Coupon Book Campaign

FLEMINGTON, N.J. — Over $6,000 worth of coupons are available in the Four Square Value Coupon Books which will be sold by Hunterdon County 4-H Clubs during the next few months. This project was launched by the Ralston Purina Company in collaboration with the National 4-H Council. Fifteen states were selected to participate in this first-year effort.

The Four Square Values Books may be purchased for $6 each. They are available at the County 4-H Office or from any 4-H club member. The book contains over 464 pages of discounts on foods, restaurants and other merchandise. Featured is a special travel section which allows discounts at various hotels throughout the country. Forms of recreation, entertainment and a mail order section are also included.

Funds raised through the sales of these books will be given to State and County 4-H programs. County funds will be used to sponsor county 4-H events such as 4-H Day at the Mall, presentations, the Achievement and Flemington Fairs and the County Achievement dinner next fall. A sample of the book is on display in the County 4-H Office, Route 31 Flemington from 8:30-4:30, Monday through Friday.

Mrs. Maryann Mitchell of Glen Gardner is Hunterdon County's Chairman. Further information may be obtained by calling her at 832-2302 or the County 4-H Office at 788-1340 or 1341.

Feb. Food Shopping Brightens Outlook

EBENSBURG — February is a good month for food shopping. The fact that there are only 29 days in the month helps your budget, even though you have to make up for it in March.

February is a month of festive occasions that provide retailers with opportunities to promote feature foods. The second month features Groundhog Day, two presidents' birthdays and Valentine's Day.

February marks the arrival of foods that signal the coming of spring. Soon to be appearing on fresh produce counters are strawberries, new round red potatoes, asparagus and hothouse rhubarb.

Even though February can be a long, dreary month for those of us who live in the North, food shopping in February can brighten the outlook for better days ahead.

Take Advantage of Meat Specials

Though things still look fairly bright at the meat counter, darker days - probably late this summer - are ahead. By then retail prices will start to advance as supplies become tighter. Right now livestock producers are still reducing herds by sending more animals than usual to market. These increased marketings result from last summer's drought, reduced feed supplies and higher prices. There should be some attractive beef and pork specials through the end of March. Retail meat prices will likely remain fairly steady through spring and then start to move up by summer. Now through March would be the best time to stock the freezer whenever you see specials on your favorite cuts, according to Mary Schreyer, Extension home economist.

Buy Large Roast For "Planned Overs"

The expression "cold shoulder" originated as a result of a change in the menu. In days gone by, roasts of meat were served to welcome guests, but for those who overstayed their welcome cold shoulder and other leftovers began to appear on the table.

Today, the smart shopper counts on "planned overs." Large chuck roasts are often a smart choice. You can cook the whole roast for planned overs. One idea might be to use part of the cooked roast to make sandwich filling. With today's new food processors it's very easy to incorporate your favorite ingredients to make a tasty sandwich filling that's less expensive than lunch meat.

Or before cooking you could cut the roast into three different meals, particulaly a round bone or an arm chuck roast. One-third of the roast could be cut and sliced as steaks for swissing; the middle third could be used for a pot roast; the other third could be cubed for stews or cut into strips for stroganoff. With some planning, you won't get the "cold shoulder" from the family.

Large Eggs A Better Buy

Whenever egg prices reach a relatively high level, many shoppers assume it is cheaper to buy the smaller sizes because they are a few cents lower in price. It's often false economy. At present prices it would take more than a 17-cent spread for the next smaller size to be a better buy, assuming large eggs are costing between $1.33 and $1.39 a dozen.

Just remember that a dozen large eggs weighs 24 ounces and that only three ounces separate the sizes. If you divide 24 ounces into the price of large eggs, let's say $1.35 a dozen, then they cost a little more than 5½ cents an ounce. A dozen medium-size eggs weighs 21 ounces; to be an equal value or better buy they would have to cost less than $1.18 a dozen, or 17 cents less. In many stores price spreads are ranging from 2 to 6 cents.

Maple sugar fete on March 10

WEST CHESTER - Chester County's Hibernia Park will host the fourth annual Maple Sugar Festival on Saturday, March 10, from 9 AM to 4 PM.

The event is geared toward the backyard maple sugar cooker, those who are interested in the sugaring process and want to try it at home. The park staff will demonstrate how to identify and select maple trees. Other demonstrations will show onlookers how to tap the trees and collect the sap. A homemade evaporator will enable visitors to witness the boiling, pouring, and cooling processes.

Interpretive exhibits will show the types of collection devices, tools, and implements needed, while take home brochures will outline the maple sugaring procedures step by step. Equipment catalogs will be available free of charge. Collections of recipes substituting maple syrup for sugar will be distributed free also.

Woodland workshops planned

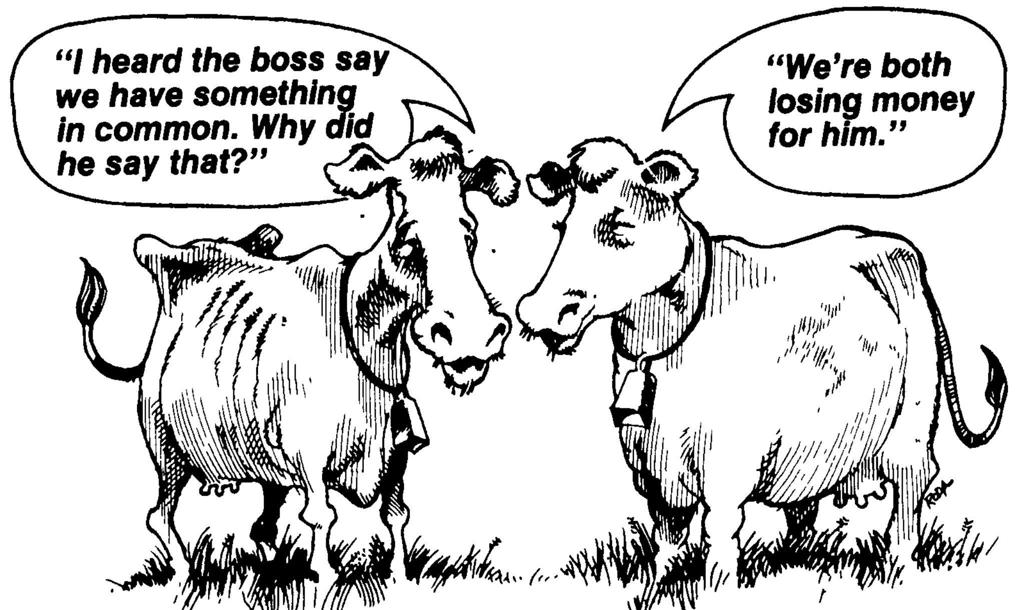
WEST CHESTER - Three woodland management seminars will be sponsored by the Pennsylvania Bureau of Forestry in cooperation with the Chester County Parks and Recreation Department and the Tyler Arboretum. These 2½-hour programs will cover such topics as tree growth, forest development, forest management concepts, commercial harvesting techniques, timber sale contracts, wildlife and insect and disease problems.

The seminars will be held in Chester County on Thursday, March 15, at the Hatfield House, Hibernia County Park and on Thursday, March 22, at the Nottingham County Park Office, Nottingham.

On Monday, March 19 the seminar will be given at the Tyler Arboretum, Lima, Delaware County. All programs will begin at 7 PM.

Seating is limited, therefore, reservations are required. They may be made by calling the Bureau of Forestry at (21[illegible]) 469-6217.

A common story



"I heard the boss say we have something in common. Why did he say that?"
"We're both losing money for him."

Selective Feeder Company's computer-controlled feeding system could put both of these cows back on the payroll. It will feed each cow the amount it needs, based on production and stage of lactation.

You can buy a more expensive system, but you can't buy a better one.

The Milk Check

TOM JURCHAK
County Agent

No Contract Changes

Last week the USDA released enrollment information on the Milk Diversion Program and concluded that there would apparently be no reason for modifying contracts. In light of the number of farmers enrolled; the amount of milk to be diverted and the number of dairy cows to be slaughtered because of the program, no changes would be made. However, farmers under contract should receive, by certified mail, a letter from ASCS verifying acceptance of their contract before it is official.

Total enrollment for the nation was 37,530 or about 12 percent of the producers. They contracted to reduce production below their base by 9.3 billion pounds or 5.5 percent of the national supply over the next 15 months. They would send 336,796 more cows to slaughter or about 60 percent above normal culling between now and March 31, 1985. This was the average for 15 months but during the first quarter they plan to send twice as many cows to the butcher than they usually do and in the last quarter only 30 percent more.

With only a 5.5 percent cut, USDA does not see this as a threat to fluid milk supplies in any market. Neither do they feel that the extra cull cows will seriously affect farm prices for meat. Besides, they have other opportunities for supporting meat prices if needed. Such things as the triggers already in place for limiting beef imports and CCC purchases of meat for school lunch or other commodity programs.

At this level of participation, the 50 cent assessment started December 1 to pay for the Milk Diversion Program will about cover the cost if there are no extras for administration. Over the 15 month period ASCS will send about $930 million, at the rate of $10 a hundred, to the 37,530 farmers for an average of $24,780 per farm for reducing production an average of 23 percent below their base.

Regional Differences

There were big differences, regionally, in participation but not as some expected. Those who were guessing, thought participation would be light in the northeast and midwest but heavy in the southeast and southwest. It didn't turn out that way. Here in the northeast, participation was below average with Pennsylvania and New York at six and eight percent, with Vermont and New Hampshire at 12 and eight percent. The southeast, southwest and California were about at the national average of 12 percent. The big surprise, if there was one, was in the midwest and the lake states. In the midwest, Kansas, Iowa and Nebraska ranged from 18 to 22 percent participation and the lake states of Wisconsin, Minnesota and Michigan - all big states in milk production - had 14 to 20 percent participation.

So, while it would appear that there is no threat to fluid milk supplies nationally, local market or individual handlers could have a supply problem but milk probably will not have to move long distances to meet fluid needs. Milk for processing, particularly butter, powder, cheese and condensed milk, will have to fill the gap for fluid use and soft product manufacturing and this is where the shoe will pinch. Processing capacity expanded in recent years to accomodate increased production since 1979 may not have the milk supply they have come to expect. However, if we can use the rule of thumb that the reduction in supply will be about half the percent of farmer participation then the greatest reduction of milk supply even in the midwest would be about 10 percent. That could still be serious to an individual plant, handler or cooperative but for all those affected by a 5.5 percent reduction it should be a sign of things to come as we move supply in line with demand by whatever means in the years ahead.

In Pennsylvania

In Pennsylvania there were 1,227 producers who participated in the diversion program. This was six percent of the producers diverting two percent of the milk for a total of $25 million or $20,700 per producer for the 15 months. Participation in counties with 75 herds or more ranged from a high of 19 percent in Lackawanna to a low of two percent in Fayette. Regionally participation was highest in the northeastern counties while Order 4 shippers were handicapped by the effect of the program on their seasonal incentive plan bases. Generally, however, it was agreed that the short sign up period helped to lower participation.

Predictions

It's not hard to predict from the participation in the Milk Diversion Program that there will be further cuts in the support price in April and July of 1985. This would be a total of $1.50 below the $13.10 that we had from January 1981 to December 1983 making it $11.60 on July 1, 1985. What is harder to predict is the response of producers who did not participate in the Milk Diversion Program and for those who did after March 31, 1985 when the $10 payments end. It's easy to say the production has to increase to maintain "cash flow" at lower milk prices but with increasing feed prices and decreasing milk prices this may not be possible for the 88 percent of the producers who elected to stay the course without the Milk Diversion Program. Some may even begin to see the light that more milk doesn't necessarily mean more net income or that better doesn't have to mean bigger.

Then there's the promotion and advertising program that, in the opinion of many, is the best part of the present price support legislation. The problem here is whether it can show enough results in the next year to survive a national referendudm of producers. Here in Pennsylvania many have blamed the defeat of such programs on the timing of the referendum. Nationally it would be held right after the third 50 cent cut in the support price and the timing couldn't be worse. Will producers give it a fair chance to show its merits by extending it another year?

Finally, it appears predictable that with the participation in the Milk Diversion Program Congress will not offer it again in new legislation. What seems most likely is a turn back to the parity formula with modifications such as dairy specific price movers and built in triggers that eliminate the problem of extended periods of CCC purchases at high dollar or milk equivalent levels.

Tobacco sales quotas set in Md.

ANNAPOLIS, Md. — The State Tobacco Authority has announced daily sales quotas that apply to the eight Southern Maryland tobacco auction houses during the 1984 season which will begin on Tuesday, March 13, and run through Thursday, April 26.

Sales are normally conducted on a four-day per week basis. However, some weeks only have three selling days. Normal sales weeks are Monday through Thursdays.

In order to maintain an orderly market, and even flow of leaf onto and off the auction floors, the Authority has determined that four day sales week will have a combined daily quotas of 1.2 million pounds. Thus, weekly sales will be 4.8 million pounds.

For a three-day sales week, the daily combined quota will be increased to 1,333,334 pounds resulting in a weekly sales quota of approximately four million pounds.

Individual warehouses are assigned specific daily quotas designed to bring about the combined daily sales quota goals.

Here are the 3-day and 4-day daily quotas per auction house: Marlboro 152,267 and 137,040; Planters 119,867 and 107,880; Edelen #1 106,134 and 95,520; Triangle 196,533 and 176,880; Waldorf 181,067 and 162,960; Farmers 309,066 and 278,160; Hughesville 171,466 and 154,320; Edelen #2 96,934 and 87,240.

However, according to John Prouty, Chairman of the State Tobacco Authority, the daily sales quotas can be revised upwards or downwards should the market demand faster or slower movement in order to maintain an orderly pace.

Beef field day March 9

ANNAPOLIS, Md. — A Beef Cattle Field Day will be held at the Beltsville Agricultural Research Center on March 9 in conjunction with a regular meeting of the Maryland Cattlemen's Association.

Registration will begin at 9 a.m. The first topic to be discussed will be an overview of the National Beef Cattle Research Program. Following that, sessions will be devoted to "year-round grazing in Maryland," "what's new in growth promotants for cattle," and research challenges for the future."

Speakers will be from the Beltsville Research Center and the University of Maryland. Following lunch, a tour of Beltsville will be held with the business meeting fo the Maryland Cattlemen's Association set for 3 p.m.

A $3 registration fee has been set. Anyone wishing to attend should contact MCA President Bruce Brendel, 1596 Daisy Road, Woodbine, Md. 21797, as soon as possible.

Cheese workshop slated

CLAYTON, N.J. — The Homesteader's Dairy Goat Club of South Jersey is sponsoring a Cheesemaking Workshop on Saturday, April 28, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Gloucester County Building, Delsea Drive (Rt. 47), Clayton, N.J. The location is easy to reach from the Delaware Memorial Bridge, Rt. 322 from Pennsylvania, Rt. 295 and the N.J. Turnpike.

Bob and Ricki Carroll, co-owners of the New England Cheesemaking Supply Co., Ashfield, Mass, and authors of the newsletter, "Cheesemakers' Journal," and the book, "Cheesemaking Made Easy," will give instructions at the workshop. Actual participation and demonstrations will show how to make a hard pressed (gouda) cheese, and a soft (lactic herbed) cheese. Participants are asked to bring milk along; either goat's milk or cow's milk will be used.

There will also be a slide presentation and a question and answer period. Cheese will be available for sampling and cheesemaking kits and equipment will be on sale.

Deadline for enrollment is March 20, on a first-come, first-served basis. The cost is $25, which includes lunch. Send your name, address and check and indicate if you will be able to bring milk along and what type. Mail to Homesteader's DGC of South Jersey, c/o Penny Moroney, RR 2, Box 425, Breakenck Rd., Sewell, NJ 08080, or phone (609) 478-2933, for more information.

Consider each field for insecticide decisions

NEWARK, Del. — As farmers consider whether to plant corn or soybeans on 1983 set-aside acreage, many are wondering what soil insects are likely to give them trouble, as this will help determine the choice of crop. According to University of Delaware extension pest management specialist Joanne Whalen, the decision should be made on a field-by-field basis.

"The likelihood of any particular insect being a problem will depend on what cover, if any, was planted into set-aside land last year, the tillage practices used in 1984, and the weather this winter and spring," says Whalen. "Based on survey information collected in the Midwest and knowledge of soil insect biology, producers can use the following guidelines to assess potential insect problems and help make subsequent control decisions."

If corn is planted into set-aside acreage, problems from white grubs and wireworms should be low, she says. It is unlikely that populations will increase to economic levels in one year. The exception is where high numbers have been consistently found in previous years. Fields that were established in sod or pasture before 1983 will have the greatest potential for damage.

Flea beetle populations were high in 1983 and were observed in set-aside acreage. This insect transmits the bacterium, Stewart's wilt. Therefore, economic levels can cause severe problems for seed producers. The abundance of this insect during the growing season is related to the severity of the previous winter. The cold weather experienced so far this winter should help lower overwintering populations of the flea beetle, Whalen says. Even so, check corn as soon as it emerges for the presence of this pest, to determine whether a rescue treatment is necessary.

Corn or soybeans planted into fields that are not tilled until this spring are more likely to suffer black cutworm or seed corn maggot damage. These fields will be attractive to egg-laying adults, which may result in larval damage to crops. Economic outbreaks of black cutworms occur in spotty areas throughout the state, the specialist says. Therefore, rescue treatments will provide the most effective and economic control. "Seed corn maggots will be more troublesome in these fields if we experience another cool, wet spring," she says. A seed treatment of diazion + lindane will provide good protection against the maggots and also give some protection against wireworms."

Corn that is no-tilled into set-aside acreage may experience problems from cutworms, stalk borers and armyworms. The green plant growth present in these fields is attractive to egg-laying moths. Start scouting fields for signs of insect feeding as soon as the corn emerges and apply a rescue treatment when necessary, Whalen advises.

The potential for slug damage in no-till fields will depend on the weather at planting. Damage is most likely to occur if we have another cool, wet spring, especially in fields with a heavy mulch of corn stalks or rye. "Since slug outbreaks occur in spotty areas, the best control measure would be to apply a rescue treatment of an insecticide, or till fields in the spring to help dry out the soil," Whalen says.

Consider each field separately when making the decision to use a soil insecticide, she concludes. In general, land that was left fallow in 1983 won't need an insecticide treatment unless the field has a history of soil insect problems or you're planting into sod. The presence of plant debris and weeds will increase the potential for egg laying by black cutworms, stalk borers and armyworms. However, good rescue treatments are available for all of them. An insecticidal seed treatment will provide effective and inexpensive control of seed corn maggots and should be used if a soil insecticide is not applied.

Chicken Cooking Contest Deadline Nears

HARRISBURG — Your favorite chicken recipe could win you a trip to Hawaii or several other valuable prizes if you hurry!

The Delmarva Chicken Cooking Contest, formerly a tri-state competition, has been expanded to include Pennsylvania and the entire northeastern United States. The expanded contest area gives anyone from Pennsylvania an opportunity to enter. All you need is a delectable idea for preparing broiler-fryer chicken, whole or any part or parts.

Entries should be sent to Delmarva Chicken Cooking Contest, RD 2, Box 47, Georgetown, DE 19947. Deadline for entries is March 1.

Participants' recipes should make four to eight servings and total preparation time should not exceed three hours. More than one entry per contestant is permitted.

Top prize is a 10-day, expense paid trip for two to Hawaii plus $1,000, a Frigidaire microware oven, LP gas grill, Sunbeam mixer, Wearever cookware and a collection of McCormick spices. Second and third place winners will share prizes valued at more than $3,000.

In addition, 26 finalists (two from each eligible state) will receive expense paid trips to the cook-off finals in Salisburg, Maryland, June 8 & 9. Judging will be based on appeal, taste, appearance and ease of preparation.

Each recipe must be typed or printed on a separate sheer of paper with the contestant's name, address and telephone number included.

The contest is sponsored by Delmarva Poultry Industry, Inc., the trade association which represents the poultry industry on the Delmarva Peninsula.

A previous cook-off winning recipe follows:

Chicken Ole'

8 broiler-fryer chicken thighs
2 tablespoons butter, melted
1 package taco seasoning mix, divided
1½ cups tomato juice
one 16 oz. can vegetarian baked beans
3/4 cup raw rice

In a large baking pan, place the chicken skin side down. Pour butter over chicken. Sprinkle half of the taco seasoning mix over chicken. Bake, uncovered, in a 400 degree oven for 15 minutes. Remove chicken from baking pan and set aside. In the baking pan, mix together tomato juice, water, beans and rice. Return chicken to baking pan skin side up. Sprinkle the remaining half of taco seasoning mix over chicken. Return pan to oven and bake uncovered, for about 45 minutes or until liquid is absorbed and fork can be inserted in chicken with ease. Makes 4 servings.

STRAY VOLTAGE SOLUTION

The HAMMOND TINGLE VOLTAGE FILTER is a new development in the technology of stray voltage reduction.
The TINGLE VOLTAGE FILTER has recently been installed on the following dairy farms.

BEN JACKSON FARM
COLUMBIA CROSS ROADS, PA.
Before installation had 2.5 volts at peak times, this was reduced to .04 volts with installation of the Tingle Voltage Filter.

WILLIAM EICK FARM
COLUMBIA CROSS ROADS, PA.
Before installation had 3.5 volts at peak times was reduced to .14 volts with installation of the Tingle Voltage Filter.

The TINGLE VOLTAGE FILTER is safe, effective, permanent, inexpensive and are completely maintenance free.
If installed with Dairylands Stray Voltage Indicator permanently will show electrical faults before they become hazardous.

Dealers Wanted: To sell and install this fast moving, much needed product in your areas.
Qualifications: Must have complete electrical knowledge of dairy farm equipment, and electrical service entrance.
Please send qualifications and credit references to your Dairy Equipment Specialist.

PACMA offers dried distillers grain

CAMP HILL — A new source of dairy, cattle, hog and poultry feed is now available to farmers exclusively through PACMA, the marketing cooperative of the Pennsylvania Farmers Association (PFA).

Keith Eckel, president of the voluntary, statewide farm organization, said, "PFA is proud to announce that its cooperative, PACMA, has obtained exclusive rights to distribute dried distillers grain with solubles from the South Point Ethanol Plant in South Point, Ohio. Dried distillers grain with solubles is recognized by dairymen, feed mills and extension specialists as being a superior feed because of its concentration of vitamins, minerals and fat and its greater availability of the cow's digestive system."

Eckel added, "Because its supply was previously unreliable, dried distillers grain with solubles was usually fed only to higher producing dairy cows. Now, as a result of our special arrangement with one of the largest ethanol plants in the world, a steady, year-round supply will be available to Pennsylvania farmers through PACMA.

"Dried distillers grain is the product remaining after ethanol is extracted from corn for use as a gasohol. The solubles are a molasses-like distiller by-product that is added to the distillers grain, making it a more valuable feed."

Eckel said, "the product PACMA will be distributing will have a guaranteed analysis with not less than 25% crude protein; not less than 8.0% crude fat; not more than 8.5% crude fiber and a TDN of approximately 78%. Feeding trials have proven that 26% distillers grain is nearly equivalent to 44% soybean meal, especially in feeding cattle because of a higher rumen by-pass value. When compared, pricewise, distillers grain will cost less per ton in most months."

Comparing it with brewer's grain, Eckel said, "Distillers grain has a more consistent quality than brewer's grain because corn is the sole source of input. There are no hops or other products added as in the brewing industry."

Dried distillers grain with solubles will be available from PACMA in bulk, usually in 20-22 ton truckloads.

For more information contact PACMA at (717) 761-2740. In western Pennsylvania, contact Dwight Allshouse at (412) 353-9160.

Controlling chickweed in strawberries

NEWARK, Del. — Strawberry lovers have already begun to anticipate the first ripe fruit of the season, even though winter is far from over. Midwinter is also the time for commercial growers to start anticipating weed problems, because there's still plenty of time to prevent or correct them in strawberry fields.

Many good herbicides are available for use in strawberries, says University of Delaware extension county agent Bob Hochmuth. Knowing the history of a field can help in choosing the right ones to eliminate specific weeds.

Chickweed, a winter annual, is often neglected until too late in the spring, he says. Most herbicides used in strawberries are pre-emergence materials which must be applied before weeds germinate. Chickweed germinates in the fall and exists as a young plant through the winter.

Existing chickweed can be controlled if the right materials are used properly, Hochmuth says. Tenoran or Norex both have postemergent activity on this pest at any stage.For best results, apply early while the weed is still small. Don't apply more than twice a season, or within 60 days of harvest. Tenoran is very weak on grasses, so a good grass herbicide must be added for control Recommended rates are 6 to 8 pounds per acre of either Tenoran or Norax.

Sinbar is another herbicide which will control chickweed. This material gives broad spectrum control of both broadleaf and grass weeds. To control established chickweed, apply it when the weed is small — 2 inches or less. Extreme caution should be taken if using Sinbar, the agent says. Do not use it on coarse or sandy soils with less than 2 percent organic matter. And don't plant any crop other than alfalfa, blueberries, apples or strawberries within two years after an application. Labeled rates for Sinbar are ½ to ⅔-pound of product per acre. Use lower rates on light soils.

Other herbicides available for use in strawberries include Dacthal, Enide and Devrinol. Each must be applied to weed-free soil and will not affect existing weeds. Check the label of each product carefully for proper use and possible sensitivity of certain strawberry varieties.

For more information on weed control and other cultural problems of field-grown strawberries, producers are advised to consult 1984 Commercial Vegetable Production Recommendations.

Now is the Time to Seed Your Lawn

If you missed seeding bare and thin spots in the lawn last Fall, you will have a second chance as snow retreats. Late winter, when the soil freezes and thaws frequently, is the time for frost seeding.

A critical factor in successful lawn seeding is soil-seed contact. Lawn seed sown now will, in effect, be planted for you by the action of alternate freezing and thawing on the soil surface. Then, when the soil temperature warms up sufficiently, the seeds will germinate, getting an early start and increasing the probability that the seedlings will survive the weeds and heat to come.

To make frost seeding succeed, remove any organic debris that is on the soil surface. Then sow seed uniformly over the spot. If you do this early in the day when the soil is still "honey comed" from the night's freeze, the seed will begin to be worked into the soil as it thaws later in the day.

It is not too early for a reminder about lawn feeding. Although the weather during March may make it difficult to get at this important job, the first fretilizer application should go on then so that nutrients are available when the grass is in active spring growth. The second application will be made in September when the lawn is again in active growth after the unfavorable conditions of summer.

Three reasons why Bicep gives better control than most tank mixes.

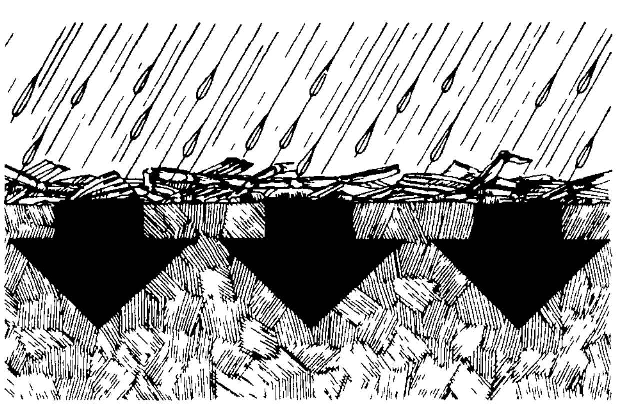
Low volatility

Sure, most tank mixes do a pretty good job on weeds and grasses in corn. But what if you could get even better control with just a single product? With Bicep,® you can.

Bicep is different. It's the double-duty herbicide that gets both weeds and grasses all by itself. In fact, Bicep actually outperforms most tank mixes. One reason why is that Bicep is low in volatility.

Volatile herbicides escape into the air soon after application. They become ineffective. But not Bicep. Put it down and it stays put for season-long control—even in cool, wet weather.

Low volatility is just the beginning of what makes Bicep better. Keep it in mind if you're up against tough weeds like cocklebur, pigweed, ragweed or black nightshade. Or late germinating grasses like foxtail, panicum or crabgrass.



Bicep goes into the soil not into the air

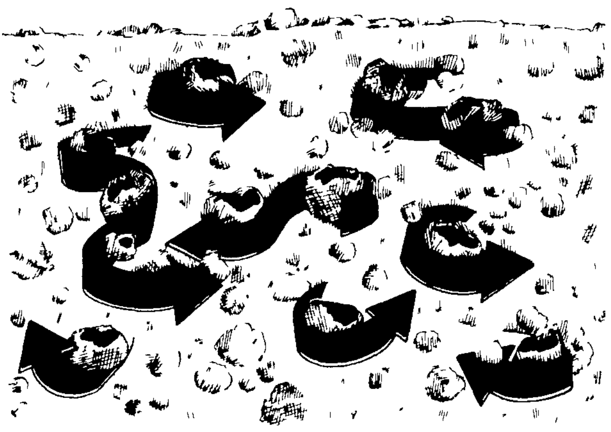
Solubility

Bicep is more soluble than most tank-mix combinations.

Solubility is the ability of a herbicide to dissolve in water and become available for weed and grass uptake. The extra solubility of Bicep really helps. Because of it, Bicep is easily carried by water into the weed and grass germinating zone of the soil. And once it's there, Bicep is better dispersed. So it does a better job.

Greater solubility also makes Bicep readily available in the soil to be absorbed by the roots and shoots of weed seedlings that compete with corn. And it's part of the reason Bicep is so effective in reduced tillage fields. A light rainfall is all it takes to wash Bicep off surface trash and into the soil where it will go right to work.

Yet, for all its solubility, Bicep doesn't leach out significantly. It will give you the control you need right through harvest, even in a rainy growing season.



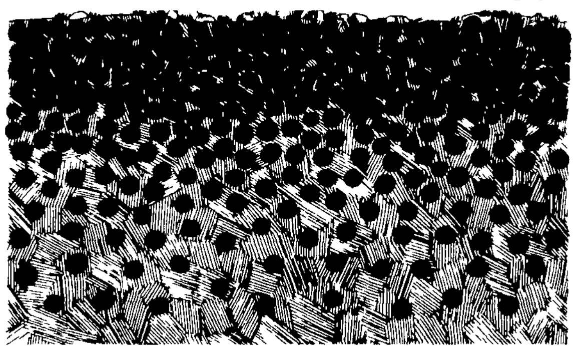
Bicep stays available and active in the soil solution

Excellent adsorption

Adsorption is the adhesive quality of a herbicide—how tightly or loosely it clings to soil particles. A herbicide that is too adsorptive becomes tied up by the soil—it becomes inactive. A herbicide that is not adsorptive enough leaches out excessively.

But with Bicep, adsorption is excellent, which helps explain why Bicep has staying power. Bicep stays active in the germinating zone right through harvest. Yet there are no carryover problems with Bicep, so you can rotate to soybeans.

Low volatility. Greater solubility. Excellent adsorption. These are just some of the properties that help make Bicep better than most tank mixes. Your dealer can tell you about other Bicep advantages. Talk to him soon.



Bicep stays active in the germinating zone of weeds and grasses

Look into Futures

By Ross McCausland

THOMSON MCKINNON SECURITIES INC.

(301) 685-1100

Feb. 21:

How much corn and soybeans do you intend to plant in 1984? The USDA estimated 81.8 million acres of corn and 65.2 million acres of soybeans for the planting intentions report released February 16. These figures are very preliminary and could change drastically between now and May. A wet spring could easily cause a shift to more beans.

An additional factor, is John Block's decision to extend the feed grain sign-up period to March 16. He has also sweetened the deal by allowing non program crops to be planted on idle acreage. The December 1984 corn futures are trading at $2.80 a bushel. If you intend to feed livestock this fall with purchased feed you should look very carefully at either contracting to buy grain or buying futures contracts to offset a rise in the corn market. With a minimal carryover of surplus grain and a loan price of $3.03, we can expect corn prices to increase into summer. If you are considering forward contracting grain for fall delivery, go into the set aside program, if possible.

Hog producers are looking at National prices of $43.50 - $46.25 this week, down from $50.00 on New Years. Poor demand for pork combined with increased slaughter has resulted in a surplus of pork product available to the retailers. We would hope for futures to bottom a $44.00 in the April contract and $51.00 in the July contract and then move higher into spring and summer. I have difficulty being sympathetic with pork producers who are selling animals at $44.00 or $45.00. The opportunity existed to hedge your February production at prices as high as $54.95 and April as high as $51.30. As farmers, we must be marketers as well as producers.

The cattle market is also under pressure to move lower with a weakened demand for beef. Packers have reduced steer beef to $101.00 - $102.00 to encourage purchasing by retailers. With slaughter prices of $67.00 - $68.00, packers are losing money and are not aggressive buyers. We expect April futures to trade between $66.00 - $68.00. A reduction in wholesale supply must occur for prices to approach $70.00.

Should you be hedged? Yes, if you want to market your products rather than sell them at the market. Futures are not an easy road to riches, nor are they an easy way to pick top prices. They are however, a tool which should be used in conjunction with forward contracting and cash marketing to work for a better income. In conjunction with this a good commodity broker has to be familiar with the products you work with, willing to give the information to make intelligent decisions, and honest enough to tell you when not to make a transaction. You shop around for a truck or tractor, do the same when looking for a broker and select the one who is willing to work for your interest.

MILK MARKET NEWS

January Milk Collects $12.99

NEW YORK, February 14 — Dairy farmers who supplied milk plants regulated under the New York - New Jersey marketing orders during January 1984 will be paid on the basis of a uniform price of $12.99 per hundredweight (27.9 cents per quart). Market Administrator Thomas A. Wilson also stated that the price was $13.07 in December 1983 and $13.35 in January 1983. The uniform price is a marketwide weighted average of the value of farm milk used for fluid and manufactured dairy products.

The seasonal incentive plan does not affect the uniform price for the month of January.

A total of 17,067 dairy farmers supplied the New York - New Jersey Milk Marketing Area with 976,226,353 pounds of milk during January 1984. This was an increase of 2.2 percent (about 21 million pounds) from last year. The gross value to dairy farmers for milk deliveries was $130,716,919.45. This included differentials required to be paid to dairy farmers but not voluntary premiums or deductions authorized by the farmer.

Regulated milk dealers (handlers) used 389,689,470 pounds of milk for Class I, 39.9 percent of the total. This milk is used for fluid milk products such as homogenized, flavored, low test and skim milks. For January 1984, handlers paid $14.81 per hundredweight (31.8 cents per quart) for Class I milk, the same as a year ago.

The balance (586,536,883 pounds or 60.1 percent) was used to manufacture Class II products including butter, cheese, ice cream and yogurt. Handlers paid $12.08 per hundredweight for this milk.

The uniform price is based on milk containing 3.5 percent butterfat. For January 1984, there was a price differential of 16.2 cents for each one-tenth of one percent that the milk tested about or below the 3.5 percent standard.

All prices quoted are for bulk tank milk received within the 201-210 mile zone from New York City.

Soils school planned

YORK — The York County Cooperative Extension Service will conduct a two day, in-depth, "Extension Soils School" on March 6 and 9 from 9:30 a.m. - 3 p.m. at the 4-H Center near Bair.

This school is intended to give interested persons a deeper understanding of how soils and soil fertility affects crop growth than can be had by attending one of the general crops meetings.

On Tuesday, March 6, Ray Shipp will speak on physical properties of the soil. Topics will include: Soil characteristics, using a soil survey for crop and land use planning, tillage, manure application, and environmental concerns. The March 9 meeting, given by Doug Beegle, will deal with soil fertility and chemistry, soil testing, liquid and other commercial fertilizers, liming practices, crop nutrient management, and more.

The meetings will be held in an informal, workshop-like setting with plenty of opportunity for questions. Enrollment is limited to the first 40 applicants for each session. A fee of $6.00 per meeting ($12.00 for both) will be charged to cover lunch and materials. Reservations must be made by Tuesday and are taken 1st come 1st served.

Potato meeting March 13

RINGTOWN — The Schuylkill County winter potato meeting will be held on Tuesday, March 13, from 9:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Banquet Hotel, Ringtown.

Speakers for the meeting will be John Skelly and Barbara Crist, Penn State Plant Pathology Department; Stan Gesell, Penn State Extension Entomologist; Jim Watts, Wise Potato Chip; Howard Featherman, . General Manager, Pennsylvania Cooperative Potato Growers; Donald Steslow, Supervisor, Seed Certification, Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture; Jerry Barnett, Certified Seed grower; and Dick Cole, Penn State Extension Potato Production Specialist.

The topics discussed will include the Pennsylvania research program, pest management, the national potato promotion board referendum, growing and certificating seed potatoes and the results of the 1983 variety trials.

All potato growers are invited to attend the meeting sponsored by the Schuylkill County Cooperative Extension Service. For additional information, contact George P. Perry, Jr., County Agent - Horticulture, P.O. Box 250, Schuylkill Haven, PA 17972 or telephone (717) 385-3431.

Credit approved

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Secretary of Agriculture John R. Block has announced a blended credit program to Tunisia that will enable that country to purchase $132.8 million in U.S. wheat during fiscal 1984.

This is the fourth blended credit program to be announced by the U.S. Department of Agriculture this fiscal Year. Blended credits have also been approved for Morocco. Egypt and Algeria for the purchase of U.S. wheat

Block recently returned from a trip through the Middle East and North Africa to open up new market opportunities for U.S. agricultural products.

He said the credit, offered for the sale of approximately 850,000 metric tons of wheat by U.S. exporters to Tunisia, will help them compete with exports from subsidized suppliers.

Under the program, interest-free direct government export credits are blended with government-guaranteed private credits to produce a lower interest rate. The Tunisian program included $25.3 million in interest-free direct credit and $107.5 million in credit guarantees.

Pick the weeds in your corn you'd like to get rid of...

Then pick Banvel herbicide... the Big Plus...to do the job.

Pre emergence Banvel tank mixed with 'Lasso' to get broadleaf weeds along with grasses ready and waiting when later weeds germinate

Early layby (in corn up to five inches high) use Banvel at a one pint rate Stop weeds before they ve had a chance to develop This Banvel overlay controls cocklebur sunflower annual morningglory other troublemakers

Post emergence (corn up to 36 inches) Banvel herbicide controls the real problems — like smartweed velvetleaf bindweed and seedling Canada thistle

Before buying a less adaptable herbicide that may be short on performance check out the Big Plus of Banvel from Velsicol

' Lasso' is a registered trademark of Monsanto Company The Lasso + Banvel tank mix is cleared for use in Colorado Illinois Indiana Iowa Kansas Kentucky Michigan Minnesota Missouri Montana Nebraska New York North Dakota Ohio Pennsylvania South Dakota Utah and Wisconsin

Pa. milk production up

HARRISBURG — Pennsylvania milk production during January totaled 792 million pounds, up one percent from last year, according to Pennsylvania Crop and Livestock Reporting Service.

The number of milk cows in the commonwealth during January averaged 737,000 head, down 1,000 head from a year ago. Milk production per cow averaged 1,075 pounds in January, up 15 pounds per cow from a year ago.

Milk production in Pennsylvania during 1983 totaled a record high 9.5 billion pounds, up three percent from 1982 Production per cow in 1983 at 12,939 pounds was also record high and averaged 249 pounds per cow above 1982. The annual average number of milk cows in Pennsylvania was 735,000 head, up 5,000 head from the previous year.

United States milk production in January totaled 11.5 billion pounds, virtually unchanged from the previous year. Total milk cows averaged 11.1 million head, same as January 1983. Production per cow averaged 1,039 pounds, three pounds above a year earlier.

U.S. 1983 milk production totaled a record 140 billion pounds (63.5 million metric tons), three percent above the previous record of 136 billion pounds (61.6 million metric tons) set in 1982. Output per cow in 1983, at 12.6 thousand pounds, also set a record, 278 pounds above the previous high set in 1982. The annual average number of cows was 11.1 million head, one percent above the 1982 average of 11.0 million head

Wisconsin, with 23.8 billion pounds, remained the leading milk producer in 1983, followed by: California, 14.8 billion; New York, 11.7 billion; Minnesota, 10.9 billion; and Pennsylvania, 9.51 billion pounds. These five states produce over one-half of all United States milk.

Farm Bureau sponsors International Trade Forum

PARK RIDGE, Ill — A two day International Trade Forum, March 1-2, sponsored by the American Farm Bureau Federation will review world market conditions for U.S farm products, examine this country's position in markets around the world and define what farmers and their organization can do to increase the U.S. share of world markets.

Keynoter for the conference, in Chicago's Regency Hyatt O'Hare Hotel, will be U.S. Trade Ambassador William Brock. AFBF Vice President Elton Smith will chair the meeting. Other program speakers, Dr. Luther Tweeten, regents professor of agricultural economics, Oklahoma State University, Dwayne Andreas, chairman and chief operating officer of Archer, Daniels, Midland Co. will deal with world food needs and trade opportunities.

Tweeten is an internationally known expert on world-wide food needs and distribution, while Andreas' firm, headquartered in Decatur, Illinois, is a major grain processor and international trader.

In addition to the general sessions, the forum, which begins at 1:00 p.m. on Thursday, March 1, will include 11 concurrent workshops on specific commodities. Workshops will be coordinated and timed so each person in attendance may attend as many as four of the commodity sessions

Specific commodities, feed grains; cotton; rice; peanuts; fruit and vegetables; soybeans, oil and meal; wheat; red meats and breeding livestock; dairy products; tobacco and poultry meat and eggs will be handled individually by AFBF commodity specialists and other commodity experts from industry, government and academia.

The final program will begin with lunch on Friday, March 2 and will be concluded by 3·00 p.m. There is no registration fee for the conference, but reservations are needed. To attend the conference contact: Dave Conover, AFBF director of field services; 225 Touhy Avenue; Park Ridge, Illinois, Phone: (312) 399-5700. Hotel reservations, if needed, should be made directly with the Regency Hyatt O'Hare. Be sure to specify that you are attending AFBF International Trade Forum, when reserving a room at the hotel.

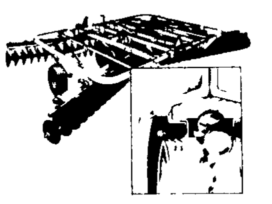
LONG-LIFE BEARINGS



This exclusive disk-gang bearing carries a 2-year unlimited-mileage warranty

Before you buy a disk compare gang bearings John Deere 200 and 300 Series Disks feature exclusive Dura Flex™ gang bearings with 4 lip seals as standard equipment

JOHN DEERE

Three extra long flexible lips resist wear yet maintain contact with the inner race of the bearing The fourth seal also keeps grease in dirt out — and helps give the bearing room to self align

You'll find these tough bearings on 49 sizes of John Deere 200 and 300 Series Disks See us for the size right for you

Strong Tractors From A Strong Company

Featuring the most advanced tractor electronic instrumentation in the industry.

New Comfort, New Cabs, New Seating, New Controls AND MORE!!!

Come and see the NEW "94" SERIES TRACTORS From Case, the tractor specialist.

The New 94 Series Tractors Are Here At Binkley & Hurst Bros. And We Are Anxious To Show Them To You

A touch of genius

The most advanced electronic instrumentation in the industry is standard on all new Case 2094, 2294 2394, 2594 and 3294 tractors

At a glance you can see engine RPM ground speed, PTO speed, electric tach/hourmeter, total area worked, area worked rate per hour timer with stop/start control, and % of wheel slip (optional) digitals

A separate warning light (red) and audible signal system monitors the critical functions of engine oil pressure, engine coolant level transmission oil pressure and temperature and an alternator warning light

A second warning light (yellow) and audible signal system monitors air filter and transmission filter functions Turn signals are indicated in green

Digital instrumentation also converts fuel level engine coolant temperature exhaust temperature gauge and voltage indicator (on turbo models) to bar graph displays with audible warnings at critical levels

Weatherproof and sealed against dust and condensation new Case electronic instrumentation also provides for metric-English conversion memory during downtime true engine hour monitoring and diagnostic functions

The "intelligence" of Case state-of the art electronic instrumentation can help you be more productive, more fuel efficient and more relaxed every hour in the field One of its most exciting features is the Case true ground speed sensor

A true monitor

With this new sensor you can instantly determine your true ground speed or your actual % of wheel slip at the touch of a finger You can weigh your tractor correctly select transmission speed more accurately You'll realize better fuel economy and maximize field performance with the new Case true ground speed sensor

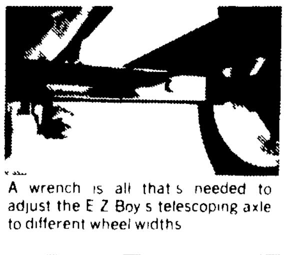
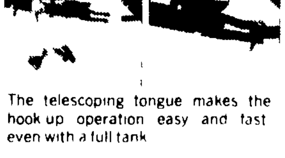
STANDARD EQUIPMENT ON MODELS 750 AND 1,000

The Quick Fill system permits the E Z Boy to fill itself at a rate of 125 gallons per minute



A wrench is all that s needed to adjust the E Z Boy s telescoping axle to different wheel widths



The telescoping tongue makes the hook up operation easy and fast even with a full tank

The E Z Boy s maneuverability on turns and its stability aren t the only features and benefits that make this an outstanding new product

Quick-Fill system The E Z Boy s Quick Fill system* saves considerable time This unique feature which operates off the tractor s hydraulic system permits the E Z Boy to fill itself At a rate of more than 60 gallons a minute that means the E Z Boy s 300 500 750 or 1 000 gallon tank can be filled extremely fast and efficiently The system s single hydraulic driven pump also mixes and sprays the liquids

* Patent applied for

Adaptability The rear wheels are easily adjustable to six widths from 30 to 40 making the E Z Boy adaptable for a wide range of applications

Hooking and unhooking the E Z Boy to a tractor or disc is a simple easy operation Once the telescoping tongue is pinned in position the tractor can be backed up locking the tongue assembly in position

Built to last The E Z Boy is built to take plenty of punishment Its frame is constructed of extra heavy duty steel and the tanks are made of rust and corrosion proof polyolenfin

Limited warranties including 5 years on the tank 3 years on the pump and 1 year on the frame cover defects in workmanship and materials under normal working conditions and service for the original purchaser

FOR LOW-TILL OR NO-TILL

Save fuel, time, moisture and soil with a Max-Emerge' conservation planter

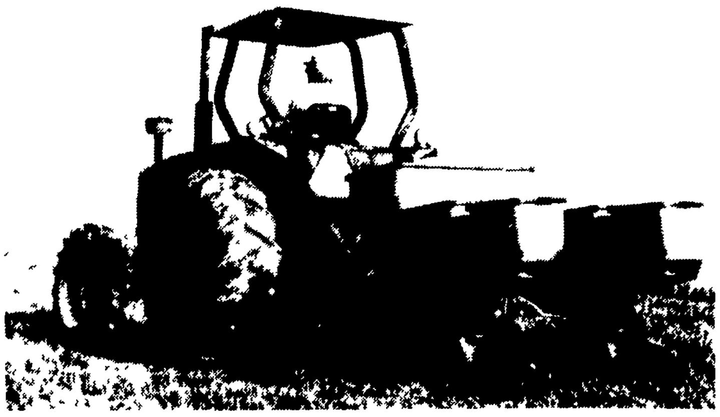
Here's a rugged planter you can rely on in most soil conditions, including stubble and many sod fields

Heavy-duty springs help transfer weight from the Heavy frame to each planting unit to keep unit-mounted coulters in the ground. Frame-mounted coulters and cast-iron firming wheels are available, too, for extra-tough conditions

Whether you no-till, low-till or conventionally till your ground, these 4-row (30 to 40-inch rows), and 6- and 8-row narrow models can help you save fuel, time, moisture and soil See us soon for details.

A.B.C. GROFF EXCLUSIVE!

VERSATILE 2 ROW MOUNTED MAXI-EMERGE PLANTERS



Planter frame for small and medium-sized farmers is being manufactured and marketed by ABC Groff Inc., of New Holland.

FEATURES

- Infinite Row Spacing From 18" to 42"
- Can Be Used For Conventional Till, Minimum Till Or No-Till
- Can Be Used For Planting Sweet Corn In The Furrow With Special Furrow Openers

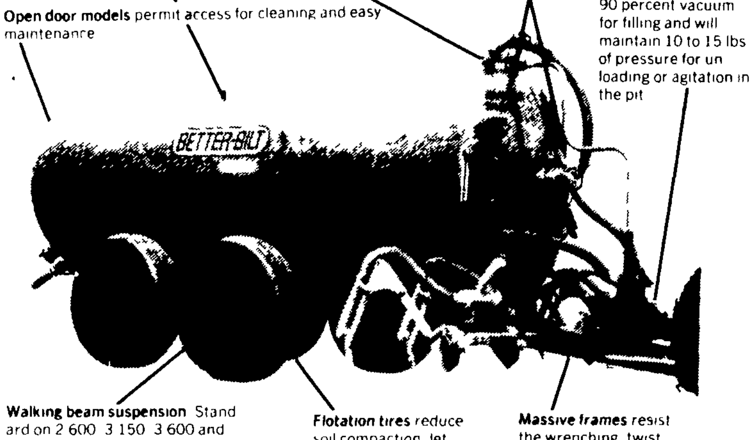
Outstanding Features



Thick walled for extra strength No spreader on the market has thicker walls 30 to 70% thicker steel than competitive spreaders

Adjustable relief valve maintains uniform pressure Prevents over pressurization of tank

Primary Shut Off valve plus a secondary shut off provide more than adequate protection against liquids entering the pump

Big 512 cubic inch displacement pressure vacuum pump is standard equipment Conservation rated at 135 C F M or air at 85 to 90 percent vacuum for filling and will maintain 10 to 15 lbs of pressure for unloading or agitation in the pit

Open door models permit access for cleaning and easy maintenance

Walking beam suspension Standard on 2 600 3 150 3 600 and 4 600 gallon models (Optional on 1 500 & 2 100 gallon models) Front & rear wheels on each beam follow contour of the ground provides a smooth level ride

Flotation tires reduce soil compaction let you spread on soft ground early in season

Massive frames resist the wrenching twisting jolting shocks of hard field usage year after year

Sizes - 800 gal. thru 4600 gal.
Both vacuum & augermatic spreaders for truck mount or trailer type

1 - 1974 Ford LT 9000 tandam axle tk tractor with PT 270 Cummins engine, 6 sp SOLD uller trans., power steering, air slide 5th wheel, good 10.00x20 tires.

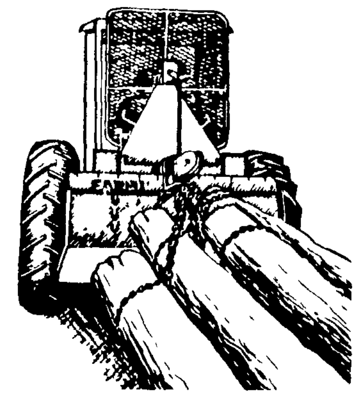
DRAG IN THE PROFITS!



Make your tractor a productive forest machine with a Farmi Logging Winch!

Your tractor and the Farmi winch is a low cost solution for winching in and skidding out your firewood, pulpwood and logs.

FARMI MODEL	LINE PULL	TRACTOR SIZE
JL250	5500 lbs.	18-30 HP
JL306	6600 lbs.	25-50 HP
JL456 -JL50	10000 lbs.	50-140 HP
JL60	15000 lbs.	80 HP & Up

The winches fit any 3-point hitch. Several logs can be winched in at one time.

The cable is locked when the logs have been winched to the tractor. The 3-point hitch is raised to lift the logs off the ground when the logs are transported to the landing.

Farmi winches are sold and serviced by:

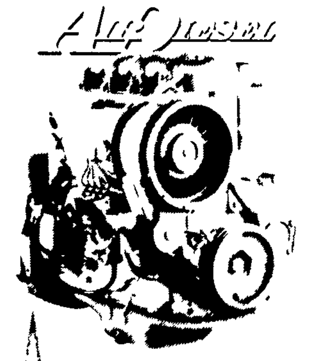
Looking for lower operating costs and less downtime? You'll want our name and numbers.

20% better fuel economy. Deutz AirDiesels are more fuel-efficient by design Advanced combustion technology direct fuel injection and fast warm-up allow Deutz engines to do more work with less fuel

40% less downtime AirDiesels have no liquid-cooling system That means 40% better reliability No water pump failure no leaky radiator no liquid in the engine oil Ever

150,000 AirDiesels at work. We've got a complete selection of engines from 8 to 500 hp Powering welders compressors pumps gensets and more Whatever the application whatever the environment there's a Deutz AirDiesel to do the job for you They are premium quality engines that deliver low life cycle cost

Call us today for more information Put our numbers to work on your bottom line



We've got the numbers.

KHD DEUTZ

We have been distributing Deutz Diesels since 1955.

DURING THE PAST 4 YEARS WE HAVE SOLD CLOSE TO 1000 DEUTZ DIESELS

During 1982 we sold over 1/3 million dollars worth of Deutz parts and performed 1382 service jobs.

With Each Deutz Engine We Also Deliver:

★ EXPERIENCE - Accumulated the hard way, our customers problems are our problems.

★ HIGH VOLUME - lowest Deutz prices.
No other independent engine house in the region can match our expertise.

Shouldn't you be our customer or dealer? It would be good for both of us!

FICKES SILOS...

Dependable-Reliable

Systems That Assure Continuous Service Day After Day

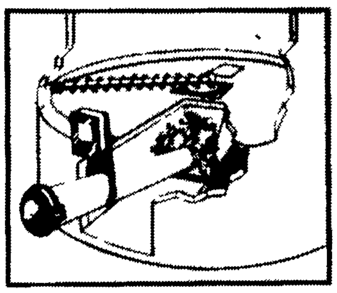
FICKES LAIDIG 43 SERIES
The Laidig 43 series for high-moisture grain, can handle any crop you can grow and store Shelled corn, ground ear corn, milo, barley



FICKES LAIDIG 98 SERIES
The Laidig 98 bottom unloader can handle whole corn silage, haylage alfalfa mixed crops, shelled corn ground ear corn, ground grains

IT ALL COMES DOWN TO THE BOTTOM

The unloader is the hardest working part of any storage system It's at the bottom of efficient, trouble-free feeding Laidig, the name that has become synonymous with top quality, bottom unloaders, offers two heavy-duty unloaders, both noted for their exceptional dependability

The Laidig 43 series features a "full-time" POW-R-SWEEP auger that forces its way into the mass, and undercuts it every time you feed Tapered fighting moves grain rapidly to the unit's center Here, it drops into the hopper and is carried smoothly by the exit auger outside, to waiting animals

The Laidig 98 series features a ring drive sweep arm that powers its way through hard-packed silage, driven from a track attached to the base of the structure With power applied at the outer end of the arm, there's less stress on the unloader Auger knives loosen material from the impacted mass, and tapered flighting moves silage to the center of the unit where it drops into the hopper

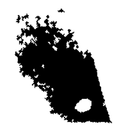
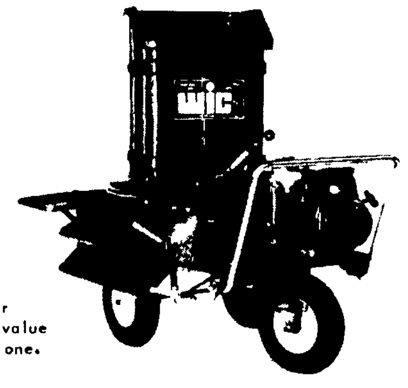
THE BETTER BEDDER





3 BLADED KNIFES
Again WIC gives you more for your money. Purchasing a WIC chopper with a cord-proof rotor of 3 bladed knifes, you obtain the value of 3 sets of knifes for the price of one.

- GONE FOR GOOD, THE EXHAUSTING JOB OF CHANGING THE KNIVES, AS THE 144 BOLTS AND NUTS HAVE BEEN REPLACED BY 8 RODS INSERTED THROUGH THE KNIVES WHICH ARE COLLECTIVELY TIGHTENED, FORMING A ONE-PIECE ROTOR.

- THE CONCEPTION OF THIS NEW ROTOR GREATLY DIMINISHES THE RISK OF SNAGGING BEING FREE OF BOLTS AND NUTS

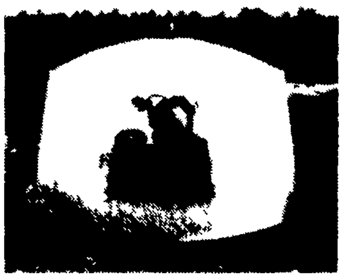
POLY DOME CALF NURSERY

"The Igloo"



The Poly Dome nursery does not have a drastic temperature change like an open hutch.

The temperature is varied naturally by utilizing the greenhouse affect.

By absorbing the sunlight into the bed pack in the day and radiating it back at night, we keep the calf more comfortable which also reduces stress.

ANNOUNCING A BETTER WAY TO CLEAN YOUR SOIL

SOIL FUMIGANT

Stauffer
Vapam

Treating your soil with a fumigant helps get your crops off to a better start. But one problem with soil fumigants has been getting even distribution. Until now.

Now, with Vapam soil fumigant and the Hydroflo Cheminjector® pump, you can thoroughly fumigate your soil using your irrigation water. That saves you tedious hours of application, and the water does the work of distributing Vapam uniformly through the soil. You get more complete coverage using less fumigant. Without all that extra labor.

So you'll be able to do an even better job of getting potential problems out of the way before you plant your vegetables. Vapam eliminates verticillium and fusarium wilts and many other soil-borne diseases. And it helps clear the soil of nematodes and many germinating weed seeds. This helps make the job of weed control easier later in the season.

Now you can make better use of your Vapam than ever—at a lower cost than ever. See your Vapam supplier or contact Hydroflo for information on the Cheminjector pump. Follow label directions.

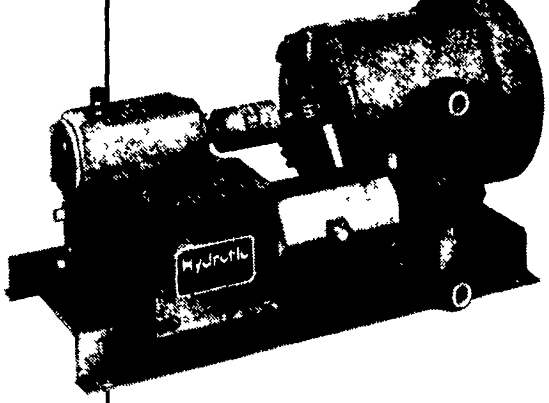
THE BETTER WAY

The Hydroflo Cheminjector® packed plunger pump. It works with your irrigation system (solid set, center pivot or sprinkler) to ensure even distribution of Vapam® soil fumigant throughout irrigation—not just at the beginning. And that saves you a lot of hard, time-consuming labor, compared to conventional application methods.

The Cheminjector pump from Hydroflo gives you easy, efficient and economical application of Vapam with:



- Lifetime guaranteed maintenance-free connecting rod assemblies
- Single-season servicing
- Total protection of critical operating parts
- Maintenance-free Auto-Just packing
- Corrosion-resistant design
- Extra capacity
- Freedom from breakdowns caused by chemicals, dust or dirt

The new Cheminjector pumps give you all these advantages at lower prices than ever before. Right now, you can get substantial savings if you purchase Vapam at the same time. For further details, write:

"We're not telling."

"Sure enough, when everyone finds out how I can wean early and still get 20 percent faster gains, it won't be so special.

"It's my pride, you know. I like feeding rations that are special...and this one is. It's Potency Formulated, and made just for early-weaning pigs.

"It's not like others... not adapted from an ordinary starter feed that baby pigs aren't even interested in. No sir, this stuff has baby pigs scrambling after it.

"So they're on dry feed and ready to wean earlier.

"When they get to 20 pounds I switch them from Premawean to Premapig—oops, I just let out the secret.

"Oh well, you'd find out sooner or later...'cause good ideas travel fast in the hog business."

The secret to early weaning.

Charolais sires gain roll of excellence status

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — Two Charolais sires, Poker King Junior GV 18G and ACF Apocalypse 40, gained Roll of Excellence status with the American-International Charolais Association.

Poker King Junior GV 18G owners Stone-Del Farm, Hartville, Ohio, San Dan Charolais Farms. Ltd., Erskine, Alta., Can., and Thorpe's Whiskey Trail Charolais, Palo Cedro Calif., and ACF Apocalypse 40 owners, Adams Charolais Farms, Springfield, Ohio, Miller Farms, Osceola, Iowa, and Gentry's Double Hook Ranch, Whitman, Neb., were honored Jan. 19 at the annual Charolais National banquet at the Airport Hilton Inn in Denver, Colo.

Poker King Junior GV 18G was calved May 12, 1975 and was bred by Gotthold Reich, Green Vale, Bashaw, Alta., Can. He is sired by Poker King 1006 and out of Lady Ava GVIE, a daughter of Caid who is noted for his outstanding daughters. Poker King Junior GV 18G was the Grand Champion bull at the 1977 National Western Stock Show for Green Vale and San Dan Charolais Farms, Ltd., Erskine, Alta., Can.

Progressive Charolais breeders across the country have chosen Poker King Junior GV 18G for their breeding programs. His progeny have a tremendous growth rate and strong sex characteristics. They are eye appealing cattle that are accepted in the showring and by commercial cattlemen.

Poker King Junior GV 18G has sired numerous champions including the 1982 National Reserve Grand Champion Female, Miss JXN Junior 135, and the 1984 National Reserve Grand Champion female, JXN Dancing Queen 19P. An outstanding son, six-time R.O.E. Champion bull, Sir Stone-Del King 019, contributed many points toward the recognition.

ACF Apocalypse 40 established himself as the youngest bull in the Charolais breed to gain R.O.E. status, as his progeny had a tremendous day at the 1983 American Royal.

ACF Apocalypse 40 was calved March 25, 1980 and bred by Adams Charolais Farms, Springfield, Ohio. This extremely flat-muscled, large-framed son of R.O.E. sire Riverwood Elevation 44 is out of an outstanding matron, Euphrasie Fauchelevent, a 4T/Yates-bred cow.

ACF Apocalypse 40 had an exciting show career. He was the 1981 National Calf Champion bull, 1982 National Reserve Grand Champion bull and 1983 National Reserve Champion bull. He was also selected Grand Champion bull at the 1982 National Western and 1981 Houston Livestock Show.

ACF Apocalypse 40 is playing an important part in today's Charolais industry. His progeny are sought after to improve frame size and body structure. He is popular among purebred and commercial breeders in all parts of the country.

ACF Apocalypse 40 sired the Grand Champion female at the 1983 National Junior Heifer Show, ACF Sabrina 342. He is also the sire of the popular 1984 National Grand Champion female, BR-MF Lady Tyger. He sired the first-place Junior and Senior Get-of-Sires at the 1984 National Show.

ACF Apocalypse 40 met an untimely death on Oct. 31, 1983. He will undoubtly leave his mark on the Charolais breed.

Take guesswork out of boar selection

NEWARK, Del. — "Now, what do you think of that boar?"

"Well, he's deep enough, he's got good feet and legs. But I'd like to see a little more width between his shoulders."

A typical conversation. Two people trying to appraise a boar as best they can, by looks alone.

"Choosing the right boar should rank high on your importance scale," says University of Delaware extension livestock specialist Ken Kephart. "The fact is most, if not all of your herd's genetic progress rests in the hands of the seedstock producer."

Why?

"Even if you have only eight or 10 boars, they make up half your herd," he says. "One boar can easily crank out 1,000 pigs a year. But more than 20 to 22 pigs per year from a sow is rare."

Selection for genetic superiority (bigger litters, faster growth rates) in the sow line alone is not enough, says Kephart, guoting Maurice Bichard of the Pig Improvement Company who points out that by selecting for improved performance among sows and not among boars, genetic progress will stop after only four or five generations.

In other words, producers who are seriously interested in improving the genetic performance of their herds had bettei find boar producers who are just as serious. Do they have solid records of farrowing performance? Can they prove with numbers that the hogs on their finishing floors perform? Do they test boars at home and/or in central test stations? That is, can they provide proof that they're selecting for improvement?

What else should a grower look for in a seedstock source and the boars produced?

Low levels of disease. "Go to the farm if possible and keep you eyes open," Kephart advises. "Ask what disease problems are present. If there's a problem you don't have, you don't want to add one more to your list."

Confirmation and type. "Visual appraisal is still essential — and always will be," the specialist says. "A lot can be learned by looking at a boar. We can see the difference between straight legs and those with some slope and cushion. We can see fat. We can see muscle. And with some practice, we can detect differences in breeding stock that will make the right changes in the end product. Just remember that appearance isn't the only factor worth considering."

His cattle lab is a Missouri barn

JEFFERSON CITY, MO. — David Snyder's laboratory is a barn, really. Its straight, practical steel walls, nearly uninterrupted by windows, topped by a steel roof, make it look like a barn – just like all other such livestock- and hay-holding facilities across rural America.

David Snyder does most of his work on a farm – Lincoln University's Greenberry farm, just beyond the subdivisions of Jefferson City, Missouri's capital. It looks like a farm, it sounds like a farm, it smells like a farm. And on it is Snyder's laboratory.

David, 32, is an animal scientist, having obtained a Ph.D. at Michigan State University in 1977. He, along with other animal scientists in various countries, is trying to improve the efficiency of beef cattle growing. Even during his undergraduate days, he specialized in the study of animal reproduction. In post-doctoral work, he became interested in Lincoln University. Already recognized for its research in other fields, especially nutrition, Lincoln planned to upgrade its livestock research. David was hired.

David set out immediately to establish a beef herd with a high-rate of twinning. On a national or international scale, his purpose is clear. If each beef cow produced two calves instead of one, it would take only half as many cows to produce the same amount of beef.

In reality, of course, cattle twinning is not so simple. Cows bearing twins need more personal care at calving time. Twins are born earlier, smaller and weaker than most single calves. Furthermore, there is some difficulty in cleaning out the birth canal. While it is difficult for some cows to provide enough milk to feed even one calf, cows bearing twins must provide enough milk for two. Many of them just can't do it.

For all these reasons, twin calves need to be weaned earlier and put on strength-building supplemental feed.

To complicate David's project, nearly all the female calves that are born as twins with males are born without the ability to reproduce. Their hormones intermix with those of the male twin in the mother's uterus and this, somehow, is believed to sterilize the females.

Those may be the reasons so few efforts are underway to build twin-bearing beef herds. Even so, another such herd is being developed on a much larger scale at the Roman Hruska Animal Research Center, a USDA facility at Clay Center, Neb. Scientists there helped David start his own herd by telling him about some twin-producing cows which could be bought.

Similarly, research on "manufactured twins" is advanced at Colorado State University, another land-grant institution. There, embryos consisting of about 70 cells are placed under a microscope and divided in half with a microsurgical blade. The resulting demi-embryos are then placed in foster-mother cows, usually one per recipient cow, in a procedure similar to artificial insemination. Scientists at Colorado State stress the value of identical twin calves in research. The technology has been transferred to more than a dozen commercial firms.

David now has eight cows with very good twinning records and four of their calves. He bought both cows and calves from Midwest farmers who could prove these cows usually bore twins.

One problem that David faced immediately and which has discouraged other scientists from building twin-producing herds, is the problem of waiting for the genetically inclined cows to bear twins. Cows carry their calves nine months and are not usually bred again for at least a few weeks.

David cut this time with embryo transplants. In this system, the cow with the desired traits – such as twin-bearing tendencies – is treated so she produces several eggs, then bred either artifically or with a bull. A week later, in David's case, he transfers several embryos with the desirable hereditary characteristics to ordinary milk cows, which serve as surrogate mothers until the calves are born.

Meanwhile, the original cow with the twin-bearing tendencies is taken through the same routine again, and her new embryos are transplanted to milk cows. So a cow with desirable genetic characteristics might be bred three or four times a year instead of once.

In a room adjoining the operating room, David pored over samples of hundreds of cubic centimeters of fluid, looking for embryos. At the end of two hours, however, he concluded there were none. This was quite unusual and unexpected. Furthermore, another cow was waiting in the operating room for an embryo transplant. David decided to transplant a frozen embryo into waiting cow No. 110, a sturdy Holstein-Friesian dairy animal. She had come into heat the same day as No. 23 and so was considered well suited to receive No. 23's embryo.

From a cannister of frozen embryos recently flushed from other twin-bearing beef cows, David selected the embryo of a Simmental cow. He added fluid to warm it up and examined it under a microscope. It had survived storage at a minus 196 degrees centigrade.

Interest high in NY bull test

ITHACA, N.Y. — Interest in the 1984 New York Bull Test has heightened with the issuance of the report for the second 28 day weigh period.

The 103 registered bulls on the current 140 day performance test program at Cornell University's Livestock Teaching and Research Center at Harford had an average daily gain of 3.77 pounds for this second period.

The three Shorthorn bulls recorded the highest breed average daily gain for the period, 4.95 pounds. The son of Stony Brook Improver 8106 owned by Stony Brook Farm of Locke is leading the "Class of '84" with an average daily gain of 5.39 pounds for the period.

A Polled Hereford bull owned by Elm Farm of Richmondville and a Graystone Granite son was the second highest gaining bull with an average daily gain of 5.21 pounds. An Angus bull and a Simmental bull tied for third place honors with an average daily gain of five pounds. The Angus bull is a Progression son and is owned by Gallagher's Farm of Ghent.

Another Progression son consigned by Gallagher's Farm topped the 1983 Bull Test Sale at $4,000. The highest gaining Simmental bull was a son of RCF Sir Duke Signal 3A owned by JoAnn Srebnik of New City.

The one Hereford bull on test recorded the second highest gain per breed, 4.43 pounds and the one Salers bull recorded an average daily gain of 4.07 pounds for the same period. This was followed by the five Red Angus bulls with an average daily gain of 4.02 pounds.

The 32 Polled Hereford bulls on test had an average daily gain of 3.97 pounds; the 14 Simmentals, 3.70 pounds; the seven Charolais, 3.63 pounds; the 37 Angus, 3.60 pounds; the one Welsh Black 2.75 pounds; and the two Beefalo bulls, 2.23 pounds.

Seventy-six breeders from New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Maryland, Vermont, Delaware, Massachusetts, New Hampshire and Montana are participating in the Bull Test program which is jointly sponsored by the New York Beef Cattlemen's Association, Cooperative Extension, the State Department of Ag & Markets, and Cornell University. The bulls are evaluated under uniform, unbiased conditions for such heritable traits as rate of gain.

The performance testing program will culminate with the Bull Test Sale May 4 at Ithaca when those bulls meeting certification standards will be offered.

SYRACUSE, N.Y. – Allen Peterson of Jamestown was elected president of the New York Beef Cattlemen's Association at the recent annual meeting at Syracuse. He succeeds William Cisco of Lindley who completed two years as head of the state-wide organization.

Peter Nixon of Westfield was elected vice president and Jeanne White of Auburn, secretary. Margaret Mecklar of Frankfort was re-elected treasurer.

Peterson has a herd of registered Polled Herefords and a small feedlot. He also operates a roadside market with a full line of farm raised produce and also has a greenhouse to supply this market. He is a member of the Chautauqua County Fair Board, 4-H beef program committee, Farm Bureau, New York Hereford Association, and Empire Polled Hereford Association.

Nixon has a herd of 65 registered Angus and raises 110 acres of grapes. He is vice president of the family owned Chautauqua Erie Telephone Corp. He is also immediate past president of the Westfield Rotary Club, chairman of the Cornell Livestock Industry Advisory Council and president of the New York Angus Association.

Mrs. White is vice president of the New York Simmental Association, a 4-H leader, and 4-H livestock superintendent at the New York State Fair. She and her husband Ken have a herd of Simmentals and he is cattle manager for Sunrise Farms, Auburn. Their daughter Michelle is a Rotary Exchange student in New Zealand.

More than 200 persons attended the annual meeting which was highlighted by an address by Commissioner of Agriculture Joseph Gerace who emphasized the potential for a larger beef cattle industry in the state.

The 1984-85 Membership Directory compiled by executive secretary Robert Good of Perry was introduced. The Southwestern Division of the Cattlemen's Association was presented a check for $250 for winning the 1983 membership contest. Clyde Hotchkiss of Falconer was given recognition for his individual membership sales. Fran Crowley of Painted Post was the winner of the 1983 fund raising project.

Richard Hughes of Mannsville was named winner of the banner for consigning the best pen of feeder calves to any of the Association sponsored 1983 feeder sales. His pen of Angus calves were consigned to the Western Division sale at Caledonia. Elton Carlson of Wyoming was the contender for this coveted award.

Marshall Farms of Port Byron was given a plaque for having the highest indexing British breed bull on the 1983 New York Bull Test and Schmidt Farms of Maryland a plaque for having the highest indexing Continental breed bull on the test. Phil Taylor of Lawtons was recognized for his years of service as chairman of the Bull Test committee.

Kathy Harris of the State Department of Ag and Markets reported the department is working to develop an export market for New York State beef cattle. Producers are urged to contact her if they are interested in this market alternative.

During the Council meeting of the Association, officers approved the proposal presented by Dr. Dan Fox of Cornell requesting Peter Comerford of the State Department of Ag and Markets work full time in the area of beef cattle marketing. The proposal which will be presented to Commissioner Gerace would have Comerford working with individuals, with cattle associations, and with market organizations to develop and improve marketing.

Until action on this proposal is implemented the New York Beef Cattlemen's Association Market Exchange will be operated by the executive secretary. Requests for information from buyers or for listings of available cattle are to be made with Robert Good of Perry.

Cattlemen heard a report from Jean Shwartz of Earlville, legislative chairman that the Council of Agricultural Organizations has approved a beef check-off proposal to support research and promotion. The Cattlemen's Council voted to establish a committee to work on development of this check-off. Each Division within the Council has been asked to name a member to this committee.

The promotions committee headed by Helen Patton of Bainbridge awarded 57 door prizes. A trade show with 12 exhibitors was held in conjunction with the two-day annual meeting. Exhibitors included Dura-steel Buildings, American Breeders Service, Allflex Ear Tags, Bio-Centic Lab, Canandian Tillage Equipment, Cel-O-Lok Farm, Country Folks, Cummings and Bricker Co., Diamond Shamrock Corp., Gallagher's Electric Fence Systems, Hoffman Seed Co., and Tox-O-Wick.

Equine glycogen loading questioned

COLLEGE PARK, Md. — Most long distance runners know that carbohydrate loading can increase their stores of body glycogen and, in turn, increase their endurance when the day of the big marathon rolls around.

Does the same principle hold true for endurance thoroughbred race horses?

Apparently not, according to Michael J. Glade, an assistant professor for the University of Maryland Agricultural Experiment Station (UMAES).

While some human runners have shown as much as a 37% increase in anaerobic performance after glycogen loading, race horses feel a different effect, says Glade, an animal scientist for UMAES.

"A depletion phase followed by a glycogen loading phase increases the horse's intramuscular glycogen content," says Glade.

"But no one has been able to demonstrate that the glycogen increase translates into improvements in the horse's racing performance."

Glycogen loading for horses also has its drawbacks, adds Glade.

High concentrations of glycogen in the muscle tissue increases cellular water retention which, ironically, can lead to dehydration.

It also is possible, says Glade, for trainers to overestimate the condition of an animal after it has glycogen loaded, which can lead to injuries.

Finally, while there is some dispute among veterinarians about this point, horses that glycogen load run the risk of triggering azoturia — a condition in which the muscles cramp severely when the horse first returns to a hard workout.

It is most common, according to Glade, in horses whose muscle fibers are not conditioned properly to store and metabolize glucose rapidly and efficiently.

What's the ideal pre-race diet for an endurance-trained thoroughbred?

Glade, whose research specialty is the energy needs of racing thoroughbreds, recommends the judicious use of dietary fat during periods of intentional glycogen depletion.

How do you put a price on a boar? "It's difficult if you base price on looks alone," Kephart says. "But if you compare your herd's performance to that of the replacement boar, you can at least estimate whether or not he's going to pay his way.

"For example, if a boar sired pigs with even a 5 percent better feed conversion than your herd presently has, you'd save 25 to 30 pounds of feed per hog. At this rate, if you sold 500 of his pigs a year, you'd save more than 6 tons of feed. At today's market prices that's worth at least $1,000."

So, the next time you go boar hunting, Kephart recommends looking at the records as well as the animal, before you say, "I'll take him."

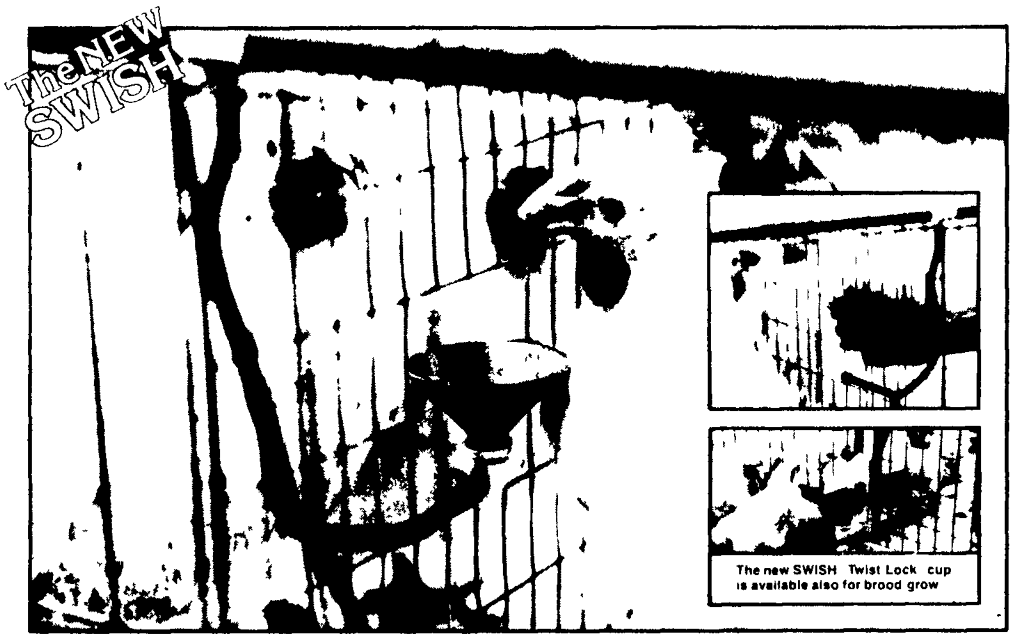
"Twist-Lock" cups: newest innovation from the new leader



The new SWISH Twist Lock cup is available also for brood grow

...another reason SWISH saves you more labor, more birds, and more money

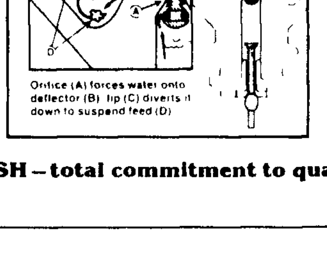
The newest twist in cage watering makes cup cleaning and maintenance a real snap it s SWISH s Twist-Lock cups for cage layers and brood-grow watering systems

Saves labor. No more contortions with hand tools inside a cage – one simple twist of the wrist unlocks and removes the unitized cup and valve It s that easy to maintain when necessary

But with SWISH it s hardly ever necessary That s because our cup is self-cleaning Our patented valve keeps the cup clean by flushing any feed particles out so birds can consume them with the water

Installation is a snap too with SWISH s new cups they simply snap into the desired location and the hose attaches to the water line outlet These are some of the ways SWISH s new cup saves you labor – easy installation, low maintenance, and labor savings between flocks because our cup constantly cleans itself

PATENTED VALVE IS KEY TO OUR PERFORMANCE



Orifice (A) forces water onto deflector (B) lip (C) diverts it down to suspend feed (D)

Helps save more birds. Because our cup is self-cleaning, algae and bacteria growth is not a problem as with cups that don t flush out feed particles Clean cups mean less chance of disease and less mortality And our big cup means good access to water for a good level of bird health

SWISH saves you money. That s the bottom line with a system that cuts labor and keeps birds alive and productive

Get all the facts about our new cup and other SWISH innovations See your SWISH distributor or contact us

New Angus steer show nominations due May 1

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. — Rules for an all new steer show, the 1984 Certified Angus Steer Classic, have been released by the American Angus Association.

The show, set for July 8-10 in Columbus, Ohio, will place equal emphasis on structure and soundness (live placing) and on carcass quality, and retail yield (carcass placing). It is open only to steers that are the produce of registered Angus cows and bulls and will be held in conjunction with the 1984 National Junior Angus Show at the Ohio State Fairgrounds.

"This new show is designed to educate young cattle producers in the requirements for an excellent beef steer," said Dick Spader, executive vice president of the American Angus Association. "We want our junior members to start with steers of known ancestry and birth dates, then feed them to the most desirable end point. Finally, we want them to study the carcasses to see how well they have done."

The steers will be shown live on July 8. Each animal, in addition to being placed in class, will receive an overall live index. The next day the steers will be slaughtered and evaluated. Each carcass will receive an index based upon yield grade, percent retail yield and quality. The grand championship overall will be determined by 50 percent live index and 50 percent carcass index.

To be eligible, steers must be nominated by May 1, 1984, according to Dean Hurlbut, director of activities for the American Angus Association. To nominate a steer the owner must provide the steer's birth date, the registration number of the sire and dam, the name and address of the breeder, the date of purchase, a nose print of the steer and the name and address of the owner.

Steers must be calved on or after January 1, 1983 and must meet the visual requirements for Angus registration except that animals with "excessive white" will be eligible to compete.

The show is open to all junior, life or regular members of the American Angus Association who are at least 9 years old but not more than 21 years old as of January 1, 1984.

The live steer show judge will be Randall Reed of Columbus, who recently resigned from the animal science staff of Ohio State University. The carcass evaluation and placings will be made by Bob Van Stavern and his staff at Ohio State University.

In addition to premiums and prizes provided by the American Angus Association, and ad hoc group known as the Angus Steer Boosters is collecting money to be awarded to the grand champion steers overall. This fund as of Feb. 6 totaled $1,000.

Complete show rules are available from the American Angus Association.

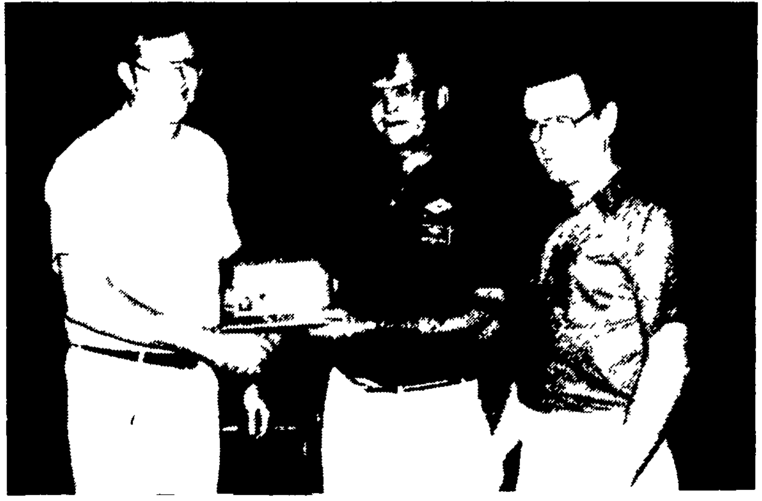
Loucks honored



Loucks Grain Equipment, Inc., York, was recently presented with a 10-year service award by Stormor, Inc., of Fremont, Neb., manufacturer of steel grain bins, Ezee-Dry grain dryer and steel buildings. The award was "in recognition for Outstanding Service to American Agriculture in Grain Handling and Grain Storage as a Stormor Dealer." Lester Loucks, left, receives award from Gene Wiebelhaus and Dave Jackson, of Stormor.

Beachley gets award

SHIREMANSTOWN — Kenneth G. Beachley, founder and past-president of the Beachley-Hardy Seed Company, Shiremanstown, recently received the Distinguished Grasslander Award of the American Forage and Grassland Council at its annual meeting in Houston, Tex.

A distinguished seedsman, Beachley has been widely recognized by the Pennsylvania Seedsman's Association and the American Seed Trade Association. He is a charter member and strong supporter of the Pennsylvania Forage and Grassland Council and served several terms on its Board and as its President. He was the recipient of PFGC's highest award, its Outstanding Grassland Award.

Beachley has also been a strong supporter of the American Forage and Grassland Council. His company is a corporate member of the national council and over the past 25 years he served on numerous committees of that organization. He encouraged and supported the formation of state councils in several states.

Beachley-Hardy Seed Company is a wholesale seed company serving the Northeast specializing in quality seeds of small seeded legumes and grasses for forage and land reclamation Beachley retired as president of the company in 1981

Farm Credit lists speaker

WEST CHESTER — Featured speaker before the Southeast Federal Land Bank Association and the Southeast Production Credit Association at their Annual Stockholders' Meeting to be held on March 5 at the Oxford Fire Hall, Chester County, and on March 6 at the Christopher Dock Mennonite High School, Montgomery County, is Pat Leimbach, a farm wife from Vermilion, Oh.

In addition to being a partner with her husband in a potato, vegetable and grain operation, Mrs. Leimbach writes a newspaper column called "Country Wife" which appears in a number of farm publications around the nation. She is also the author of two Prentice-Hall Books, "A Thread of Blue Denim" and "All My Meadows."

Farm Journal magazine, who has published much of Pat Leimbach's work, points her out as "one of a handful of women who are telling the farm story nationwide." She has entertained audiences in 40 states with her lively program of readings from her essays.

A graduate of Western Reserve University, she did graduate study at McGill University in Montreal. She was, for a number of years, a modern language teacher in the schools of her home county. Her community activities have included the United Church of Christ, the Farm Bureau Women's Committee, the American Cancer Society and the American Field Service. She is a member of the Associated Country Women of the World, the American Agri-Women, W.I.F.E., and the Ohio Ag Council.

Hoober holds Farmer's Day

BY JACK HUBLEY

MIDDLETOWN, Del. — February 14 was more than Valentine's Day in Middletown, Del., as Hoober Equipment, Inc., welcomed farmers to their "Farmer's Day" celebration, the highlight of the company's week-long Open House.

The day's events began at 11:30 a.m. with music provided by the Kent County Ramblers. At noon the crowd, numbering nearly 400, was welcomed and invited to take advantage of the company's Open House specials on parts. The firm's General Manager, Daryl E. Peifer, introduced Hoober's owner Charles Hoober, Jr., along with C.B. Hoober, Sr., founder of C.B. Hoober and Son, Inc., of Intercourse, Pa., the Delaware store's parent company.

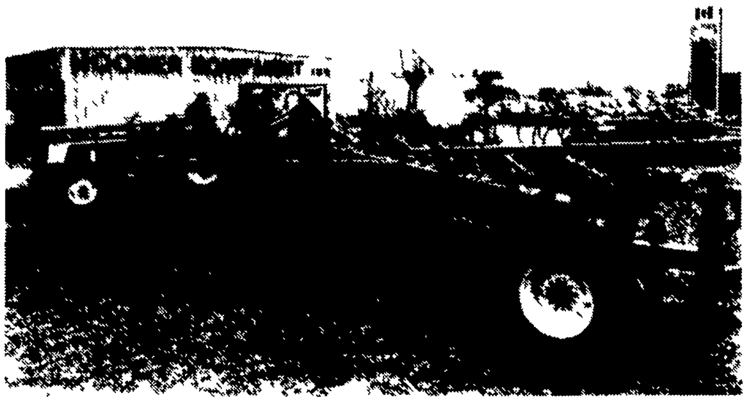
Stressing the need for conservation tillage practices, Peifer urged those in attendance to turn their attention to Hoober's extensive display of equipment designed to keep topsoil on the farm. Equipment of particular interest included International's axial-flow combine, and their 5288 all-wheel-drive tractor. Also noted was the Versatile 256 bi-directional loader-tractor, and the Krause Landsman, series 3100, combining discing, cultivating, and harrowing capabilities in one implement, and producing a plantable seedbed with one pass.

Next on the afternoon's agenda was a film entitled, "Conservation: From Seed to Feed". Produced by Garrett Films International, and narrated by Peter C. Myers, Chief of Soil Conservation Services for the USDA, the movie was the culmination of an effort on the part of Hoober Equipment to keep farmers informed of the latest in conservation tillage practices. During an introduction of the film, Charlie Hoober stressed the importance of many of the manufacturers represented by his company in assisting to underwrite the cost of the year-long project.

Emphasizing the obsolescence of the moldboard plow, the film dwelled on the technology available to save our soil, while at the same time saving money. Defining conservation tillage as those procedures leaving at least a 30% residue coverage on the soil's surface after planting, Myers demonstrated no-till planting techniques, and explained methods of combating the weed problems and soil compaction associated with no-till. Other topics included in the film were discing, chiseling, strip farming, terracing, and the correct application of herbicides, fertilizer, and lime, as related to conservation tillage.

Following the film, Roy Gray, Director of Economics for the USDA's Soil Conservation Service, began his presentation by stating that, to remain in business, the farmer needs conservation practices that pay off today, rather than 50 years down the road. He stated that conservation tillage technology is currently available to accomplish this, with savings of $10 to $20 per acre, per year over conventional methods.

Gray concluded his remarks by congratulating area farmers, stating that Delaware currently has the highest percentage of cultivated acres under conservation tillage practices of any state in the country.



Equipment displays were among features of Open House at Hoober Equipment Inc.

Rohrer stages appreciation night

BY JACK HUBLEY

SMOKETOWN — Over 100 farmers representing five counties attended Monday's Customer Appreciation dinner meeting sponsored by P.L. Rohrer & Bro., Inc., of Smoketown.

This year's program provided Rohrer customers with an update on the fertilizer industry, as well as an agricultural prognosis for the coming year.

The featured speaker for the evening was James Gerdes, Regional Marketing Manager of Chevron Chemical Company's Fertilizer Division. Gerdes urged farmers to consider the lowered inflation rate when planning business strategies for the coming five years. Farmers were advised to approach large capital investments with caution, and to look for opportunities in terms of increasing productivity and efficiency within existing operations.

Gerdes emphasized his company's ability to provide up-to-date agronomic information in an effort to improve efficiency. Reminding farmers that hearings began this week regarding the '85 farm bill, Gerdes encouraged everyone to make his elected representatives aware of the needs of the agricultural community.

Other speakers for the evening included Ortho District Fertilizer Representative, John Stimpert, and Ortho Technical Sales Representative, Max E. Maichele.

Maichele demonstrated how Ortho Unipel products differed from other fertilizers, and how these differences translated into benefits for the farmer.

Stimpert discussed no-till as well as other soil conservation measures, and spoke on Ortho fertilizers, highlighting Ortho Unipel's single application program for corn. He also recognized P.L. Rohrer's unique and important role as a representative for three of Ortho's divisions, including fertilizers, ag chemicals, and garden and home products.

Deere introduces SpraCart

MOLINE, Il. — John Deere has introduced a new trailer-mounted sprayer, the 250 SpraCart, which makes the application of pre-plant incorporated herbicides more convenient.

Attaching the 250 SpraCart is as simple as connecting its tongue to the tractor drawbar, as opposed to the time and labor required to mount a sprayer on the tractor or tillage tool. The SpraCart is just as easily detached to free the tractor and tillage tool for other work.

The tongue of the tillage tool is attached near the SpraCart's frame, which then straddles the tillage tool tongue. This makes the tractor-SpraCart-tillage tool rig close-coupled for maximum maneuverability. The cart is then anchored to the tillage tool which allows it to turn as an integral part of the tool. The castering wheels provide for smooth, tight turning. Convenient steps and railed platform on the SpraCart permits easy, safe mounting by the operator for filling the tank.

Rolling on its own wheels, the 250 SpraCart eliminates the problem of uneven incorporation, a possibility in tillage tool-mounted sprayers. The problem arises because the tank loses weight as solution is applied. As the weight on the tillage tool decreases, the tillage tool tends to run shallower, thus compromising incorporation depth. With the tank mounted on its own cart, the weight of the tank and the solution is not a factor in the weight on the tillage tool; hence penetration, and depth of incorporation, remains more constant.

The John Deere 250 SpraCart is equipped with a 500 gallon polyethylene tank and 80 psi (pounds per square inch) 1000 rpm PTO-driven pump as standard equipment. A 60 psi 540 rpm PTO-driven pump or 80 psi hydraulic-driven pump is available as optional equipment.

The 250 SpraCart Sprayer is compatible with the 722 Mulch Finisher, 940 S-Tine Field Cultivator, and 1010 and 1050 Field Cultivators.

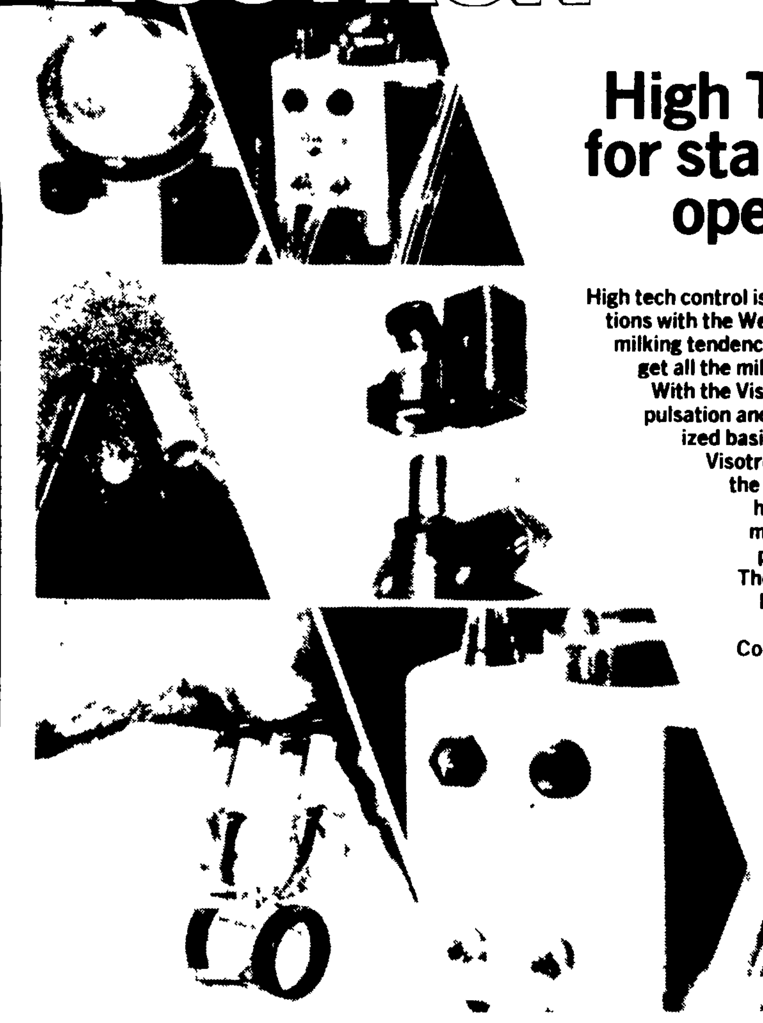
VISOTRON



High Tech control for stanchion barn operations

High tech control is now available for stanchion barn operations with the Westfalia Visotron. Every cow has different milking tendencies and Westfalia's Visotron will help you get all the milk from every cow.

With the Visotron, you can monitor milk flow, control pulsation and even regulate vacuum on an individualized basis for each cow.

Visotron saves time and money. Each cow gets the individual attention she needs to give all her milk comfortably without the need for manual supervision. The result: increased production and profit.

The Visotron is portable and easy to install. It's the kind of addition to your dairy that will pay for itself in a very short time.

European farrowing crate announced

DELPHI, IND. — A unique new farrowing crate which has been proved successful in use in Europe has been adopted for American hog farms and tested in the United States by Farmcraft Agri-Systems, division of Underhill Industries, Inc., P.O. Box 256, Delphi, Ind. Named the "Eurocrate," it is now being manufactured by Farmcraft and has just been introduced here.

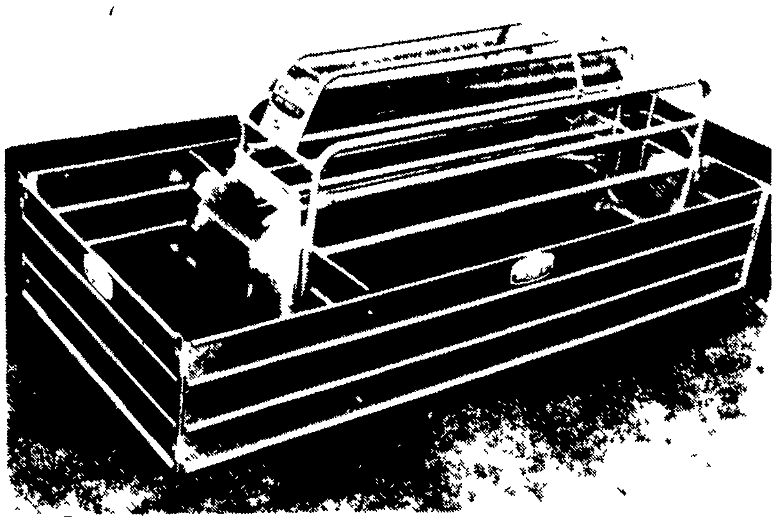
The "Eurocrate" is narrower than the traditional crate, so that hog producers can get more crates in the same space. The sow's enclosure is narrower, too, forcing her to kneel before lying down, thus virtually eliminating crushing of baby pigs. An adjustable curved lower bar exposes both rows of teats, so that all the piglets can nurse.

The sow's feeder in the gate is large enough for her to put her head inside it comfortably, so that feed spillage falls back inside the feeder. This feeder is available in choice of durable steel or tough plastic. The sow's drinker is above the feeder.

There is a rump guard in the back of the sow enclosure. It lessens the amount of wastes accumulation, thus reducing clean-out labor.

There is a 2-foot-wide optional run-around at the head end of the crate, which gives extra space for the baby pigs when they are not nursing. All panels and gates can be removed easily by pulling pins.

The "Eurocrate" is available in two sizes: 4' x 8'10" or 5' x 7'. All parts are built with extra-heavy materials and construction methods to insure more years of service. It is available in hot-dip galvanized or painted enamel finish.



Farrowing crate from Europe is narrower than traditional enclosures.

2,000 at Powl open house

PEACH BOTTOM — Shirtsleeve weather and an enthusiastic response lent a carnival atmosphere to last Saturday's Open House and Appreciation Day sponsored by Powl's Feed Service, Inc., of Peach Bottom. Early predictions of attendance in the neighborhood of 1500 turned out to be conservative, as 2,000 visitors passed through Powl's front door by day's end.

Special guest for the 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. event was Dale F. Larson, General Manager for Continental Grain Company's Wayne Feed Division. Livestock and poultry feed was the theme for the day as company personnel offered tours of their new mill completed in August of last year.

Bob Powl, head of the family-owned corporation, stressed the importance of using local grain to keep feed costs for area farmers as low as possible. Installing their new roller mill enables the company to produce feeds usable in automatic feeders where ground feed may fail to flow properly.

Products on display included dairy, hog, and poultry feeds, fencing, Pioneer corn, and lime by Compass Quarries.

Other popular events included the door-prize drawing, an 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. pig roast, and a truckload sale on Wayne dog food.

In the spirit of family fun, the Open House also featured a petting zoo and kid's fish pond for younger members in attendance.

Grain tanks reported

TAYLORVILLE, Il — A new line of tanks for commercial or large farmer use has been introduced by Circle Steel Corporation, Taylorville, IL. The computer-engineered tanks are designed for maximum security, with lower costs for grain storage.

Stiffener and body sheet design combine to provide optimum steel useage for extra strength in the new tank line. Tanks from 15' dia (4.57 M) 5,000 bu. (137.6 MT) through 60' dia. (18.28 M) 167,765 bu. (4565.8 MT) are available.

A complete line of accesory equipment is available including floors, sidewall ladders, ladder cages and platforms, aeration equipment, temperature cable kits, hatches and ventilators.

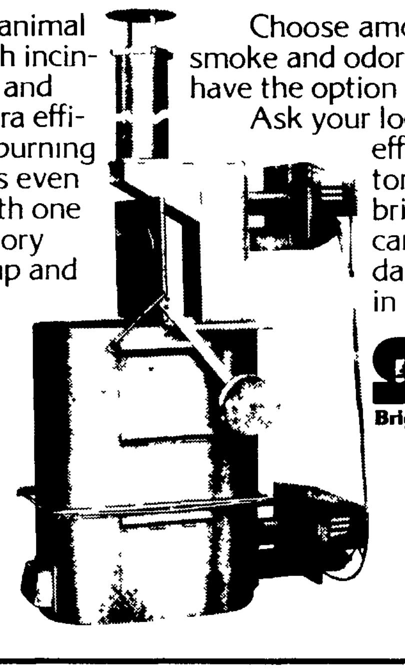
SHENANDOAH INCENERATORS - A SANITARY ALTERNATIVE FOR ON FARM DISPOSAL

To Help Prevent the Spread of Disease



The sanitary way to get rid of animal carcasses is with a Shenandoah incinerator. It's pollution controlled and convenient to use. It's also extra efficient because we've lined the burning chambers, and in some models even the afterburning chambers, with one and a quarter inches of refractory cement That keeps the heat up and the energy costs down.

Choose among eight easy-to-install smoke and odor controlled models. You even have the option of burning gas or oil.

Ask your local Shenandoah dealer about efficient, inexpensive incinerators. You'll find out how our bright ideas in farm equipment can mean a bright spot in your day. And still leave a green spot in your wallet.

Atlantic Breeders honors dairymen

QUARRYVILLE — Twenty-nine Southern Lancaster County area dairymen were honored for having high producing herds this past year at the 20th annual district meeting for Atlantic Breeders Cooperative members on Feb. 14 at the Hoffman Building, Solanco Fairgrounds, Quarryville.

Receiving certificates of merit from Atlantic Breeders for having high producing dairy herds are, from the left, John Harnish, Ken Rutt, Thomas Lapp, Leroy Weaver, Joseph Hess, Robert Gochenaur Jr. and Levi H. Glick.

Receiving Certificates of Merit for having top Dairy Herd Improvement Association averages were:

Gusty Crest Farm, Ron Leaman; Glenn E. Burkholder, Paul V. Nissley, Kreiders and Nickle, Lester J. Wiker, J. Robert Kindig, Walter C. Pownall, Parke Ranck, Leory S. Weaver, Roy and Ruth Book, C. Nevin Hershey, Robert Gochenaur Jr., Edgefield Farms, Ken Rutt; J. Ray Ranck; J. Clayton Charles.

Also, Bart Dell Farm, Levi K. Glick, Melvin M. Groff, John M. Harnish, John U. Glick, Thomas Lapp, King Farm, Ferncrest Farm, Earl Hershey; Harry Ranck Jr., J. Wade Groff, Singing Maple Farm, Dale Stoner and Joe Hess; Harry Troop, Don Ranck, Joseph L. Fisher and Paul W. Zimmerman.

Awards were presented by Dave Zimmerman, Atlantic's Field Supervisor. All of the honored herds were at least 10 percent above the state average for milk or butterfat production last year, while at least two-thirds of the cows in the herds are progeny of Atlantic sires.

District director James Kreider told the members that despite the challenges on semen exports due to the economic instability of the world, more breeding units were sold in the member area in 1983 than in 1982.

Following a slide presentation on Atlantic's 1984 Sire Programs, including the genetic base change, new sire proofs and Linear-Mate, Allen Bair stressed that the Cooperative will continue to emphasize quality technician and direct-herd service. He also pointed to the genetic superiority of the sires now offered by Atlantic.

Clover, alfalfa varieties cited

BALTIMORE, Md. — Scarlett Company, the international seed distribution and conditioning firm headquartered in Baltimore, Md., has been awarded the exclusive distributorship of MorRed Red Clover and Olympic Alfalfa.

A short rotation hay and grazing legume, MorRed Red Clover has been shown in laboratory and field testing to offer increased yields and excellent resistance to both northern and southern anthracnose, a highly destructive disease commonly afflicting red clover.

MorRed is also noted for vigorous growth, improved winterhardiness, and high resistance to powdery mildew.

Olympic Alfalfa is characterized by high yields and excellent disease and insewct protection, with very high resistance to anthracnose and bacterial wilt.

It has proven to be a fast grower that matures early and recovers very quickly after cutting.

IH planter in test comparison

CHICAGO — Results are in from the 1983 Planter On-Farm Performance Test conducted in northern Illinois. An independent testing firm, Crop Pro-Tech Inc., of Naperville, Il., structured and supervised the test, comparing an International 800 Series Early Riser Planter, 12-row, 30-inch narrow, with a similarly-equipped competitive planter, also 12-row, 30-inch narrow.

The tests were sponsored by International Harvester to give corn and soybean farmers a meaningful way to compare performance and productivity capabilities of the two planters. Planters worked side-by-side in fields evenly divided, planting a total of 2,075 acres; 1,055 acres of corn, and 1,020 acres of soybeans. Two of the participating farmers drove the planters and performed all planting functions; just as they would in their own planting operation.

Performance Results

The International Early Riser was able to travel over 3/4 of a mile per hour faster than the other planter and still maintain the required planting accuracy. In fact, it took the Early Riser five less actual operating hours to plant its half of the acreage. The International could also be filled with seed faster (due mainly to the International's large-capacity central seed hopper design). And finally, the Early Riser took less time to make changeovers from corn to soybeans, and for making adjustments to go into minimum- and no-till fields.

Overall Productivity

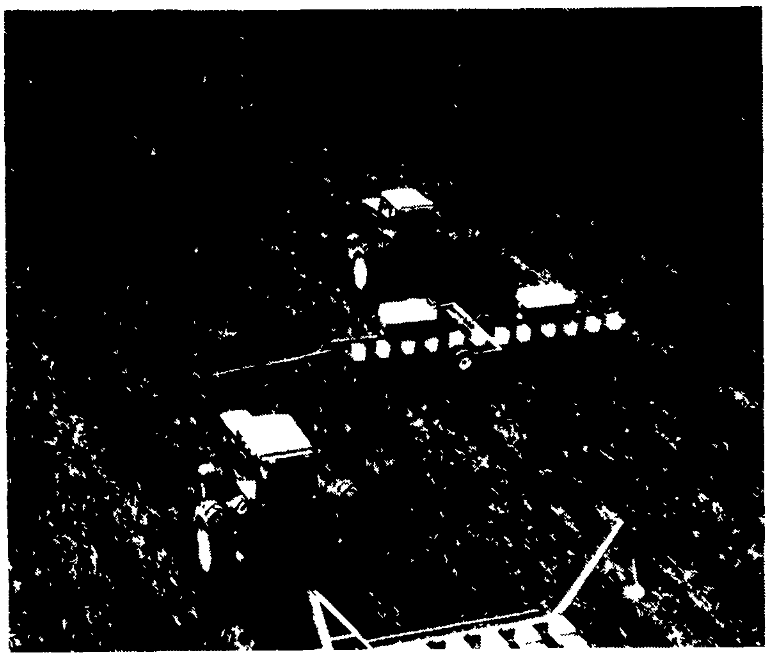
Crop Pro-Tech reports that when all the performance factors were combined, the International proved to be the more productive planter, averaging over 18½ acres planted per hour. The other planter covered just over 13-3/4 acres per hour. That translates into a nearly 50-acre advantage for the International over the course of a typical 10-hour day.

Corn Yield Results

Combining all tillage practices, International Early Riser test plots yielded 136.41 bushels per acre, while the other planter's plots yielded 134.61 bushels per acre. An advantage of 1.8 bushels for the Early Riser planted fields. On just the conventional-till plots, the IH produced 139.12 bushels, the other planter 136.73, a 2.39 bushel IH advantage.

Bean Yields

Combining all fields, the International plots out-yielded the competitor's plots, this time by 1.25 bushels per acre, 49.40 bushels to 48.15 bushels. On just the conventional plots, the International averaged 49.29 bushels, the competitor 48.45, almost a one-bushel difference.



Early Riser Planter from International is compared to competitive model in planting corn and soybeans under conventional, minimum and no-till conditions.

Conservation dealers listed

LANCASTER — Thirteen farm equipment dealers will be displaying planters and drills at the third annual Lancaster County Conservation Tillage Conference from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Tuesday at the Farm and Home Center.

Cooperative directors graduate

UNIVERSITY PARK — Twenty-eight directors from 18 cooperatives around the state of Pennsylvania, as well as New York and New Jersey, graduated from the first Pennsylvania Cooperative Director School in January at Penn State.

"Deciding to come to this Cooperative Director School will be one of those decisions that will benefit you for many years," said Samuel H. Smith, dean of the College of Agriculture at Penn State, at the graduation ceremony held at the Nittany Lion Inn. "Committing five days of your valuable time to this probably seemed like a rather large commitment. But, this was your chance to learn some techniques that will help you as directors and managers improve profitability and improve the quality of farm and fural life in Pennsylvania."

Directors are elected to provide leadership to their cooperative. "Many times during your term of office you are faced with a dual challenge," said Smith. "First you were elected to represent the membership of the cooperative. Second, you are changed by law with the duty to conduct business reasonably. I hope this school has helped you meet today's increasingly complex business challenges"

Howard Thoele, Associate Dean, represented the College of Agriculture in presenting plaques to each director confirming his successful completion of the training. Chester Heim, Deputy State Secretary of Agriculture, speaking for Secretary Hallowell, said, "Cooperatives play a key role in keeping Pennsylvania at the forefront of agricultural marketing and production activities in the United States. Leaders of these businesses must recognize their responsibilities and opportunities as directors in maintaining sound organizations if Pennsylvania is to continue as a leading agricultural state."

The school was sponsored by the College of Agricultural at Penn State, and the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture with the cooperation of the Pennsylvania Association of Farmer Cooperatives (PAFC).

It was taught by a faculty of eight people from cooperatives and the College of Agriculture. Subject matter was covered in two phases over a five-day period in December and January Including 12 major topics, Phase I emphasized the area of "The Director & The Board". Phase II emphasized "Board/Management Relationships" and included nine managers of sponsoring cooperatives.

The Cooperative Director School will be held annually. The topics and sessions will be geared to the needs of directors who have been newly elected to their boards and to those who have served over a period of years. There are over 1,000 directors serving on boards of Pennsylvania's cooperatives eligible to benefit from ths unique learning experience

NE fruit meeting Monday

CHINCHILLA -- The Northeast Regional Fruit Growers meeting will be held on Monday starting at 10 a.m. in the Ramada Inn at Chinchilla. Arranged by the Lackawanna County Horticultural Association the program will include Extension specialists from Penn State.

Robert Tetrault, Extension entomologist, will provide information on tree fruit insect identification as well as review the insect control recommendations for 1984.

Copies of the Extension publication, Tree Fruit Production Guide for 1984, will be available at the meeting which will also qualify as a training session for growers who need recertification as private applicators of restricted use pesticides.

Robert Tetrault

Also on the program will be Robert Crassweller, Extension pomologist at Penn State speaking on trost protection for small orchards and James Travis, Extension plant pathologist, explaining the newest methods and materials for disease control in tree fruits.

Lunch will be served at the Ramada Inn but reservations are not necessary. For further information, call the Lackawanna County Cooperative Extension at 961-4761.

Agway tests water

SYRACUSE, N.Y. — Although the northeastern United States has enjoyed some of the best drinking water in the world, there are now many instances where contaminants are finding their way into water systems.

Agway has introduced six different in-home water treatment systems that can do everything from removing bad taste and odors to removing suspected toxic substances where a problem exists. The first step for the farmer or homeowner is to have an analysis made of the water.

Joseph Sega of New Milford, Pa. has earned a Certificate of Clean Water Specialist following an extensive two-day training period at the Agway Training Center in Syracuse, NY. Instructors who are leaders in the water treatment field demonstrated proper testing of utility and drinking water through advanced chemistry and computers, recommendations for the most efficient and economical equipment to remedy water problems which are found, in proper installation and service of the most advanced water treatment equipment available. Participants also learned the causes of repercussions of water pollution.

Homeowners and farmers can have their water tested with the new Agway water analyzer to determine any impurities it may contain. The water analyzer is actually spectrophotometer, a highly sophisticated analysis tool which shoots a beam of light through the water sample and provides an accurate accounting of what substances and in what quantities are involved. The Agway water analyzer not only identifies water problems, it also recommends a solution.

Pups to be awarded

Labrador pups will be the prizes in an unusual sweepstakes being conducted by S & L Tractors of North America through its SAME dealers through April 30. Entries are available at participating dealers, who are also demonstrating SAME 2WD and 4WD air-cooled diesel tractors.

Acid rain meeting slated

HARRISBURG — Stony, Clarks and Rattling Creeks are among seven Dauphin County trout streams that are vulnerable to further impacts of acid precipitation. Research conducted by the Pennsylvania Fish Commission has found acid precipitation to be a substantial foe to Pennsylvania's waterways.

Frederick Johnson, the Water Resources Coordinator with the Pennsylvania Fish Commission, will be one of six participants for a panel discussion on acid rain. Other experts presenting their views include: Professor William Sharpe, Penn State; Jeff Schmidt, Pa., Sierra Club; Richard Janoso, Pennsylvnaia Power & Light Company and Richard Kerch, manager of Air Quality with the Consolidation Coal Company.

"Acid Rain" sponsored by the Dauphin County Conservation District as the third and final program of its Conservation Symposium Series, starts at 7:30 p.m. on Wednesday in the Lower Paxton Township Building, 75 S. Houcks Road, Harrisburg.

Dauphin County's soil types and composition of bedrock are the opposite of what is needed for neutralization of the low pH, or acidification of current precipitation. Studies have shown Pennsylvania's average rainfall maintains a low pH of 4.0 to 4.1, a thousand times that of neutral water. Streams, lakes and rivers in the entire northeastern United States in future years may succomb to a silent death from aicd precipitation.

Where does it come from? What is it? What does it harm? and What is industry and government doing to stop it? There are questions the experts will answer on Wednesday.

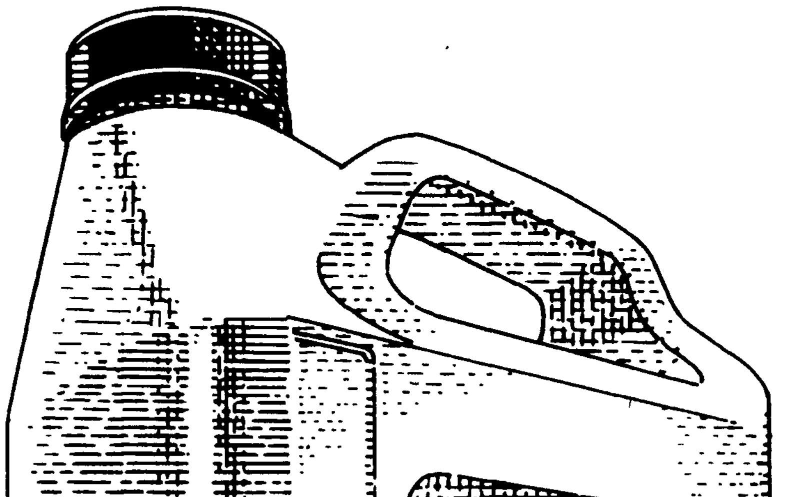
Bicep®

The one that does more and helps you hold the line on cost.



It only makes sense — to use the one herbicide that can keep your herbicide costs from rising while so many other costs are going up.

The cost of Bicep is especially important now — when you need the kind of double-duty weed control Bicep affords: to bring idle acres back into weed-free, high-yielding production.

And the high performance of Bicep gives you the alternative to tank mixes — the one herbicide that controls both grasses and broadleafs without the trouble of tank mixing.

Get the easy-to-use-liquid, no carryover to soybeans, full-season control of Bicep.

Farm Talk

Jerry Webb

Delaware Extension

When you talk with farmers about retirement, you get some really interesting reactions. As a group, farmers seem to be less prepared for that eventual day than almost any other segment of society. After all there is no mandatory age and you're talking about retiring from a business rather than a job.

Many of the farmers I've checked with on this topic have no plans at all when it comes to hanging it up. It's a reality they're aware of, but simply haven't faced. The exception to that seems to be those farmers who have family involved in the business. In those cases there's usually a plan, well thought out or otherwise, that describes how someday when the owner-operator retires, the younger family member takes over

Part of the great American agricultural dream involves a successful farmer bringing his children and/or their spouses into the business – guiding them along as they develop toward the time when the farmer himself can start taking it a little easier. The father-son partnership is as traditional on American farms as bales of hay, and I would guess that 9 out of 10 of today's young farmers are either farming with one of more prents, have taken over an operation upon the parents' retirement, or have inherited a farm. After all, in today's high dollar farming there aren't many other ways to get started.

But what about the farmers who don't have sons or sons-in-law or whose offspring don't want to farm? What are they doing about retirement? In general, I would say not much. I recall a conversation with two brothers, both very successful, large-scale operators, who farm in partnership with no obvious replacements when it comes their time to retire. When asked, both agreed that they had no plants for retirement In fact, they don't even intend to retire.

I suppose to die with one's overalls on in the midst of corn planting would be a glorious way to go, but it's not very realistic.

Over the past 50 years when today's older farmers were ing and trade, there wasn't much consideration given to retirement For many of those years, farmers couldn't afford retire. In fact, they worked until they became disabled, physically or mentally, and then a loving, caring family member took over where they left off

But it's a different financial game these days and a farmer can't simply work until he's too old and then turn everything over to someone else without paying a heavy financial price. A sensible solution to retirement and to the eventual turning over of a commercial farm requires a lot of time and consideration. And it's certainly not something that can be left until the main man is in his seventies or eighties to decide for himself he's no longer able to make it to the tractor seat.

Those farmers who have been at least moderately successful and who have someone else to take their place should be giving more thought to retirement. It's good for them and it's good for the next generation. And it's certainly not a death sentence. There are so many things farmers can do in retirement if they'll give it some thought and get unhitched from the idea that the farm won't work without them.

Retiring from farming may be as simple as turning over the physical work to someone else while retaining mangement control. Or it may be as extreme as moving away and leaving the entire operation to the next generation.

Some farmers retire by taking an off-farm job that gives them income and keeps them busy while continuing to live on the farm

Whatever the mode of retirement, there needs to be a clear-cut conscious decision where the farmer turns over certain tasks and makes certain commitments. Otherwise, he really isn't retiring. And that isn't fair to himself or to his replacement

Calibration workshop set

NEWARK, Del. — Corn planting time is fast approaching. How good a job of seeding will you do this year? "Decisions made at planting time may well affect the results at harvest," says University of Delaware extension agricultural engineer Tom Williams. Some crops have the ability to compensate for poor planting practices, but most do best when they are seeded uniformly.

Planting was one of the first operations to be mechanized. The first corn planter, patented in 1839, allowed farmers to plant without stooping. Today a farmer can plant a 30-foot-wide swath at 5 mph while riding in an air conditioned tractor cab and relying on electronic monitors to tell hime everything is working.

Planting can consist of applying dry or liquid fertilizer beside the row, granular insecticide in the seed furrow or beside the row, opening a seed furrow, metering seed at a uniform rate, placing treated seed at a uniform depth with good seed-to-seed contact for fast germination, and covering the seed for protection. Spraying of herbicides çan also be accomplished at the same time. Having all these materials coming out of the planter at the intended rates under varying conditions can be critical, and depends on proper calibration of all metering mechanisms, Williams says.

A calibration workshop to demonstrate proper calibration techniques will be held at the Delaware State Fairgrounds on Route 13 in Harrington, on Thursday, March 1, beginning at 10 a.m. Corn planters, row fertilizer, granular applicators, grain drills, PTO and ground-driven sprayers will be covered, as well as dry fertilizer applicators and chemigation pumps.

Chester-Del. Pomona plans events

NORTHBROOK — Marshall Haws of the Chester County Soil Conservation District was the speaker at the regular meeting of Chester-Delaware Pomona Grange #3 Feb. 11 at Marshallton Grange Hall in Northbrook.

The District was organized in 1947 to make the technical services of the Federal Soil Conservation Service available to Chester County Farmers. The District works in the urban sector as well as in agriculture to slow the runoff and erosion of topsoil. In addition, the District is co-operating to build flood control dams along the Brandywine, which also serve as recreation areas and water supplies.

Several items of business were covered, including the appointment of Henry Huber, George Maule and Harold Rennard to arrange for displays by the Pomona at Goshen and Kimberton Fairs this summer. Applications for the 4-H and FFA Awards have been distributed and must be returned by April 1. The Awards will be presented at the annual Legislative Banquet April 28 at the Wagontown Fire Hall. Chester County's legislators and Commissioners have been invited to attend this event at which we present the Grange position on important current issues.

Master Terry Murray explained the offer by Hanover Foods to sell frozen vegetables to Grangers for wholesale prices in lots of full or half cases. It is hoped that the truck can begin to make Saturday stops at several Grange Halls in the county as soon as orders can be collected and other details arranged.

The Pomona will sponsor a Food Handler's Recertification Course March 21 at Marshallton Grange Hall. It is free for Grangers who need to be recertified, but others may attend for a fee of $6. Anyone wishing to attend should pre-register by calling 696-3125.

Kimberton and East Lynn Granges tied to win the Net Gain Award by admitting 8 new members each during 1983.

Contest winners included mushrooms: Carroll Pratt, London Grove; corn, 10 ears; 1, Horace Prange, Russellville; 2, Hoopes Yarnall, Russellville; 3, George Maule, Fernwood; single ear: 1, Horace Prange; 2, Stanley Rothenberger, Russellville; 3, Hoopes Yarnall.

Apple pie: 1, Alice Shoemaker, Marshallton; 2, Betty Spotts, Russellville; 3, Melanie Murray, Russellville; spiced pumpkin pie: 1, Elaine Cook, Brandywine; 2, Betsy Huber, Goshen; 3, Mary Louise Maule, Fernwood.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Holloway and Ms. Dorothy Stauffer of Lancaster Pomona were the judges.

The next regular meeting will be held at Russellville Grange Hall on April 14, when members will display their handicrafts.

Brockett's Ag Advice

By John E. Brockett
Farm Management Agent
Lewistown Extension Office

Preparing For 1984 Taxes

As a farmer you have 3 choices on when to pay your 1984 Federal Income Tax. You can file quarterly estimates in April, June, September and January (most self employed people must do this). You can file a one time estimate by January 15, 1985. Or you can file your final return by March 1, 1985 with no estimates.

Estimates

There may be advantages to filing estimates. Quarterly estimates mean paying smaller amounts more often - some people find this easier. Both types of estimates give you until April 15 to file your final tax return if you pay in enough.

Of course, there are definite advantages to filing by March 1. You can save your money thru the year as a sort of self imposed wihtholding and earn interest on it You only have to mess with income tax work once. You have tax filing out of the way before planting season starts.

How To File A Tax Estimate

For quarterly estimates get form 1040ES. There is only one blank to fill out (the amount you will pay). You also must fill in the section for your name and address. The 1040ES has 4 parts. The first part is to send in by April 15, the second by June 15, the third by September 15, and the fourth by January 15, 1985. To determine how much to send with each part, use the 1983 tax return (use amounts from lines 40, 50 and 52). Pay 10% of that amount in April, June, and September. For January, subtract 8% of the total cost of machinery you purchased in 1984 from the amount on line 40 of the 1983 return. Then add the difference (can not be less than 0) from line 40 to the amounts on lines 50 and 52 and subtract what you paid in April, June, and September. The difference is what you would pay as your January estimate. Example: In 1983, line 40 was $2500, line 50 was $1002, line 52 was $125 for a total of $3627. Pay $363 in April, June and September for a total of $1089.

For 1984 you purchased $16,000 worth of machinery so deduct $1280 from $2500 to get a remainder of $1220. Add $1220 to $1002 and to $125 to get $2387. Since you already paid $1089 in on previous quarterly as an estimate; your January estimate would be $1258. For a one time (January) estimate, go thru the same calculations to arrive at your estimated payment that is due. Then pay the total amount in January. Example: Same farm as before: total 1983 tax was $3627, 8% of machinery purchases is $1280 so tax estimate due is $2347. Remember you can not use more investment credit (the 8%) than you have federal income tax due.

A Self Withholding Plan

Farmers should prepare now for taxes that must be paid a year from now. Why? Let's start off with a 11.3% self employment social security tax. Then add 2.45% state tax plus 1% local earned income tax. That becomes a 14.75% tax before the federal income tax is paid. How can you prepare?

1. Put 12% of your 1983 tax (federal income tax, social security tax, state tax, and local earned income tax) in a savings account every month starting in March. You should use a money market fund or account to get as much interest as possible.

2. Put 20% of the proceeds in excess of $40,000 from the sale of land, cattle, buildings, or any other capital asset, into the same account.

3. Put 15% of the proceeds from PIK commodities that were sold in 1984 into the same account.

4. If you signed up for the milk diversion program, put 10% of the quarterly payment into the same account.

This account will work the same as withholding does for people working in industry. The one difference will be that you will earn the interest on the money instead of the government lenders. If you over pay into it, use the money as an instant refund. That means pay off some bills, spend it, invest it, or leave if in for 1985's taxes. One word of caution - do not count on investment credit covering your tax bill. Besides the 14.75% of earned income you may be tripped up with the alternative minimum tax if you have capital sales in excess of $40,000. (that is a guaranteed minimum tax of 20% on income over $40,000).

Corn Clinic on March 5

DUNMORE — The annual N.E. Regional Corn Clinic will be held Monday, March 5, from 10 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. at the Penn State Worthington Scranton Campus, Dunmore. The event, sponsored by the Penn State Agricultural Extension Service in cooperation with area farm supply dealers will feature educational presentations as well as commercial displays.

Educational speakers will include Joseph McGahen, Douglass Beagle, Richard Adams and Thomas Lanini, Penn State Extension specialists. They will discuss such topics as corn fertilization, weed control, a report of the 1983 Penn State corn research trials, and feeding grain mixture to dairy cattle.

Lunch will be served at the meeting site. Lunch tickets and reservations can be made by contacting any Agricultural Extension Office in Northeastern Pennsylvania.

Farm supply dealers interested in participating in the Corn Clinic should contact John Creighton, County Extension Director, Wayne County Extension Service, Courthouse, Honesdale.

MAKE MORE MILK. CUT FEED COST. OR BOTH!

ASK ME TO BALANCE YOUR MILK COW RATIONS BY COMPUTER. ON YOUR FARM. IN MINUTES. FREE!

Formulating dairy rations by computer makes sense.

A properly programmed computer can make complicated calculations in a second or two. It can take into consideration nutritive values of all the things cows eat and tell you how much of each ingredient to feed to answer your cows' body maintenance and milk production needs.

But, a computer is expensive. It takes skilled, trained nutritionists to set up the program and a specialized operator to make it work.

With McNess' Maxi-Milk™ program you can use our computer . . free. There's no waiting period.

You tell me how big your cows are, what you're feeding (or would like to feed), how much milk you expect your cows to produce.

I'll make one phone call . . from your phone . and show you a better, more productive lower cost way to feed your cows!

Call me. Today.

Hazardous waste forum to be held March 27

LEWISBURG — Farmers and agribusiness representatives will want to attend a "forum" on March 27 at the Sheraton Inn, Danville Exit of I-80. Both groups as well as many others may have hazardous wastes to dispose of and thus have an interest in hazardous waste management in Pennsylvania and in the Susquehanna Region.

The purpose of the all-day session is to provide a forum for positive discussion about hazardous waste; and an opportunity for citizens, government officials, business and industry representatives to share their interests and concerns and to discuss needed cooperation and possible solutions.

Representatives from citizens' groups, government and industry will make up panels to present information on what positive actions are being taken in their area. The format of the meeting will allow all participants an opportunity to interact and share common concerns and ideas with panel members.

Attorney Franklin Kury, a former legislator and environmental issues advocate, will be the keynote speaker.

The program will begin at 9 a.m. and continue until 3 p.m. It is sponsored by Penn State and its County Cooperative Extension Service. Co-sponsors are Pennsylvania Environmental Research Foundation; Danville, Lewisburg and Williamsport Chapters of League of Women Voters; 6-County Rural Development Council; Susquehanna Economic Development Association; Sierra Club, Otzinachson Group; Pennsylvania Association of Township Supervisors; Pennsylvania State Association of Boroughs; and Central Pennsylvania Safety Association.

A fee will be charged for materials and lunch. To obtain registration forms or additional information contact county Cooperative Extension Service offices or call Guy Temple, Union County Extension Office, Court House, Lewisburg, PA 17837, 717-524-4461, Ext. 57.
